Ethics At Low Ebb - - - -

Ethics are at a low ebb in this country when school teachers vow to defy a court order to end a strike. Instructors in Harford county did just that the other day when an injunction was obtained through the courts ordering them to end a strike.

An instructor certainly should be an example to his or her students, particularly in the realm of respect in obeying the law. When a teacher vows that he will not obey the law, what conclusion would a normal student reach? Just obey the laws you favor.

The same parallel is true of miners, workers in industry and other areas, who not only openly defy the law of the land but show a tendency to destroy the property of others. A similar event occurred among Pittsburgh schools not too long ago. When loyalty to an organization or a union is above loyalty to government of law, then we repeat that our ethics are at a low ebb and we are in danger of anarchy.

Harford county teachers apparently relented and settled their differences but the original statement wasn't retracted.

Open defiance of law and order should not be condoned under any circumstance.

Grantsville Man Killed Yesterday

A 77-year-old Grantsville area man was killed Wednesday afternoon about 3:10 in a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of Route 495 and Jennings Road.

Stanley Evan Crowe, of Route 2, Grantsville, was operating a 1968 Ford south on Jennings Road and attempted to turn south on Route 495. His vehicle was struck broadside and sheared in two by a 1974 International dump truck operated by Taylor Mark Sines, 22, Route 5, Oakland. The truck overturned after the impact but the driver was apparently not injured.

According to the state police who investigated, Tfc. G. D. Broadwater and Cpl. S. M. Russell, Mr. Crowe apparently failed to grant the right of way to the dump truck which was loaded with coal.

An autopsy was performed on the victim at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, at the request of Dr. James A. Feaster, Garrett County Medical Examiner. The body was taken to Newman Funeral Home in Grantsville by members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

No further information on Mr. Crowe or funeral arrangements was available at presstime.

A 4-year suspended sentence was given to a man for assault and battery by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., in Circuit Court last Friday.

Harry Craver, Swanton, pleaded guilty of assault and battery on his wife, Shirley Y. Craver, last December in Swanton. He was first sentenced to the Commissioner of Correction for four years. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation under supervision for an undetermined period. He is to abide by the rules and regulations of the Department of Parole and Probation. He is to support his wife and two minor children and not to contact his wife directly or indirectly for any reason.

The case was transferred from District Court.

Man Gets 20 Years On Murder Charge Tuesday

A Pennsylvania man who pleaded guilty of second degree murder at a trial in March was given twenty years in the Penitentiary by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., in Circuit Court, Tuesday.

Richard E. Fox, 42, Scottsdale, Pa., pleaded guilty of second degree murder of his wife Jane N. Fox at a trial March 29 before the court. Judge Hamill ordered a presentence investigation at that time. Fox was sentenced to the Commissioner of Correction for 20 years to begin as of last September 9.

At the March trial he pleaded not guilty of first degree murder. When the charge was changed to second degree murder, he then pleaded guilty.

The charge was for the drowning death of his wife, Jane N. Fox at Deep Creek Lake, May 20, 1975.

174 Pints Blood Given Last Week

The Oakland Red Cross unit was credited with obtaining 174 pints of blood at the regular visit of the Johnstown bloodmobile unit to Oakland last Friday. Twenty-five of the number had given blood at the hospital in April. Actually 149 were obtained at Friday's meeting in the Oakland fire hall. Quota for the period was 135 pints.

There were five one-gallon donors, two two-gallon donors, one three-gallon donor and one four-gallon donor.

The statistics showed 200 persons were scheduled, 165 kept their appointments; there were 32 first time donors and 26 persons gave their blood as replacements. There were 16 rejects.

Four gallon donor was Harold G. Bittinger, south of Oakland. Three gallon donor was Reland Roy, Oakland. Two gallon donors were Catherine Sullivan, Deer Park; Winifred Sisler, Oakland. One gallon donors included Foster Lewis, Crellin; Raymond DeVone, Oakland; Joyce Bishoff, Friendsville; Krista Upperman, Swanton; and Ben Ridder, Oakland.

51 Get Diplomas Saturday From Garrett College

Fifty-one students stepped forward Saturday morning to receive degrees at Garrett Community College's fourth and largest commencement ceremonies.

Rev. William Carlson, pastor for Accident Evangelical Lutheran Church, gave the invocation. Dr. Alfred C. O'Connell, president of the college, welcomed all present and introduced Herbert G. Harman, chairman of the college board of trustees, who gave the commencement address.

Mr. Harman noted that since this was the fourth graduating class from the school, evidently the college is here to stay. He also stated that any and all can benefit by the courses offered. People must have facts to use in order to use their thinking processes, and he noted that with facts, people can then solve problems. He invited the graduates to join in solving the long-term problems such as pollution which are facing the nation.

Graduating with honors were Lou Ann Holland, Garry Fitzwater, Jeffrey Ashenfelter, Diane Barry, Frank Carlisle, Barry Domenick, Paul W. Hoye, Jr., and Darla Fike.

Graduating with high honors were Jack King, Pamela Biser, Brenda Broadwater, Harriet Buckel, Dale Custer, Fayann Lewis Saturday, Linda Shuttleworth, Robert Crone, Kathleen Russell, Geraldine Teats, and W. Bruce Taliaferro.

Receiving the faculty awards for contributions to the school through leadership and initiative were James John Metzger and Robert Crone. Each received $100 and a plaque. Pamela Biser was presented the Board of Trustees award for obtaining the highest grade point average, 3.98 out of a possible 4.0. Jan W. Janssen, dean of students, presented awards.

A musical intermission was provided by the college chorus, directed by John Yoder. Rev. Dr. Lawrence Sherwood, pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, gave the benediction.

The group then adjourned to the college grounds for formal grandbreaking ceremonies for the Vocational Technical building.

Rev. John A. Grant, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, gave the invocation. Dr. O'Connell spoke briefly, noting that the total cost of the building would exceed $500,000, and expressing gratitude to the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Board of County Commissioners and the college for help with the project.

Mr. Harman then spoke on behalf of the Board of Trustees, pointing out that in GROUNDBREAKING WAS MADE EASY for the Vocational-Technical Center at Garrett Community College Saturday, since bulldozers and other machinery had already begun the "heavy" work. Participating in the ceremonies were Rev. John Grant, who gave the invocation; Dr. Alfred O'Connell, president of the college; Herbert Harman, chairman of the college board of trustees and commencement speaker; Wayne Hamilton, representing the Board of County Commissioners; and Richard A. Jackard, representing the contractors for the building. Jackard Construction donated a special shovel for use in the ceremonies. The building is expected to be completed by September.

Voters Reject Elected Board Of Education

County voters on Tuesday turned down a referendum question for an elected five-member Board of Education to take the place of an appointed one. The unofficial vote was 1,915 votes against the elected school board, and 1,665 votes in favor.

Eight voting precincts favored the elected board, Avilton, Crellin, Elbow, Deer Park, Finzel, Sang Run, Friendsville and Swanton, but the vote against the elected board took place in Grantsville, Jennings, Bloomington, Accident, East Oakland, Ryan's Glade, Red House, Bittinger, Kitzmiller, west Oakland, and Mt. Lake Park.

The referendum question added some interest in the primary voting but there was hardly a 50 percent vote in all precincts. The Republican Newspaper had recommended that the bill be defeated, because of some of the provisions in the bill. The local radio had urged the change. A panel discussion on the question was held Sunday at Garrett Community college, sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

School Calendar For New School Year Is Set

The Garrett County Board of Education adopted a school calendar for 1976-77 allowing for 180 days of school for students and 187 work days for teachers,at the School Board Meeting last Thursday, May 13. In the calendar the first day of school for students will be Tuesday, September 7, while the first day for all teachers will be Thursday, September 2. In adopting the calendar the Board sought to provide as many full days of school for students as possible.

Some of the days listed as Professional Days may need to be used as snow days, according to Dr. William Buser, County Superintendent. It is also possible that the school year would need to be extended beyond the tentative closing date, he said.

A new feature in the calendar designed to provide as many full days of education for students as possible will be used this year. Schools will officially close for students Tuesday, June 8, 1976 at the end of the day and report cards will mailed home to students Thursday, June 10.

Wholesale prices jumped .8 percent in April.

Sarbanes Wins Over Tydings

Former U. S. Senator Joseph D. Tydings narrowly won over Paul Sarbanes for nomination to the Senate on the Democratic ticket in Garrett county, by a vote of 548 to 539, but the state voting placed Sarbanes as the nominee.

He will face U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr., in the November general election. Beall had no opposition in the Republican primary and his name did not appear on the ballot.

Allegany county favored Sarbanes with 3,865 to 2,851 for Tydings in unofficial returns. Tydings was defeated by Beall in 1970.

The scores of other also ran candidates for the U.S. Senate nomination included William Albaugh, 36 votes; Roy Chambers, 70; Monroe Cornish, 9; Walter Finch, 50; Howard Gates, 65; and David Shaw, 75.

Byron Wins Nomination In Tuesday Vote

Garrett county voters assisted materially in seeing that Goodloe Byron was renominated as the Democratic candidate for Congress from the Sixth district.

Byron defeated Dan Rupli 1,089 to 296 in the complete unofficial returns. Byron carried every county precinct by wide margins.

In other areas of the district Byron turned back a strong challenge and built up an early lead in all counties but ended up being the underdog in Allegany county. In Allegany county Rupli had 4,512 votes compared to 3,377 for Byron.

United Press and Associated Press Tuesday night declared that Byron had won renomination in the Sixth district which stretches from Garrett down to Howard county and a portion of Baltimore county.

Byron, 47, Frederick county resident, has served in the House of Representatives since 1970 and is seeking his fourth term as a congressman. Rupli, a consumer advocate, received strong support from labor groups, particularly in Allegany county.

Byron was criticized for his voting record on environmental and labor issues.

Byron will face Republican Arthur T. Bond, of Frostburg, who had no Republican opposition.

The American public was buying 4-passenger cars 2 to 1 over larger ones.

Supporters of President Ford Are Delegates

The three elected Republican delegates named from the Sixth district were all President Ford supporters. They were Brenda Butscher, Oakland, with 11,801 votes; Donald F. Munson, Hagerstown, with 11,871 votes; and Edward Thomas, Frederick, with 11,840 votes.

Nineteen more delegates are to be selected as at large delegates for the state.

Elected delegates to the Democratic national convention from the sixth district were five men pledged to Jimmy Carter, who lost in Maryland to Gov. Edmund Brown, Jr., of California.

Gov. Brown did not have a slate of delegates in Maryland, as he entered the race at the last minute. Delegates were John P. Corderman, James Clark, Thomas Finan, Jr., Paula Hollinger and Ronald N. Young. Mr. Finan resides in Cumberland.

Museum To Open

The Garrett County Historical museum will open on Monday, June 7, instead of June 1st, as was announced previously, because of rearranging of artifacts and opening the lower floor for viewing.

Among artifacts newly acquired are from the bequest of Viola Broadwater and from the Edison Foundation, a phonograph, an 1872 typewriter, also a first patented incandescent electric bulb and many more items.

Ford, Brown Take Maryland

President Gerald Ford beat Ronald Reagan in both the Michigan and Maryland Republican primaries Tuesday, boosting his flagging campaign.

He held a good lead in both states, and Garrett county voters assisted by giving him 1,392 votes to 1,091 for Reagan. President Ford picked up all 43 convention delegates.

Democrats gave Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr., of California, the nod over James Carter for the democratic nomination for president. In this county Carter easily outdistanced Brown by a vote of 1,053 to 471. Other Democratic candidates didn't fare too well. Harris got 27, Jackson 26, McCormick 18, Udall, 88, and Wallace 161.

Carter had predicted that he might lose to Brown but that it would not have any serious effect on his effort.

In the state Udall had 5 percent of the vote and Wallace had about 4 percent.

Also in the state on the Republican side Ford led Reagan by a margin of 66,938 to 49,220.

Voting was light for delegates to both Republican and Democratic national conventions. Figures are unofficial but complete. There are 112 absentee ballots that will be added to the totals today when the official count will be taken.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The week of May 16-22nd is "National Volunteer Week." This week has been set aside to recognize the many volunteer community leaders throughout the Nation. The Garrett County Extension Staff especially recognizes the Volunteer Leaders throughout Garrett County. Without their dedication and cooperation the many Extension programs could not exist. Estimates up to 500 leaders are involved in various stages of program support. The 4-H & Youth programs and the Homemakers programs, along with the many Agricultural Commodity groups are good examples of volunteer leadership.

We in Extension salute all Volunteers for their special efforts in human and community development.

Huskies Defeat Allegany 7 to 6

Ken Sines smacked a three-run homer in the last of the sixth inning and Dave Bender shut down a late rally in the seventh as Northern High Huskies snapped an 11-game Allegany winning streak with a 7 to 6 win on the Huskies diamond last Friday.

Northern had scored four times in the first inning before a man was retired to take a lead they never lost.

Keith Miller opened with a single, Don Paugh walked, Bender rapped a two-run double and scored on a single by Ed Sisler and then Sisler tallied on a Sines single.

Allegany battled back on homers by Bucky Cecil, losing pitcher, Bob Keyser and Kevin Brown but Northern held on for its ninth win of the season in 12 games played.

Playing for Northern were K. Miller, Paugh, Bender, Sisler, Sines, Workman, T. Miller, Butler and Lipscomb.

Emurian spoke on the "S in U.S.A." bringing out songs, slogans and the spirit of the country, especially freedom of worship and the work ethic. The audience sang a special Bicentennial hymn written by Rev. Emurian, who received a standing ovation at the conclusion of his talk.

The engineers held various meetings throughout Thursday and Friday, until the dinner Friday evening which preceded Rev. Emurian's address. Women who accompanied their spouses to the convention were given a tour of county historic sites Friday, conducted by Tim Dugan of the county planning office.

This was a return engagement to the county for Rev. Emurian who addressed a firemen's group here several years ago. Wayne B. Hamilton and Harold (Buddy) Hamilton coordinated the event.

Sheriff's Dept. Checks Cases, Makes Arrests

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's office spent a busy week investigating some new crimes and wrapping up cases on earlier thefts.

Among those arrested were Gary Boyce, 20, of Kitzmiller, who has been charged with breaking, entering and larceny in connection with a case at the Kitzmiller school. Several juveniles will also be charged in the various incidents of thefts and breakings and enterings at the school over the past two years. Deputy D. W. Tucker and Van Evans, assisted by chief deputy Frank Finch, are investigating.

Ronald Wayne Casteel, 22, of Freindsville, has been charged with receiving stolen property in connection with a breaking, entering and larceny at the UMW Clover Farm Store in Friendsville last January 13. A 17-year-old juvenile from Friendsville will be charged with the breaking and entering. Chief deputy Finch was in charge of this investigation.

The sheriff's office is requesting that anyone with any information concerning the destruction of 22 mailboxes on the Glendale Road between May 14 and 15 call the office. Mailboxes were torn from supports and otherwise damaged in the incident which is under investigation by Deputy Frank Finch.

Several larcenies were reported through the past week. Andy Baker, Swallow Falls, reports that a Homelite Chain saw X400 was taken from his property between May 12 and 18. Frank Finch is investigating.

Steven N. Gibson, Route 2, Oakland, a part-time employe of Gibson's Store in Crellin, reported larceny of money from a Pepsi machine in front of the store on May 17. Approximately $24 was taken. Deputy Truman Paugh was assigned to this investigation.

Leroy Stewart, 108 Second, Loch Lynn, reported larceny of an American Hardware white lawn mower, a blue-green 24-inch boy's bicycle and a three-speed boy's bicycle from his property. Frank Finch is in charge.

Four breakings and enterings and larcenies were also under checks by the deputies this week. George Fogle, Mill Run Road, reported that between May 11 and 14, someone had taken a portable television and radio from his home. Deputy Harland Tichnell is investigating.

Francis Carrillo, Rock Lodge Road, reported that a lock had been pried from the door of his home, but nothing apparently was taken. Deputy Frank Finch is investigating.

Listen Americans!

by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

Bicentennial Message

Four decades ago, this nation was flooded with Socialist ideas—the overall plan of Utopia, the "planned economy." Federal agencies controlling the economic life of the nation became so numerous they were designated only by the use of the alphabet. In the midst of what came to be called The Great Depression, there was launched in America a most determined effort to change the very basis of our system of government. Taking advantage of the dire circumstances of the depression, a group of "social planners" attached themselves to our national government in Washington and the war to destroy the "inalienable rights" of Americans began making progress for the first time.

The bureaucrats were empowered to take control over the production of farms. Farmers were paid for not growing crops. Pigs, cattle and sheep were slaughtered to satisfy the planners. All this during a time of "breadlines" and starvation. The slogan, "Tax, spend and elect" was the battle cry of the era to accomplish their Socialistic programs. The power to tax was the instrument to render dependent those who were not impoverished by the depression. The power to spend was the instrument to render dependent those who were impoverished. The power to tax and spend was a big help to reelect those in charge of the government at the time. This is clear from the following statement from the book entitled, Taxation For Prosperity, by Randolph E. Paul, Under Secretary of the Treasury at that time:

"Why do we have a Federal tax system? In answering this question we shall do well to break with tradition and think with open minds. The first item of business is to reject the gospel that taxes are for revenue only...We need to look at taxes in a more positive way as an instrument of social and economic control wholly apart from the fiscal-making revenue yield, only part of the objective." Listen further to this Socialistic philosophy..."The point is that taxes may be imposed, wholly apart from their revenue-producing qualities, to achieve desired effects on particular occasions...It is the highest function of taxes to accomplish positive social or economic objectives, beyond the revenue." Listen to still more of this Socialistic thinking:

"On this higher level, taxes may be used to express public policy on the distribution of wealth and income...They may be used to penalize particular industries and economic groups..."

I affirm that the Constitution does not grant to Congress or to any bureau the right to penalize, by the taxing power, citizens who have not violated the law. Yet, the objective of the 'social planners' both in and out of government at that time was made clear by Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, by this entry in the Diary of Harold Ickes: "We are working toward a society of modified Communism" (The Los Angeles Times, 7-16-35). Despite the efforts of a few to stop this movement calculated to change the very form of our government, with only a setback here or there to slow the progress, America has continued for the past forty years on a course directly opposite to its charter of 1776.

Another President stated in 1964:

"We are going to take all the money we think is unnecessarily being spent, and take it from the 'haves' and give it to the 'havenots'. (Cong. Rec. 1964, p. 2227, White House Speech of January 16, 1964). In short, Washington Bureaucrats with the power of a Commissar, were to determine how much money of each citizen "is being unnecessarily spent."

Abraham Lincoln once said: "Any society that takes away from those most capable and gives to those least capable will perish." Following the Lincoln philosophy made America the foremost nation of the world. If we continue to follow the Randolph Paul-Harold Ickes philosophy we will wind up under a Communist oriented dictator. Which do we want?

"LIBERTY BELL" COMES TO WASHINGTON

Washington — (HK) — A 300-pound replica of the Liberty Bell made of tobacco and symbolizing North Carolina's major agricultural crop has taken its place in history at Washington's Smithsonian Institution.

The bell, donated to the Smithsonian by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., is on exhibit in "1876: A Centennial Exhibition," a major Bicentennial exhibit recreating the United States International Exposition held in Philadelphia in 1876.

Herbert R. Collins, associate curator, division of political history of the Smithsonian, said that each of the 36 states existing during the nation's centennial participated in the 1876 exposition, and that a number displayed a representative product or crop in the form of a Liberty Bell replica.

"When we decided to recreate the centennial exposition on a smaller scale, we felt that reproductions of some of the bells would add a great deal," he said. "We naturally thought of tobacco in connection with North Carolina, so we approached R. J. Reynolds about making a tobacco bell for our exhibit."

"Tobacco has played an important role in the history of both North Carolina and the entire nation," said William D. Hobbs, chairman of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco, "and we were very happy to help the Smithsonian make tobacco a part of its Bicentennial program."

200 Hours

The tobacco bell, handmade by Ms. Helen Hemric of R. J. Reynolds' art unit, required almost 700 hours to complete. Its 300 pounds of tobacco, enough to manufacture 150,000 cigarettes, is held together by more than 22 gallons of marine-quality polyester resin.

Worth over $4,000, the tobacco bell stands more than three feet high and measures in excess of nine feet around its base. It features every detail of the authentic Liberty Bell including both the crack and the raised inscription (Leviticus 25:10) around the top.

"1876: A Centennial Exhibition" will also feature other Liberty Bell replicas made from such materials as salt, wheat, soap, dried flowers and wood. The exhibit opened May 10 in the Smithsonian's Arts and Industries Building.

Improving American Justice

During October, November and December of last year, 569 of those arrested in Washington, D.C. for serious crimes were on release pending trial on other charges when arrested. An additional 402 persons arrested in Washington during the same period were, at the time, free from prison on probation, parole or conditional release.

That alarming set of statistics — which all too easily could be virtually duplicated by other high-crime cities — is cited in a footnote to a speech delivered earlier this month by Warren E. Burger, Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

Justice Burger suggested some ways American justice could be both speeded up and made more airtight to a national conference on American justice in St. Paul, Minn.

"The caseload of the United States Courts of Appeals has more than doubled since 1968 but no additional appellate judges have been provided," he said. "Pending in Congress is a four-year-old request for 65 desperately needed district and circuit judges . . . The Senate has approved 52 new judgeships, but we will have no additional judges until the House acts, although there is a near crisis situation . . ."

"I do not . . . think it subversive to ask why England, the fountainhead of all our legal institutions, found it prudent and helpful 40 years ago to abandon trials for most civil cases," said Justice Burger. He added that also worth consideration are Britain's "ideas of finality of judgments, short of three or four appeals and trials."

"The Priceless Ingredient"
Have you ever heard of "The Priceless Ingredient?" This was the headline for a very famous advertisement that first appeared in 1921. It was written for the Squibb Pharmaceutical Co. The story that followed the headline is worth repeating today for we feel its moral is very appropriate for the way we run our pharmacy and the products we carry.
In the city of Bagdad lived Hakeem, the Wise One, and many people went to him for counsel, which he gave freely to all, asking nothing in return.
There came to him a young man, who had spent much but got little, and said: "Tell me, Wise One, what shall I do to receive the most for that which I spend?"
Hakeem answered: "A thing that is bought or sold has no value unless it contains that which cannot be bought or sold. Look for the Priceless Ingredient."
"But what is this Priceless Ingredient?" asked the young man.
Spoke then the Wise One: "My son, the Priceless Ingredient of every product in the market-place is the Honor and Integrity of him who makes it. Consider his name before you buy."
We hope in the months to come you will choose us to be your family pharmacy.

Many In Congress Retiring

There is a saying peculiar to the Washington, D.C., area that once you visit there, you are very likely to contract "Potomac fever" and will never want to leave. The exodus of retirees from Capitol Hill this year, however, indicates the cure for the fever may be at hand.

In 1974, the voluntary mass exodus of Members of Congress was regarded as a major political development. While more noiselessly being carried out this year, the flow is just as great as it was two years ago, reports the authoritative Congressional Quarterly magazine.

"As of mid-February, there were 34 announced departures from the House and seven from the Senate," says Congressional Quarterly in its February 21 issue. Although the total includes some who are leaving the House of Representatives to seek other political offices — chiefly the Senate — the number who are giving up the political ghost at a relatively young age is striking.

Why would a man turn his back on an exciting career that long has been the stuff of dreams — one that pays nearly $45,000 a year and has fringe benefits to make kings of old envious? Obviously there are various reasons. Some of the most interesting — and perhaps most telling — were revealed recently by one of the retirees, Rep. James F. Hastings, a New York Republican.

Hastings, 49, is voluntarily retiring after four two-year terms in the House to go into business. Hastings, $19,000 in debt and deeply frustrated over the inability of Congress to solve major national problems, told the Washington Post that "I keep hearing that all politicians are crooks and I'm trying to figure out where I missed out."

He is also bitter over the lack of appreciation among his constituents for his legislative accomplishments. "In the minds of many people, those things don't count," he said in the interview. "Number one, they are not aware of them. And number two, what's important is what I can do for them on a personal basis."

There should be a lesson in Hastings' lament — which no doubt could be echoed by many among the other retirees. One lesson is that we, the American people have indeed subjected our representatives to unrelenting criticism. Much of it has been justified, but some of it undoubtedly hasn't been. Unfortunately, such low esteem for politicians generally has driven from office some genuinely good men — along with others we won't miss. — U.S. Press Association.

World Food Picture Brighter

"Scare stories of world shortfalls and famines are not helpful — they are untrue and an overreaction. We are not approaching a time when the world must decide which nations are to survive. The future is much more hopeful."

So said Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz during his recent world trip. Speaking in Madrid, Spain, Butz explained that "at the time of the (Rome) World Food Conference in November 1974, there was enormous, almost hysterical concern about the world food situation . . . Since that conference, however, world concern has become less acute."

Five reasons Butz believes the food picture is better include:

1. A "reaction away from the 'crisis' publicity" of 1974 which exaggerated the world food problem. "It has been 18 months, and the world food situation has improved, not worsened."

2. "Record food crops in the United States in 1975 and the prospect of good crops again in 1976."

3. "A five percent increase in agricultural production by developing countries in 1975 . . ."

4. "Actions taken by governments since the World Food Conference." Among them, the U.S. has enlarged its food aid program, and other supplying countries have promised increased food aid.

5. A total $5 billion was suggested in Rome as a needed boost from donor nations to developing nations. Although it then appeared an unlikely goal, said Butz, "By the end of this year, we think that commitments from the donor nations and the new International Agricultural Development Fund will reach that $5 billion goal."

The Secretary emphasized that "this is not to say that the world has solved its food problem." World food stocks remain low, production this year is off somewhat, and population trends indicate the world will have to nearly double its food output by the end of the century to feed all its people.

Yet there is hope in the fact that, as Butz points out, nations have the capacity and — more important perhaps — the will to mutually commit a portion of their resources to helping solve this dilemma which has hung over man since the beginning of time. — U.S. Press Association.

When Is a Taxi Ride Not a Luxury?

By Harriet Miller

Unless you can remember riding in a horse-drawn carriage, or having an old Model T Ford backfire as you cranked it by hand, you probably cannot fully appreciate the transportation revolution experienced by Americans 65 years of age or older.

Harriet Miller

They gladly surrendered the "good old days" to embrace each new technological advance and, like most of us, have come to prize mobility as an almost inherent right of citizenship.

When age, infirmity or poverty denies them access to individual, independent means of transportation, the loss is particularly exasperating, for we most value that which has been gained and lost.

To meet their needs, many communities have launched reduced-fare programs on public bus systems. But, what good is a reduced fare when your destination is off the beaten path?

A two-year experiment currenly underway in Danville, Ill., is attempting to determine whether subsidizing the use of taxis might hold the key to solving at least one aspect of this problem. It is an experiment which holds promising implications for passengers of all ages.

Under a $314,530 grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, people over 65 and handicapped persons of all ages are eligible to travel by taxi — and to have the federal government pay between 66 and 76 percent of their fare up to approximately $20 a month.

Since taxis are frequently regarded as a somewhat luxurious means of travel, it may seem strange to think of them as recipients of government subsidies. However, what may be a luxury when a less expensive option is available can become a necessity when there are no adequate alternatives.

Many — if not most — forms of public transportation are subsidized to varying degrees by the governments of the geographic areas in which they operate. Some are even owned by the public they serve. Thus, if taxis represent the most efficient means of transportation for a particular community — or some segment of that community — then there may be good reason to subsidize their use.

The Danville experiment is the latest in an ongoing series of programs designed to test the usefulness of what transportation planners refer to as "demand-activated" systems. The chief advantages of these systems — in which vehicles respond to individual requests rather than following a fixed route on a regular schedule — tend to be their flexibility and their ability to cope with a variety of situations.

The most popular and expensive-to-operate of these new systems is "dial-a-ride," which proliferated in communities across the country during the past six years. Utilizing vans and minibuses in a cross between a bus and taxi service, its operating costs run in the range of $5 a ride compared to approximately $1.80 a trip for Danville's subsidized taxi service and 80 cents for a bus.

One explanation for the cost disparity between dial-a-ride and taxis might be that most taxi systems have been in existence for years and need only to have certain riders' fares subsidized. Dial-a-ride systems, on the other hand, require substantial initial investments in the purchase of larger vehicles plus continued subsidization of operating costs.

As a result, many dial-a-ride systems are now suffering severe financial problems that have forced some to reduce or even terminate their service. Coming at a time when passenger usage is at its highest, these difficulties stem not from a lack of utilization, but from the systems' inherently high operating costs.

Until six years ago, Danville — a city of 43,500 residents 130 miles south of Chicago — had a small, money-losing bus company. When local voters rejected a proposal to subsidize the line, it went out of business, and Danville became one of the largest cities in Illinois — and possibly even the United States — without a public transit system.

Although it has only been in operation since late last year, the test has already proven that — at least in a community as large as Danville — taxis alone are not an adequate substitute for a conventional bus system. However, it has also demonstrated the essential value of taxis as a means of demand-activated transportation for people who are not going where and when everyone else is. For this reason, it's an experiment whose progress other communities might well be interested in following.

Capitol Comment

By Senator
Charles McC. Mathias Jr.

Senator Mathias, an initial sponsor of the legislation that created the Senate Intelligence Committee, emphasized this week as the Committee's final report was released, the need for restraint, accountability, and oversight in United States intelligence activities.

Mathias said the executive agencies must work closely with the Congress "to assure that our intelligence system operates effectively, accountably, and under the governance of constitutional processes."

"Inherent contradictions are created when secret activities are permitted within a democratic society," Mathias said in supplemental views to the Committee report.

"It is my belief that the failure to assure accountability through constitutional processes has jeopardized the integrity of our democratic institutions," Mathias said.

Mathias, who first proposed creation of a Senate Intelligence Committee with Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), the Senate Majority Leader, in October, 1974, said:

"I share the view of the Committee that if we become 'more ruthless than the enemy' — the U. S. will lose those qualities which distinguish a free society from a totalitarian regime.

"It is my belief that restraints are possible and can be exercised in ways that are both consistent with the needs of national security and with our constitutional processes."

"The information obtained through intelligence activities is important to government at all policy and operational levels," the Maryland Senator declared.

"I share the view of the Committee that the U. S. must continue to undertake some secret intelligence activities. They are vital to our national security.

"Certain activities, however, should be prohibited. In the past, some intelligence activities have had the effect of eroding our processes of government, have violated our principles, ideals, and reputation, and have damaged our ability to exercise moral and ethical leadership throughout the world.

"The fundamental issue facing the Congress and the issue that particularly confronts the Committee is to decide how secret activities which are agreed to be necessary are to be governed by our democratic institutions."

Mathias said he supports the Committee's determination that the executive and legislative branches jointly decide which activities should be undertaken, establish a system of accountability and oversight to assure that intelligence activities are prudent and appropriate, and have full access to the analyses produced by the intelligence community.

"The availability of sound intelligence will enable the Legislature to become a partner with the Executive branch as intended by the Constitution in this vital area of national policy. A better informed Legislature can only benefit the nation," Mathias said.

Minimum standards for admission to the three military academies are being lowered as the result of an inquiry suggested by a Baltimore doctor who stands 5'1".

Dr. Kaz Kawata, an Associate Professor at the Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health, termed the height restrictions a "discrimination" and questioned in a letter to Mathias "whether those who are shorter or taller . . . make good officers."

Dr. Kawata particularly noted differences in eight standards for enlistment in the services and for appointment to their academies for officer training.

Mathias asked the Defense Department to respond to the points raised by the Baltimore doctor.

As a result of the inquiry that followed, Mathias announced, the Army is lowering the minimum height standard for admission to the Military Academy at West Point and for enlistment in the Regular Army from 66 inches to 60 inches.

Mathias said this will provide the same height standard for all men entering Army service. The minimum height standard for women entering the Army will be maintained at 58 inches.

Air Force also is changing the height regulations so there will be no difference between the standards for commissioning and enlistment. Minimum height for men at the Naval Academy has been changed to 62 inches, but may be waived to 60 inches.

Bring Back Capital Punishment

There are about 20,000 citizens murdered each year in the United States — more Americans than were killed in any year of fighting in Vietnam. The U.S. murder rate, according to the FBI, rose an incredible 42 percent from 1968 through 1973.

A not-unrelated fact: the last execution of a murderer in this country was in 1967.

The issue of capital punishment is again before the country — in the form of a reexamination of the question by the Supreme Court. The high court ruled in 1972 that capital punishment, as then practiced by the 50 states, was uneven in its consequences and hence a violation of the Eighth Amendment's prohibition against "cruel and unusual" punishment. A test case again has reached the court, however, which is expected to rule on it before the court recesses in June.

The high tribunal, in 1972, barely reached its decision, by a 5-4 vote. Since then, Justice William O. Douglas, who voted with the majority, has been replaced by Justice John Paul Stevens. Proponents of a ruling favoring capital punishment are now hopeful that Stevens will provide the margin of victory this time around.

Americans themselves increasingly have come to believe that a punishment stronger than prison is essential if the spiraling rate of violent crime in this country is ever to be coped with. In 1972, for example, 50 percent of our citizens favored capital punishment in a Gallup poll. Just two years later — in 1974 — 64 percent told Gallup they favored it.

State governments likewise have shown their strong belief that capital punishment is an essential tool of law enforcement. Since the 1972 Supreme Court action, 35 states have passed new capital punishment laws to countermand the high court.

Bleeding hearts — such as NAACP lawyer Anthony G. Amsterdam who argued the case against capital punishment last month before the Court — continue to worry more about the rights of the some 500 prisoners now on death row than about the rights of their innocent, and already dead, victims.

Those favoring capital punishment, by and large, are neither bloodthirsty nor necessarily even vengeful. Rather, they echo the view of U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork. Arguing before the Court in favor of capital punishment, Bork said recently: "There are some criminals who can't be deterred any other way." —U.S. Press Association.

Increasing numbers of young people are interested in "agri-careers" like selling and servicing farm machinery and equipment. 4-H'ers 9-19 in the national 4-H agricultural program explore career opportunities, learn practical farming skills and develop pride in agriculture. The program is sponsored by International Harvester Company and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Agri-Careers Rate High With 4-H'ers

CHICAGO — "There's a growing interest in 'agri-careers' on the part of young people in the national 4-H agricultural program," says Donald E. Osburn, director of program services, National 4-H Service Committee.

"An agri-career might mean working as a scientist or technician in a research laboratory, selling and servicing farm machinery and equipment, or acting as an agricultural advisor in a foreign country," he says.

"But whatever their career plans, 4-H'ers 9-19 in the International Harvester Company sponsored program are dedicated to the future of agriculture."

One million 4-H'ers enrolled

This year one million program members are learning for the future in a broad range of practical agricultural projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

From animal science to conservation and forestry, from commodity marketing to petroleum power, 4-H agricultural projects teach skills that contribute to more efficient, profitable farming.

Projects also encourage understanding of agriculture's importance to the economy, its relationship to environmental concerns, and its role as a business in a highly competitive market.

Members can earn awards

To recognize outstanding achievement in the program, International Harvester offers 4-H'ers a series of awards ranging from county medals to national college scholarships.

Up to four medals of honor go to 4-H members in each county. One member in each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago.

Six winners of $1,000 college scholarships will be announced during the Congress. All winners are selected by the Extension Service, with awards arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Additional information on the 4-H agricultural program is available from county extension agents.

Rams Capture Potomac Valley Golf Tourney

Southern High Rams paced by Scott Beaulieu's low round of 76 repeated as Potomac Valley conference golf champions Monday afternoon at the Maplehurst Country Club, Frostburg.

The Rams total of 339 was 25 shots better than runnerup Beall's 364 in the six team field. Six players from each team participated with the low four scores counting.

Keyser was third at 392, Moorefield finished at 398, Hampshire at 454, and Petersburg, 479.

Southern's Eric Cvetnick had an 84 for second while Jeff Orr and Beall's Randy Sines finished with 89s.

A Washington taxi driver was rewarded recently for returning a purse containing $48,000 in jewels and $500 cash.

National 4-H Health Winners Surveyed

CHICAGO Twenty percent of the 1956-1974 national 4-H health winners who responded to a recent survey said they were working at health-related jobs.

Most were employed in nursing, medicine and pharmacy. Others were laboratory technician, pharmaceutical representative and occupational therapist.

The study was conducted by the National 4-H Service Committee with the assistance of Eli Lilly and Company, donor of awards in the national 4-H health program.

Lifetime fitness

The health program is designed to prepare young people 9-19 for a lifetime of total fitness, whether or not they choose health careers. Through practical projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, more than 300,000 4-H members are learning practices and attitudes that contribute to good health—for themselves, their families and the community at large.

Basic personal hygiene, career opportunities, health maintenance and disease prevention are some of the topics explored. In group activities, 4-H clubs often team up with other organizations to pinpoint health hazards in the community and carry out improvement projects.

Incentives offered

Outstanding program members may qualify for awards donated by Eli Lilly and Company and arranged by the Service Committee.

Up to four members in each county can earn medals of honor, and a boy or girl in each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago.

Seven national winners of $800 college scholarships will be announced during Congress. All winners are selected by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment in the 4-H health program.

4-H clubs also can earn recognition from Lilly. Four clubs per county and 10 per state can win certificates for worthy 4-H health programs.

More information on the national 4-H health program is available from county extension agents.

A recent survey shows 20 percent of 1956-1974 national 4-H health winners are employed in health-related occupations. 1975 national scholarship winners — representing Georgia, Illinois, North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, New Mexico and Montana — may be just as likely to choose health careers as their predecessors. The national 4-H health program for young people 9-19 is sponsored by Eli Lilly and Company and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Both have college education. Mr. Gregg is a pharmacist in Oakland, and Mr. Zumpano has a poultry business in the northern end of the county.

New Drive for World Order

The search for some system to insure world peace has been going on as long as men and women of goodwill have existed upon the earth. Mankind has fought war after war to "end all wars," and still the search for peace goes on and one scheme after another is promoted, sometimes tried, but fails. Why?

Recently, a group of U.S. Senators and Congressmen signed a "Declaration of Interdependence" which represents another effort of mankind to find some way to the utopia of world peace. We do not fault these 124 members of the Congress for their interest in and their search for a way to insure world peace and do away with war. But we must affirm in the strongest of terms, that their new "Declaration of Interdependence" will not achieve that noble aim.

Surrender of Freedom

This new scheme calls for the surrender of the high degree of freedom achieved under the "Declaration of Independence" and the "Constitution of the United States" both politically, and economically. It calls for the surrender of U.S. national sovereignty to an international world government. It declares that our economy should be regulated by international world government. It declares that our economy should be regulated by international authorities and that the wealth and productivity of free people should be redistributed on the Communist concept of "from each according to his ability to each according to his need."

It is a little frightening to see the signatures of 128 members of our Congress, each sworn to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States, affixed to a document which states: "We affirm that the economy of all nations is a seamless web, and that no one nation can any longer effectively maintain its processes of production and monetary systems without recognizing the necessity for collaborative regulation by international authorities."

Who Sponsors the New "Declaration"

In September of 1975, delegates from a number of organizations met in Philadelphia to plan a five-part Bicentennial program centering around this new "Declaration of Interdependence." They are: Council on Foreign Relations, World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, International Peace Academy, Members of Congress for Peace Through Law, American College of Physicians, Committee on Space Research, and Section of International Law of the American Bar Association.

The new Declaration of Interdependence was written by Henry Steele, Commager for the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, published on October 24, 1975, signed at Philadelphia on January 30, 1976 and is to be proclaimed July 4, 1976.

In addition, the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia which is a branch of the Council on Foreign Relations, is developing an entire curriculum for schools on the theme of "interdependence" and will sponsor a series of assemblies and conferences toward the end of selling the idea of a "new world order, government and economic system" to the entire American public.

We cannot believe all these listed organizations are fully aware of what they are sponsoring.

Payday Celebrated By Activities Center

Money is a great motivator, and each participant at the Appalachian Adult Activities Center was paid by the piece for each pen completed. Each of the 16 varieties of pens has seven components, and each was tested to make sure it worked before being put with pens ready for shipment to the various local companies which had placed orders. Over 10,000 pens have been assembled so far, at a rate far exceeding the Center staff's expectations.

Payday, and a congratulatory handshake from Center staff member Dave Koontz along with the check, makes Friday seem like a holiday celebration to Center participants.

Then it's off to the bank for an en masse check-signing and cashing party. The participants then divided into groups, each headed by a staff member, and planned their shopping campaigns in downtown Oakland. After the first payday, the group had visited Heck's Department Store.

A payday is an important day to everyone, but it does become rather commonplace to most people before long.

For the adults at the Adult Handicapped Center of Community Action in Oakland, however, this payday phenomena has not had a chance to grow old. For most of the people, payday has occurred only twice, both times through their efforts in putting 10,000 pens together from 70,000 components to earn money for themselves and for additional equipment to expand their lines of business.

The pen-assembling project came into being as part of a learning and working experience at the Center. The first shipment of pens arrived February 6 and instead of taking the estimated several days to finish the assembly, participants finished the job in only a few hours. They received their first paychecks a few weeks ago.

Lindy Pen Company of Pasadena, California, has sent the pen components to the center. Pens have been sold on a lot basis to the First National Bank, Gregg's Pharmacy, Clem Teets, Shillito Insurance, Southern States, Fike-Watson Funeral Home, and the Public Service Department of Garrett County. Most business places downtown also offered pens for sale.

Now, in addition to assembling sixteen different types of pens, from legal to retractable, the participants are currently assembling small wooden chests to hold educational materials for McNally Educational Productions, Inc.

Money generated after expenses and wages is being placed in the bank to be used for purchase of additional equipment to further vocational-type training for participants, which will ultimately boast their earnings. Future plans include the acquisition of imprinting machines for the imprinting of pens at the center. The Center is also making grant applications for additional equipment.

According to Fred Peters, director of the Adult Activities Center, several openings are available for additional participants at the center.

Sometimes decisions on where to go shopping require a little thought, and where better to think than over a cup of coffee in Matthew's Coffee Shop. Plans were quickly made, and the group ventured down, then up the street until everyone was satisfied, or broke, or both.

Nearly every department, from hats to games, were checked out by Adult Handicapped Center participants last Friday as they tried to decide what items they could buy. "Payday" provided learning experiences in many ways, from the hours spent working to the experiences of learning about denominations of money and spending.

If the smile is any indication, this was a successful shopping trip for at least one Handicapped Center participant.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gaumer, Mrs. Lucy Wright and Mrs. Earl Opel have returned to their homes after touring Michigan. While there they visited the Henry Ford Museum, the Greenfield Village in Dearborn, and then traveled to Kalamazoo where they attended the Tulip Festival, thence to Holland to Windmill Island and Tulip Lane and then to the Bicentennial festival parade which included President Ford.

Two Injured In Separate Wrecks

One person was injured in each of two Saturday accidents, both were treated and released from the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. In one case a youth was thrown from a bicycle. Both occurred on the Hutton road.

Steven Harold Kitzmiller, Star Route 2, Oakland, was thrown from his bicycle as he rode along the Hutton road about a half mile west of Old Crellin road just past noon Saturday. James S. Keiper, Star Route 2, Oakland, was driving eastbound on the Hutton road and overtaking the Kitzmiller youth, also eastbound. On overtaking the cyclist, Keiper turned right into a private drive. Kitzmiller, unable to stop, struck the Keiper car. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater charged Keiper with not giving a signal when turning.

John A. Savage, Second street, Oakland, was injured when his car struck a utility pole about 1:10 a.m. Saturday. Savage was driving east when he fell asleep resulting in the collision with the pole.

Various Ages Get Permits To Wed

Two of the 19 were not to be published. Where a person is under 18 years old, parent's consent was given. Information is from the records in the office of Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit Court.

Marriage licenses for April showed an increase over March by 18 with 80 being issued. Applications numbered 81. There was a total of 32 civil ceremonies or 40 percent.

College Seeks $378,000 From Local Funds

Mutual concerns of various departments of local government were discussed by George Edwards, Don Bender and Wayne Hamilton, county commissioners at the Monday meeting.

A discussion was held on potential economic development assistance projects in the county. Tom Jones, staff member, pointed out that the county development corporation had prepared a tentative list of projects concentrating mainly on road reconstruction and water system priorities. Dr. William Pope informed the commissioners that the state was planning to release a schedule in the near future for an extensive flu vaccination program in each county. He said the vaccinations would probably be available late this summer and early fall.

At the afternoon session commissioners continued their budget hearings, meeting with representatives from Garrett Community college. Dr. Alfred O'Connell, president, submitted a budget request of $378,000 in local money, an increase of some $69,000 over last year's funding level. He pointed out that full time equivalent enrollment in the college had increased dramatically during the spring semester and that GCC was anticipating 500 full time equivalent students for the next budget year. Dr. O'Connell also requested that the commissioners consider funding $20,000 in local money for capital improvement projects.

Washington Report

Calls Bill a Fraud

In remarks prepared for delivery May 15 before the International Convention of Executives' Secretaries in Baltimore, Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md.) called the Humphrey-Hawkins "Full Employment Bill" now pending before the Congress a "costly fraud on the American people." The bill promises to reduce national unemployment to three percent by making the federal government the "employer of last resort." Beall says that while national unemployment is still far too high, particularly for younger workers and minorities, "this legislation promises far more than the government can responsibly deliver."

The Maryland Senator says that instead of establishing an "army of government employees engaged in little more than 'leaf raking" projects, we must stimulate the private sector into creating permanent and productive jobs for our citizens." Beall says that the nation's economy is making a good recovery and "we are now at the point where we must decide what kind of further stimulus we should give our economy to firm up these favorable trends."

"What the Humphrey-Hawkins bill would do," continued Beall, "would be to raise a lot of false hopes on the part of the unemployed by promising jobs, but providing no realistic way of paying for such employment. Government has a responsibility, during times of economic stress, to cushion the impact on those who are unemployed. It can do this through such programs as extended unemployment insurance, accelerated public works projects and public service jobs.

"However, as our economy improves," said Beall, "we must begin to shift away from programs which keep people on the public payroll and, instead, stimulate activity which will put people back into meaningful jobs on private payrolls. We must, in short, change our focus from temporary public employment to permanent jobs in the free enterprise system."

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of the State of Maryland, Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. has criticized Congress for its lack of coordination on health issues. Beall, a member of the Labor and Public Welfare Subcommittee on Health, says that, "if there ever was an organized non-system in health, it is the Congress with its fragmentation and multiplicity of committees dealing with health issues."

Beall says that three committees of the Senate, as well as four committees of the House of Representatives, share jurisdiction over health fields. "In addition," argues Beall, "special health matters are handled by several other committees, including Armed Services, Veterans' Affairs, Interior, Commerce, a number of Select Committees, Aging and Small Business. With so many having a piece of the action, it's no wonder Congress takes a piecemeal approach to health issues."

Beall says that there are too many contradictory and conflicting policies on health issues coming from the various Congressional jurisdictions. "There are a number of perverse and conflicting health incentives," says Beall, "which are inconsistent with the policy of one Congressional committee or the other and which are at odds with the rational use of health services.

"I believe it is time for Congress to put its own house in order," says Beall. "I propose that the Senate take the lead by establishing a new standing committee on health. This health committee would combine at least the existing health functions of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee and the Finance Committee."

TO BE FEATURED ON LOCAL COOKBOOK — These children, all enrolled in the Deer Park Headstart program held at St. John's Episcopal Church, will be featured on a cookbook which will be published this summer, featuring recipes from local people. The three and four-year-olds have been treated to various trips to local places of interest, including the fish hatchery at Bear Creek and the Littlest Church at Silver Lake, W.Va. To help finance these trips, parents have raised money selling candy, candles, salt and pepper sets and gifts and gadget boxes. The cookbook is the latest and most extensive project, and proceeds will help finance such trips as the one planned next week to Story Book Forest in Pennsylvania and to the Circus in Cumberland in June. Youngsters attend the Headstart program, which helps them learn social skills and language development, four days a week. Deer Park staffers are Wanda Hinebaugh, Barbara Collins, Linda Tichnell, Roma Uphole and Mary DeBerry, cook at the center since it opened in 1968.

Winners Named In Motocross Races

Jim Weinert of Laguna Beach, Calif., gained ground last Sunday in his attempt to overtake Morrisville, Pennsylvania's Tony DiStefano in the race for the American Motorcycle Association's 250cc National Motocross Championship.

Weinert, the reigning 500cc champion, combined first and second-place finishes in two motos at Keyser Ridge, and drew within 15 points of defending 250cc champion and current point leader DiStefano.

Bob Hannah of Whittier, Calif., who earned a spot on the Yamaha factory team when Weinert jumped to Kawasaki this year, put together a second and a first at Keyser Ridge to edge Weinert for the overall win. It was the first National victory for the 19-year-old newcomer to the championship circuit and moved him from ninth to fourth in the series standings.

A heavy rain shower prior to the first 250cc moto left the track slippery and contributed to two Tony DiStefano crashes which relegated him to 11th place in the first heat. Weinert's first-moto victory thus gave him a net gain of 15 series points after the first moto.

By the beginning of the second moto the track had dried to an almost perfect texture and thus resulted in probably the best racing thus far in the series.

Weinert and Hannah kept the crowd of 8,000 dashing from vantage point to vantage point to watch their spectacular race-long battle. The pair squared off early and their race for second and third carried them past second-moto leader Jim Ellis of East Hampton, Conn., with just over five minutes remaining in the race. From that point they swapped the lead while DiStefano made a last ditch charge to the front. Hannah won the three-man sprint to the checkered flag as DiStefano rammed into Weinert and the two tumbled across the finish line. Weinert was awarded the runner-up spot while DiStefano settled for third.

In the overall standings, third place behind Hannah and Weinert went to DiStefano's Suzuki teammate Steve Stackable of Austin, Tex. Ellis claimed fourth and DiStefano was fifth.

In the 125cc Support class, Fred Vertucci of Richfield Springs, N.Y., led all but one lap of the two 30-minute motos to win first place overall on a Vertucci Power Equipment Suzuki. Jim Jerles of Zanesville, Ohio, was second overall with fourth and fifth-place moto finishes and third overall went to Scott Wallenburg of Evanston, Ill., with a seventh and a third.

Second Rocket Contest At Dennett Road School Scheduled Next Week

A PERFECT TAKEOFF of Drew Sheally's rocket was seen Monday afternoon as James Hart's science classes prepare for next week's rocket contests at Dennett Road School. Drew is a student in Ms. Marie McManis' room, one of the classes also participating in group contest entries in the second rocket competitions. Various expressions are visible on the youngsters' faces in the background, and even more varied expressions were noted when it was seen that the rocket was coming down somewhat off the recovery area—in fact, it landed only an inch or so from the pool by the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Messenger, Dennett Road. Norman Cogley also got to set off a rocket on Monday during the practice sessions.

Test flights are underway this week at Dennett Road Elementary School, in the second annual individual and group school-wide rocket contest.

Entries have quadrupled from last year, with more than 100 already signed up, not including the 15 group entries being prepared in James Hart's science classes. There were 66 entries last year including the group rockets. Mr. Hart is again coordinating the event, a part of his class for the second year. The contest is sponsored by Arts n' Crafts Centre, Oakland, which also is providing the prizes. Mr. Hart's classes are now building their rockets and familiarizing themselves with the Estes Model Rocket Safety Code and making preflight preparations and checks.

Les McDaniel is at this time instructing his mathematics class in the use of the altiscope, a device used to measure the altitude each rocket gains. This year instead of the present standard measurement, Mr. McDaniel is instructing the students in measurements with the metric system.

Four days have been set aside for the rocket contest. Tuesday, May 25, launchings of the third and fourth grade entries will be held. May 26 and 27, fifth grade launchings will take place. Tuesday, June 1, sixth graders will have their chances. Parents are welcome to attend on these afternoons. Winners will be announced Wednesday, June 2.

Judging is by various faculty members of each grade level, along with the principal, Clark Sharpless. Twenty points is the maximum possible in each of five categories judged: appearance—how the model looks and is painted and placement of decals; flight path—straight; electrical efficiency—proper lift-off; altitude—reaching the expected altitude base on engine size; recovery—proper chute opening and landing within the recovery area.

Students will do the actual measurements using the altiscope during the contests. Mr. McDaniels' fifth grade class will also be video taping the contest.

Faculty members whose classes will also be competing include William Lovett's class (Mr. Lovett is constructing the "Orbital Transport" himself); Mrs. Hamill's class, with a "Cherokee-D"; Miss Larue's class, with their "Alien Invader"; Ms. Marie McManis' class with their "Cherokee-D" and Miss Schrock's room, with the "Constellation."

Rockets compete in classes according to the engine size from the "mini" type through A, B, C and D. Type D is the most powerful.

Takes Top Trophy

High Point Western horse in the first show of the season sponsored by the High Rock Saddle Club May 2 was Little Bit o'Chance, owned and ridden by Betty Glover, Accident.

Four girls in science class work to ready their individual entries for the second Dennett Road School rocket contest. Hard at work in this "fun physics" class are Theresa Harsh, Margaret Welch, Marlene DeWitt and Wendy Johnson.

Oak Grove Church of the Brethren

Near McHenry, Md.

We Cordially Invite the Public to Attend, Especially Those Who Have Loved Ones Buried in the Oak Grove Cemetery.

A Special Offering Will Be Taken to Pay For the Upkeep & Care of the Cemetery.

Along the Potomac River . . . close to the Pennsylvania border . . . and near Washington, D.C., our nation's capital . . .

It's fun to look at the whole world, and then put your finger on the place where YOU live. It makes you realize how important you are!

During this Bicentennial year we know that EVERYBODY in our nation is important. People can own land and houses and tractors. They can read the truth. They can think for themselves, and say what they think. They can assemble together to celebrate, or plan — or protest.

And they can worship God . . . in the church they choose . . . and bring their children . . . and support their church . . . and volunteer their talents in its work.

Nobody can padlock God's House — or turn it into a museum!

Here's where I live, THANK GOD! We thank Him best by using ALL our freedoms . . .

HOW FREE ARE WE?

Lesson for May 23, 1976

Background Scripture: 1 Corinthians 6:9-20; Galatians 5:13-26

Devotional Reading: Psalms 1

It is said that we are living in an age of freedom. As never before, people are free to eat and drink what they please, say and do whatever they want, and take their pleasure wherever they can find it. Of course, there are understandable limits to that freedom, yet it is still true that this is probably one of the least restrictive ages man has ever known.

Rev. Althouse

All things are lawful

To some degree it was necessary that man should experience this new freedom. Past societies had often gone to the opposite extreme, binding human behaviour with restrictions that were both delimiting and absurd. Life became a system of "Thou shalt nots," and it was assumed that if anything was enjoyable, it "probably was wrong!"

Today we find that society is swinging to the other extreme. In the past there were too many restrictions and rules, but today we often find that we need more, not less, and there is a deep desire to temper the new "freedom" of man with a sense of self-discipline and responsibility.

The issue is not a matter of whether we shall be free or not, for often our new "freedom" is a bogus, phony freedom. It is the kind of freedom that leads us to boast: "I can do anything I want to do." Yet this is often an empty, deceptive boast that may mean only that we have freely chosen to be dominated by some hunger, need, or drive.

We may say, for example, that we are free to eat all that we want to eat. With no restrictions on what we may eat, it does seem that we are free to do as we please. Yet, in reality our "freedom" to eat all we want may degenerate into another kind of bondage. After awhile, we may no longer be able to eat just what we know is good for us, but, enslaved by our own voracious appetite, we may find that we are compelled to eat far more than we want or need.

Not all things are helpful

This same principle applies to all our appetites, physical, emotional and spiritual. Given free reign without any restraints at all, any of these appetites may destroy our "freedom" by ruling as taking our lives out of the jurisdiction of our own free choices. Thus satiated by a huge meal, we ask ourselves: "Why did I allow myself to eat so much and become so miserable?"

Paul caught this distinction and in I Corinthians 6 he lays it out for us: "All things are lawful for me, but not all things are helpful." To be really free is to have the power to do for ourselves what we know to be right and helpful to both us and others. Once again, Paul says: "All things are lawful for me, but I will not be mastered by anything" (6:12).

Any time we are enslaved by anything, we are not truly free.

WHAT IS A SPHYGMOMANOMETER?

It is a device that is used to measure your blood pressure. First, a cuff with a rubber tube is wrapped around your arm and the tube is inflated to constrict the flow of blood.

Then a stethoscope is placed on the inside crook of your arm and the pressure is slowly released. At the first beat heard, a reading is taken on the dial attached to the cuff, this is the high point. Another reading is taken at the last beat heard and this is the low point. Your physician then interprets the two readings to determine whether your blood pressure is normal.

Open Space Funds Available For Local Recreation Projects

Garrett County is not currently utilizing all funds available through Program Open Space, a state program to provide open space and recreation areas and facilities for present and future citizens of Maryland, says the county planning office.

To date, several P.O.S. projects have been undertaken within this county, including the Grantsville Area Park, the Friendsville Bandshell Pavilion and the ball diamonds at Broad Ford Recreation Area, all of which have been partially funded through P.O.S.

Funding for P.O.S. comes from the issuance of state bonds and from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund. A portion of these funds are allocated each year to Garrett County to be used for local parkland acquisition and park development.

One-half of all allocated funds coming into this county must be used for parkland acquisition. The remaining one-half can be used for acquisition and/or development of open space land and recreational facilities.

County and Incorporated Town governments may apply for Program Open Space funds. Applications for park proposals are administered by the Department of Natural Resources and the Department's local liaison officers.

Additional monies may also be available to qualified organizations and respective municipalities for future park development projects. Further information regarding P.O.S. funds, requirements, and guidelines may be obtained by contacting James O'Neill, at the Garrett County Planning Commission.

Three Paramedics Added To Northern Rescue Squad

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad now has eleven trained Cardiac Rescue Technicians. A CRT is the Maryland State equivalent of a paramedic. Cindy Sweene, Ken Hamilton and Paul Frank recently received notification of their successful completion of the State Board Examination certifying them as CRT's.

Cardiac Rescue Technicians are trained especially in the treatment of heart patients before they reach the intensive care of a hospital. The training includes techniques of administering EKG examination, medications under a doctor's supervision, and electrical cardiac conversions. Plans are being implemented to acquire the necessary equipment for telemetry communication with hospitals and physicians from the ambulance.

It is expected that there will be fifteen CRT's in the Northern Rescue Squad by Fall of 1976. Present members of the Rescue Squad who are certified CRT's are: Floyd Baker, Barry Beal, Ron Bowser, Criss Browning, Dotty Folk, Paul Frank, Ken Hamilton, Paul Maust, Cindy Sweene, Linda Walker and Raymond Yoder. Enrolled in the current CRT class are: Marvin Beachy, Audrey Cutler, Jean Friend, and Terri Georg.

There Is An Answer . . .

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. My mother has Parkinson's Disease and it has affected her speech and her ability to walk. She can no longer write or feed herself. Due to her health and difficulty in conversing, I'm afraid she has withdrawn from her friends.

Why must she suffer physically and suffer a loss of pride—no longer able to be cheerful or relate to others? What purpose can be gained by her physical deterioration?

A. There is no answer to your question why and for what purpose. A famous psychiatrist once said, "The chief duty of a human being is to endure life."

We are not promised to be freed from problems, but we are told that we are given power to overcome the difficulties that beset us. There are some things in this life we have to live with, and since medical science has not conquered the disease which afflicts your mother, our only solution is surrender it all to God. He can heal, He can alleviate pain, He can give strength to endure, He can uphold in the time of trouble.

Think of all the blessings that are yours because of the wonderful life of your mother. Dwell on this and undergird her with your strength.

Q. My problem is myself. I can't blame anyone but me. Some time ago I met a young man and we became very close and began to live together. Because we planned to get married, I signed my name as "Mrs." when I wrote to my family and friends. I figured that by the time the letters were received we would be married. Well, it turned out that we didn't marry, so here I was, caught in an awful situation.

I lived with terrible guilt until finally, one day, I asked God to forgive me and give me the strength to leave. I left and said I would no longer live with him until we were married. But shortly before leaving him I discovered I was pregnant. After being apart we've decided that marriage is the only right thing and as soon as my boyfriend recovers from an injury we will be married.

Now I don't know whether to confess the truth to my mother. She has a lot of other problems and isn't well, and I don't want to give her more sad news. I feel so ashamed before God. I feel that my life is incomplete and that I am not ready to meet God. Please, what should I do?

A. Get married now, injury or no injury. That could serve as an excuse. Take charge and marry him even if he is flat on his back.

As to your mother, tell the truth. She can take it, especially when she sees that you are making your life honest and good. Start over from this point and be the great person, the strong woman you can be and want to be. Ask God's forgiveness; then forgive yourself and go forward to make your marriage last forever.

Q. For some time I've been a victim of severe anxiety and fear. I believe the causes for my fear are legitimate so that it makes it harder to overcome. I see the rapid takeover of more and more areas of our world by the communists and realize there is no united opposition to the advance of this deadly menace throughout the world. This seems like a tragic error. I feel that people would be greatly heartened if they could know that leaders were wide awake to this menace and were taking united action to protect the free world from communist enslavement.

I'm also very deeply concerned about the terrible and tragic plague of cancer. Several members of my family have died from it. Unless the American people take action to clean up our food, water and air of well-known cancer-producing chemicals, our annual number of cancer deaths will continue to mount.

How can one view the tragedies of our time without becoming deeply depressed?

A. Read history. Become a philosopher. Things have been bad before. The world always survives.

The world has never been free from problems and it never will be in our lifetime. But we should realize that difficulty and hardship challenge us to achieve. Man invents and discovers and builds as need arises.

Think of the ancient world, with no hospitals, no schools, no orphanages, no care for the aged. Our world today is certainly not perfect, as you have pointed out, but it is better than in earlier cultures and we firmly believe it will continue to improve.

Depression of spirit never rebuilds. Only hope and optimism and faith create better conditions, and the plague of cancer will be conquered in due course. You can help the world by thinking positive thoughts, by holding positive attitudes.

WORKING TOGETHER — Swanton Girl Scout Troop 111, Brownies Troop 185, and Cub Scout den 3 all joined forces recently to work on a community service project to help provide funds for the remodeling of the Swanton Community Center. The Scouts held a yard and bake sale April 15, and this week turned over the proceeds, $64, to Gerald Friend, right, above, president of the Community Center. Others above are Tracey Bray, Brownie Troop 185; Bobby Sweitzer, Cub Scout, and Carrie Johnson, Cadette Girl Scout, presenting the check. The sales were organized by Mrs. Deanie Johnson, Girl Scout leader. The Scouts meet at the Center every Monday night and often work together on community service projects. Their annual Strawberry Festival has been tentatively scheduled for June 12, according to Mrs. Johnson.

Gets Law Degree In Washington

The daughter of a former Oakland resident was graduated from American University Law School in Washington, D. C., and was inducted into the law school honor society over the weekend. She graduated cum laude.

The graduate was Mrs. Nancy Worgan Preg, daughter of the former Mary Virginia Bolden, now Mrs. Edward D. Murray, of Seattle, Washington; and Dr. David K. Worgan, formerly of Luke. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Carleton Helbig, Pennington street, and the late Emroy D. Bolden.

Mrs. Preg is also a member of the first girls' graduating class of Yale university, in 1971. Mrs. Preg resides in Washington with her husband, Ted Preg, an attorney with the Justice department, criminal division, Trial Advocate's office. He was recently elected chairman of the newly formed committee on Political Corruption.

Attending the honors convocation in Washington and commencement exercises was her uncle, Delegate DeCorsey Bolden, Second street. They both returned to Oakland on Monday morning where Mrs. Murray will spend two weeks or more with her mother before returning to Seattle.

Early Entries Desired For Sheep, Swine

Sheep and swine exhibitors at the Garrett County Fair in August are urgently requested to get their entries into the department superintendents by the 1st of June, it was announced by James A. McHenry, extension agent. Due to lack of pen space the department superintendents must plan on how many exhibits they will have so they will know how to handle them, he said.

Sheep and swine exhibitors are requested to contact Lee Shillingburg for sheep; and Charles Mason, for swine. The Garrett County Extension Office will also accept entries for sheep and swine.

May — Egg Month

Eggs can add almost limitless versatility to the family food plan and nutritionally they are outstanding. Eggs are in abundance now and have attractive prices. There are many ways you can be sure of getting the most egg for your money and in having top quality eggs for use.

Grade refers to interior quality and shell appearance. Highest quality are in cartons marked Grade AA or Grade A. These are preferred for hard-cooking and where appearance is important.

Select eggs by size. Size refers to weight per doz. The sizes most often found are: Extra large, 27 oz.; Large 24 oz.; and Mediums, 21 oz.

Egg prices vary by size for the same grade. Generally speaking, if there is less than a 7-cent price spread per dozen eggs between one size and the next smaller size in the same grade, you will get more for your money by buying the larger size.

Buy eggs from a refrigerated case. Refrigerate eggs promptly at home, large end up, to help maintain quality. Variations in temperature while eggs are being stored cause the whites to become thin.

Soiled or cracked eggs should not be purchased. Cracked eggs permit entry of bacteria that are ordinarily stopped by the shell membrane.

Shell color is determined by breed of the hen and does not affect the grade, nutritive value, flavor or cooking performance of the egg.

Cook eggs at low temperatures. High temperatures and over-cooking toughen eggs and sometimes cause discoloration.

Eggs should be stored in their store carton or in a closed container, otherwise they may absorb odors from other foods.

Remove only the number of eggs you will use at one time from the refrigerator.

DAR Officers Are Installed Monday

Officers were installed at a Monday meeting of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Allegheny Room at Proudfoot's Pharmacy.

Those installed were: Regent, Mrs. Sally Gonder; Vice-Regent, Mrs. Clara Bell Briner; Chaplain, Mrs. Janet Hutchinson; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Gretchen Shaffer; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Virginia Lohr; Treasurer, Mrs. Beryldine Stanton; Registrar, Mrs. Alice Proudfoot; Historian, Mrs. June Thomas; Librarian, Mrs. Ruth Calderwood, and Membership, Mrs. Martha Kahl.

Golf Tourneys Announced By Auto Dealers

Two open golf tournaments are available to golf enthusiasts of the area, as announced by Sharps Chevrolet, Inc., garage, and Shaffer Ford Sales, Inc. both of Oakland.

Registration for the 1976 Ford open golf tournaments opened May 1, at the Ford garage on Third street, according to Willis T. Shaffer, company president. Registration forms must be submitted at least six days prior to the opening of any of the eight tournaments. Closest one to Oakland is at Morgantown.

These tournaments are sponsored by Pittsburgh district Ford Dealers association and prizes totaling more than $20,000 including a 1977 Ford Granada, are being offered.

Golfers, ages 13 through 17 will have a chance to test their skills in the first PGA junior golf championship sponsored by Chevrolet. The event will give over a million boys and girls who are amateur golfers an opportunity to compete in a major national program under PGA sanction.

There will be 39 sectional play-offs and winners of these events will compete at Walt Disney World in Florida in National finals. Entrants must register at Sharps garage, Third street, and be accompanied by a parent or guardian, according to Rob Sharps. Sharps said it was a "good opportunity for youngsters to test their playing ability in an outstanding tournament."

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks for all the cards and prayers during my illness, especially to Pastor and Mrs. John Scrimshire and others of the Mt. Lake Baptist Church.

Two To Attend Girls' State

Two girls from this county representing Bruce High school, Westernport, will attend Girls' State at the University of Maryland June 20 to 26, it was announced.

They are Miss Yvetta Bever, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Bever, route 1, Swanton; and Miss Karen Knott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Knott, Bloomington.

Selections were made by the Bruce High school faculty and the Westernport American Legion. Both girls are juniors at Bruce.

Mt. District Posts Sponsor V. A. Party

Members of the Mt. District, American Legion Posts and auxiliary members recently traveled to the Martinsburg Veterans Administration facility to sponsor an afternoon's entertainment for the patients.

On April 2, the Legion sponsored a group of senior citizens, called "The Sunshine Girls" as entertainment for the afternoon. The band, comprised of women over 60 years of age, plays homemade instruments.

The Mt. District also sponsors an annual visit in September. Both visits are highlighted by a two-hour musical entertainment followed by a party with refreshments prepared and donated by the District. Gifts of books, puzzles and magazines are also transported to the hospital by truck from local donors.

Legion posts in the Mt. District include Oakland, Accident, Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Frostburg, Midland, Lonaconing, Barton, Westernport, Fort Cumberland and Fulton-Myers, also Cumberland.

There will be a District meeting this Sunday at Fulton-Myers Post, according to Dayton Alexander, Mt. District commander.

Speakers Highlight Deep Creek Meeting

Two speakers, experts in their respective fields, presented talks before the Deep Creek Lake Business Association at the May 3 meeting.

Introduced by Association president Delos Carpenter were Richard (Dick) Barnes, a leading Pittsburgh advertising agency executive and newspaper publisher, and John H. Spencer, an I.R.S. enrolled agent and tax consultant.

Mr. Barnes stressed the promotional potential of Deep Creek Lake and the yet unrealized and unrecognized financial benefits awaiting the county regarding the tourist market which could be attracted to the Lake. Mr. Barnes has visited the Lake for many years and now owns a cottage at McHenry.

A discussion brought out the need for a formal tourist-attracting program for the Lake. Mr. Barnes was invited to submit a proposal for such a plan to the Association.

Mr. Spencer resides in the Youghiogheny Mt. Lake community and advises many local business persons in financial and tax matters. As an enrolled agent, he is privileged to practice before the I.R.S. His topics included deferred income and expenses; employe medical expense reimbursement; and investment credits.

President Carpenter welcomed new business members, the Appalachian Woodworkers, Hideaway Hill Campgrounds, and Walt's General Store.

Sign chairmen William Robeson and William Thoman reported that the Business directory sign is scheduled to be erected this month. The next meeting will be June 7 at 8 p.m. at Point View Inn.

FISHING WASN'T THE BEST this past weekend for Boy Scouts of Troop 54, Red House, on their camping trip to Pendleton Run, but they did manage to hook a 14-inch catfish and a few 12-inch bass. Cooking the fish, however, was greatly hampered by Saturday evening's downpour.

SCOUTMASTER Don Rolf shows how it's done while camping. Since chores are all assigned to teams of boys, the scoutmaster has time to whittle on a favorite project, a flintlock to be used this fall during deer season.

Jupiter's Satellites

The outer satellites of Jupiter may be the remnents of two larger bodies captured by the huge planet. These bodies consequently broke into smaller parts. Evidence for this suspicion is the observation that four of the satellites travel around the planet in about 260 days at a distance of 11 million kilometers (7 million miles). The other four satellites orbit in the opposite direction in about 700 days at a distance of 22 million kilometers (14 million miles). If the theory is correct, there is reason to believe that additional satellites may be discovered.

This afternoon at 5:22 the moon passes through its Last Quarter phase. Moonrise varies from 1:26 A.M. this morning to 4:24 A.M. on Wednesday morning. A waning crescent moon will be seen in the early morning sky this week.

Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are visible this week. Mars and Saturn are among the stars of Cancer. They set shortly after midnight. Jupiter rises shortly before sunrise. On Wednesday morning, Jupiter is seen to the lower left of the crescent moon.

Ten minutes of daylight are gained through the week. Sunrise was at 6:00 this morning. Sunset follows fourteen hours twenty-nine minutes later at 8:29 P.M. Wednesday the sun rises five minutes earlier and sets five minutes later than it does today.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In observance of "National Volunteer Week" this week, we should recognize the many volunteers of our time, the ones who give their time and devotion to helping the sick and disabled. Many thanks should also be given to our own local fire departments and rescue squads for they are dedicated and loyal "essential" volunteers.

Sincerely,
Carla Kisner

BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

KANSAS

This state was named for the Kansa or Kau Indians who lived in the region before the white man. The word Kansas means "people of the south wind" in the Sioux language.

Kansas is known as the "Jayhawker State." Its nicknames also include "The Wheat State," "Breadbasket of America," "The Sunflower State," and "Midway U.S.A."

The capital is Topeka. Governor is Robert L. Bennett, Republican. Kansas was admitted to the Union January 29, 1861, the 34th state. The state motto is "To the Stars Through Difficulties." The state song is "Home on the Range."

The state flower is, of course, the sunflower. State bird is the meadowlark. The Eastern cottonwood is the state tree, chosen in memory of its usefulness to the early pioneers. Belts of cottonwood marked the winding watercourses so necessary to those hardy people. The trees provided shade in the hot summers and firewood for the winter fires. The logs were used to build homes.

Before the white man came, four Indian tribes lived in what is now Eastern Kansas. The tribes were the Kansa, Osage, Pawnee and Wichita. These Indian tribes hunted buffalo, and raised beans, corn and squash.

The first white man to explore Kansas was the Spaniard Francisco Vasquez de Coronado. His expedition entered the region in 1541 in search of gold.

Forts were erected to protect travelers from the Indians. In 1827 Col. Henry Leavenworth founded the first white settlement in the state. Today the town still bears his name.

During the late 1860's and 1870's, railroads built lines into Kansas. The railroads brought settlers in, and carried farm products to the East. Cattlemen began to drive herds of longhorns from Texas to the Kansas railroad towns.

The trails, towns and the men of this era have provided material for books, motion pictures and television. Famous cattle trails included the Chisholm trail and the Western trail. Abilene became the first Kansas "cow town."

Dodge City won the greatest fame. For ten years after 1875, this bustling city was the largest cattle market in the world. The cowboys liked to "whoop it up" after hard weeks of herding cattle. The cow towns became wild and disorderly. Wyatt Earp, Wild Bill Hickock, Bat Masterson, Doc Holiday and other lawmen (there never was a Matt Dillon) kept peace in Dodge City. The city was called the "Cowboy Capital" of the world. When Dodge City got its nickname it was the largest cattle market of the world. Dodge City is still a cattle center, but some of its cowboys no longer ride horses. Mounted on motorcycles, they herd cattle in Dodge City's stockyards.

The pony express station in Hanover served the famous western mail riders of 1860 and 1861. This is the only express station along the route that stands unchanged.

In 1856 pro-slavery settlers burned the antislavery town of Lawrence, John Brown, who hated slavery, led his sons and a group of other men against his pro-slavery neighbors. The raid near Pottawatomie Creek ended in the deaths of five men. At least 50 others died during this period in which the state was referred to as "Bleeding Kansas."

During the Civil War, Kansas sent more men into the Union Army (in proportion to its population) than any other state. In Abilene, the boyhood home of the late president Dwight D. Eisenhower, is the Eisenhower center with the Eisenhower Home, museum and library. Near them is a chapel named "Place of Meditation." The thirty-fourth president of the United States was buried in Abilene, April 2, 1969. He was president from 1953-61.

Wheat and Kansas are synonymous. Turkey Red, a hardy and disease-resistant winter variety brought to Kansas by Russian Mennonites in the 1870's, became the state's leading crop in 1894. This new strain of wheat began an annual abundance of crops which has since been a trademark of the economy. Kansas ranked first among the states in its wheat crop in 1975. Wheat grows in every county.

Rolling fields of wheat, clusters of oil well derricks, great herds of cattle and towering grain storage elevators feature the landscape of Kansas.

Wichita is the largest city in Kansas. It ranks first in the production of private aircraft. Moreover, the world's largest free concrete swimming pool is located in Garden City. The world's largest grain elevator is in Wichita. The world's largest hand-dug well is in Greensburg, and the world's largest ball of string can be seen in Cawker City.

This midwestern state is bounded on the north by Nebraska, on the east by the Missouri River and Missouri, on the south by Oklahoma and on the west by Colorado.

The Agriculture Hall of Fame and National Center is close to Kansas City. There are also displays on farm equipment of the past.

Large herds of buffalo once roamed the Kansas plains. Tumbleweeds grow throughout western Kansas. Petroleum and natural gas are found in most parts of Kansas.

Methodists make up the largest single religious group.

Wheat is not Kansas' only claim to fame. Some of the others are Walter P. Chrysler, the founder of the Chrysler Corporation, who was born in Wamego; John Cameron Swayze, who was born in Wichita; Dwight David Eisenhower, born in Abilene; and William Allen White, newspaper publisher and two-time Pulitzer prize winner, who was born in Emporia.

Other famous Kansans include Amelia Earhart, Osa Johnson, Gen. Hugh Johnson, Brock Pemberton, Walter Johnson and Alf M. Landon.

The next state in this series is Kentucky.

National Acreage, Livestock Survey To Be Made

Producers in Garrett County will be contacted in late May or early June as part of a nationwide effort to properly estimate 1976 spring planted acreages and current livestock numbers, according to James A. McHenry, county agricultural extension agent.

Farmers in this area will be visited between May 21 and June 3 by an enumerator representing the Maryland-Delaware Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The enumerator will ask about acreages planted and for harvest and also about cattle, hogs, and sheep on the farming unit. Across the country thousands of similar interviews will be conducted and many other farmers will be contacted by mail. All information will be held confidential and only State and national estimates will be released.

The objective, John Witzig, State Statistician, said, is to produce reliable and unbiased information for producers as a guide for their marketing operations. He noted that these estimates help stabilize market conditions by providing both growers and buyers with official estimates of production. Consequently, rumors and trade projections can not be a factor in setting supply and price levels.

The state and national acreage information will be published in late June followed in early July by yield and production estimates. Estimates concerning hogs and pigs will be available in late June and for cattle in late July.

Atlantic Voyagers Visit Southern Hi

Two Englishmen recently sailed across the Atlantic Ocean in a 26-foot sloop which brought them from the northeast coast of England to Norfolk, Va., in a period of seven and one-half months.

Terence Lawson, 42, a coal miner, and John Hall, 37, science teacher, who made the 7,000 mile trip, were recent visitors at Southern High school in Oakland speaking to the students there.

The pair began the trip September 7 from Alamouth near the Scottish border and reached Norfolk April 23. A third man, George Ternent, 37, a fishing rod maker, stayed with them for three months but then flew back to England.

Lawson and Hall are both bachelors and were able to take a full year off from work. They went from England to the Canary Islands and then to Barbados. This leg was their longest as they traveled 2,700 miles in a 24 ½ day span. They averaged about 100 miles per day.

From Barbados they traveled to the Grenadines, the Antilles, Puerto Rico, the Bahamas and finally the Intercoastal waterway from Fort Pierce, Fla., to Norfolk.

Mr. Lawson is owner of the sloop which is named Ana Sira. He purchased it about three years ago and he and his teacher friend traveled from England to Norway on several summer trips. They noted the North Sea was often more hazardous than the Atlantic.

They depended primarily for the sail to power them but the sloop is equipped with a single cylinder 10 horsepower diesel engine. When they left they stored some 500 pounds of food and 60 gallons of water.

They plan to leave Norfolk about June 1 and expect to reach England about July 4. Mr. Lawson and Mr. Hall have been visiting with the former's sister, Mrs. Roxie Shaffer, at Terra Alta, W. Va.

Minnetoska To Host Baltimore School Group

Sixty 8th Grade Science Students from the Park School in Baltimore will be at Camp Minnetoska, near Hutton, this weekend. Fred Learey, Owner and Director of Minnetoska, said this is the third year the group has used the Garrett County Facility.

During their visit, students will be exploring the Cranesville Swamp, hiking through Swallow Falls State Park, and visiting Herrington Manor State Park to see a saw mill in operation. The Forest Service will also present a demonstration of fire fighting equipment at Minnetoska for the students. A special film, "The Unseen World" has been arranged by the Ruth Enlow Library.

Jim Howard, science coordinator for the Park School, returns with the student group each year because he says the flora and fauna of Garrett County is unique. "It is like exposing the students to parts of New England," according to Howard. "It also affords us the opportunity to do some biological studies at Camp Minnetoska's lake and search for reptile specimens for the school nature center."

Camp Minnetoska will begin its summer program in June with campers from throughout the United States. This is the 49th year of operation for the camp. Under Mr. Learey's ownership, many private groups have been enjoying the facilities during the spring and fall. Ultimate plans call for having Minnetoska become a year round learning center for youth and adults, according to Learey.

Sixteen Killed On State Roads

Sixteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways last week, according to the weekly news release compiled by 1st Lt. H. J. Heiger of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed ten were drivers, four were passengers and two were pedestrians. Six of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officers, could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

If riding a motorcycle is your "thing", don't forget that you are placing yourself in a position of extreme danger and far more vulnerable in a crash. You have special problems, loose material or debris may be present on roadway, extra rules to follow, as well as being required to abide by the regular traffic laws, including stop signs and right of way rules.

Persons killed through May 16 totaled 198, compared to 246 for the same period last year.

Oakette Contest Held April 23

The Oakettes Majorette Corps, Oakland, celebrated its fifth anniversary of marching with a pageant held at Dennett Road School on Friday, April 23, and the fourth annual Miss Oakette contest was held at the same time.

Savage High School, Maryland State junior solo champion, and 4th place national winner; and Karen Eddy, 3rd place Maryland State NBTA Intermediate solo winner. While the judges were totaling scores, routines were demonstrated by the Rhinestone Cowboys, Debbie Wolf, Lisa Dever, Brenda Snyder; Betsy Bomboy, Sandra Stinson, Tammy Wells, Sonja Peterman, Lisa Savage, Tammy Rowan and Vicki Dilgard.

Past "Miss Oakettes" were honored, including Brenda Snyder, 1973; Colleen Eddy and Lisa Savage, 1974; Brenda Savage, Patrice Mick and Melody Flinn, 1975; Sheila Hardesty and Lisa Savage.

Trophies were presented by Doris Eddy, director, to Barbara Harvey, most dependable and outstanding twirler; Theresa Harsh, ideal Oakette. Leader trophies were awarded to Amy White, Teresa Thomas and Patrice Mick. Medals for assistant leader went to Tammy Wells, Jeannie Schmidt and Colleen Eddy.

Parade feature medals were presented to Colleen Eddy, stunt girl; Karen Eddy, 2-baton twirler; Tammy Rowan, hoop; Lisa Savage, flag twirler. IN MEMORIAM

In memory of John Thayer, whose birthday would have been May 25.

Johnny has left us for another life
Where there's no cares or strife.
Somewhere beside God's throne you have made another home
Someday we will be up there
Then Heaven we all will share.
No one can ever take your place,
We will always see your smiling face
The rest of our lives we will spend loving and Missing you to the end.
God knows why you had to go
We don't ask "Why?" but we know
God will take care of you
Until our life here is through, then we will Be there with you.

Sadly missed by
Wife Linda and sons, brother, sister and parents

OPEN LINE

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

Is a miner eligible for Black Lung benefits if an x-ray shows no sign of Black Lung?

An x-ray is only one of a number of examinations which may be used to decide total disability due to Black Lung. A negative x-ray by itself does not make a miner ineligible.

Do you really feel that citizens want the government to forego new programs to cut back on federal spending?

Yes, I do. Based on letters, phone calls and face-to-face meetings in Central and Western Maryland, I sense a heightened feeling among our citizenry that Congress must reduce federal spending and seek to balance its budget. In fact, a solid majority of Sixth District citizens have voiced this very viewpoint on every questionnaire sent them over the past five years. In short, I believe families want Congress to stop voting for expensive new programs and to tighten their fiscal belts.

Did you vote against increasing the national debt to $597 billion?

Yes. It seems to me that one way we can curb spending is to stop expanding the U. S. public debt.

Has the increase in U. S. energy consumption generally followed our increase in population?

No. The increases in U.S. energy consumption are much more rapid than the growth of population. For example, between 1960 and 1968, the U.S. population increased by 11 percent while energy consumption rose 38 percent in the transportation sector, 45 percent for residential uses and 52 percent for commercial purposes.

What does our government spend on welfare programs each year?

According to HEW, the total public spending for major welfare programs reach $22.6 billion in fiscal 1975, a 20 percent increase over the previous year.

Can you tell me if Congress has increased the ceilings on federally insured loans for the purchase of mobile homes?

Yes. The House has passed legislation allowing the FHA to insure loans up to $12,500 for regular mobile homes and $20,000 for doublewidth homes.

I have been following the pension reform legislation passed by Congress and keep hearing about "vesting". What is "vesting" in relation to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act?

When you become eligible for participation in a pension plan, you start to earn credits towards your pension. After you have worked a specified period of time with an employer under a pension plan, the Act requires that you be given the right to certain pension benefits you have earned, which you will receive on retirement—even though you leave that job before retirement. This right is called "vesting".

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION
OF MARYLAND
ORDER NO. 61762
IN THE MATTER OF REGULATIONS GOVERNING SERVICE SUPPLIED BY GAS COMPANIES. BEFORE THE
OF MARYLAND
CASE NO. 6736

WHEREAS, several investigations and hearings have been conducted by the Commission on the shortage of natural gas and its impact on service to customers of the several distributing companies in the State of Maryland, and of the need to also conserve the supply of propane gas; and

WHEREAS, this shortage of natural gas during the 1975-1976 heating season resulted in those distributing companies' receiving gas from Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation of only 79.34 percent of the requirement needed to furnish service to all their retail customers; and

WHEREAS, notification has been received that the shortage of natural gas supplied by Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation for the 1976-1977 heating season is estimated at 74 percent of the amount necessary to meet all requirements of the distributing companies in Maryland; and

WHEREAS, Section 73 of Article 78 of the Annotated Code of Maryland provides that,

"The Commission may by regulation passed after due notice and opportunity for interested parties to be heard prescribe standards of safe, adequate, reasonable and proper service for any class of public service company, which in its opinion will best promote the security or convenience of the public . . . and of those to whom service is rendered . . . ";

WHEREAS, Section 1 of Article 78 of the Annotated Code of Maryland provides that the Commission shall have the powers specifically conferred on it by Article 78 and also all implied and incidental powers necessary and proper to carry out effectually the provisions of Article 78; and

WHEREAS, in view of the continuing and serious shortage of natural gas, the Commission concludes that consideration should be given discontinuing certain uses of natural gas that are found to be not essential to the public health and safety in order to conserve the available supply and to this end will schedule a hearing to adopt an appropriate regulation after full opportunity for interested persons to be heard; and

WHEREAS, also in view of this continuing and serious shortage of natural gas, the Commission finds that its implied powers should be exercised to place into effect immediately for a temporary period, pending its consideration of a permanent regulation, and emergency rule which prohibits a distributing from furnishing natural gas service for the following uses:

(a) outdoor gas lamps used for aesthetic purposes and where other means of area or street lighting exist,
(b) gas fireplaces,
(c) heating of outdoor swimming pools,
(d) heating of residential garages,
(e) converting existing non-gas using appliances to gas appliances, and
(f) additional gas-using appliances, other than replacement of existing gas-using appliances.

IT IS, THEREFORE, this 6th day of May, in the year Nineteen Hundred and Seventy-six, by the Public Service Commission of Maryland,

ORDERED: (1) That each gas distributing company subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission shall cause a copy of this Order to be published in at least one newspaper in each county in its service area on two successive weeks before June 5, 1976; and in the case of Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, in addition to publishing in each county of operation, to publish in two newspapers published in Baltimore City on two successive weeks before June 5, 1976; and in the case of Washington Gas Light Company, in additin to publishing in each county of operation, to publish in two newspapers in general circulation in the Washington Metropolitan Area on two successive weeks before June 5, 1976.

(2) That this matter be, and it is hereby, set for hearing at the offices of the Commission, 904 State Office Building, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland, on Wednesday, June 16, 1976, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m.

(3) That any person having representations to make but not desiring to be heard in person may make representations with respect to this matter by written communication and postmarked not later than June 14, 1976, addressed to the Commission at its offices, 904 State Office Building, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201

(4) That any person desiring to be heard in person in this matter should appear at the hearing at the time, date and place specified in Paragraph (2) of this Order, where full opportunity to present comments will be given.

(5) That pending the hearing and the adoption of an appropriate regulation based on a full consideration of the record in this matter including the representations made by the interested parties, People's Counsel and the regulated companies, the following regulation shall become effective forthwith as an emergency rule in the conservation of the supply of natural gas and propane gas in the State of Maryland:

"Emergency Rule Prohibiting a Distributing Company from Furnishing Natural Gas or Propane Gas Service for the Following Uses:

Baseball League Starts Sunday

Oakland's baseball team in the Pen Mar league will open its season at Romney on Sunday afternoon, May 23, at 2 o'clock. All games this year will begin at 2 and there will be seven-inning double headers each time.

This year's team is being managed by Ernest Shotwell, George Brady and Earl "Butch" Hinebaugh. This year's team has Bob Ingram, Craig Bosley, Randy DiSimone, Dave Shotwell and Mark Simpson, from Garrett Community college; Jerry Mahoney, from WVU; Ernie Shotwell from Davis and Elkins college; Basil Armstrong, who pitched for Romney last year.

Other team members are Buddy Fauber, Bob Finch, Terry Helbig, Phil Caruso, Al Cvetnick, Dave Bender, Faron Garver, Jim Bosley, Sam Glotfelty and Mike Brady.

This year the Pen Mar league will play the Somerset-Cambria county league in a 4-team tournament at Hyndman, Pa., on July 10 and 11 instead of the annual inter-league all-star game, it was announced. The league has adopted the American League designated hitter rule this year.

The Oakland team schedule includes the following in addition to the opening game:

May 30, Hyndman at Oakland; June 6, Everett at Oakland; June 12, Oakland at Keyser; June 13, Mt. Savage at Oakland; June 20, Oakland at Cumberland; June 26, Romney at Oakland; July 3, Oakland at Mt. Savage; July 18, Oakland at Hyndman; July 24, Keyser at Oakland; July 25, Oakland at Everett; August 1, Cumberland at Oakland.

Parents To Meet

A meeting of parents will be held at the Resource Center classroom in the Board of Education building in Oakland on Thursday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m., to determine county-wide concerns for children's services. The meeting is being called by the Garrett County 4-H council, community coordinated child care.

Parents' recommendations for changes and improvements will be compiled for a program of action, to be taken by the council, according to David Miller, chairman.

THE REPUBLICAN

Memorial Day . . .

Memorial Day is one of the most hallowed of holidays in the United States. Originally established May 30, 1868, in honor of soldiers who died in the War between the States, and later expanded to include those who died for their country in all wars — Memorial Day has become not only an occasion to honor our patriot dead, but also a day to visit and decorate graves of deceased loved ones and for many, a traditional day for an annual family get-together.

It will be a day when millions of Americans will be traveling on the highways and it is a period when one of the highest casualty rates in the year could occur. So persons driving should drive defensively, watching out for the other driver who may be overly-exhausted, be in too much of a hurry, or be preoccupied with matters which direct his attention from driving.

So don't become the occupant of a grave to be decorated with flowers next Memorial Day, if there is any way it can be avoided.

Bayard Gets Eagle Scout

Donley Uphold, member of troop 75, Boy Scouts of America, Bayard, W. Va., received his Eagle badge award at a dinner meeting and ceremony held at the Bayard fire hall on Monday evening, May 17.

Presentation was made by Willis V. Smith, scout executive for Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The scout recently passed all his required merit badges and was approved at a meeting of the Eagle Board of Review. This is the first Eagle badge awarded to a member of Bayard troop and the fourth to be presented within recent weeks in Deep Creek District.

John Johnstone is scoutmaster of troop 75. Guests at the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. Willis Smith, Cumberland, Alex McPheeters, scout executive of this district; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Fischetti. Mr. Fischetti is chairman of Deep Creek district.

Bolden To File Another School Board Measure

Delegate DeCorsey Bolden announced this week he would file another bill in the 1977 General Assembly that would provide for the election of members of the Board of Education. The bill was defeated in the primary referendum vote.

He said that after analyzing the vote and after conversations and requests by individuals to consider another bill, he did not consider the vote a mandate in opposition to an elected board, but rather provisions in the bill.

He said a new bill would endeavor to address the grievances expressed, which included no carryover terms, no limit on salary or expense accounts, and a restriction on the number to be voted on. He said he would draft a bill that would phase in the board with staggered terms so there would always be a carry-over member, reduce salary and expenses to what the present appointed board receives and change the voting so that all members were voted on.

He said there are two legislative sessions before the next countywide election so the question would not be placed on the ballot again until the primary of 1978.

No Tax Hike Expected This Year In County

The county commissioners are endeavoring to hold the line on the county tax rate, according to information from George C. Edwards, chairman, this week.

Details will not be firmed up for another two or three weeks, but he said the commissioners were in agreement that the $2.73 per $100 of assessed value rate should not be changed.

Edwards indicated some services may have to be reduced. He said a big obstacle was the lack of a budget surplus which they had last year. He said the county had $1 million surplus last year but that money had been spent on operating costs.

Another uncertainty was whether or not federal money through revenue sharing would be continued. Congress has still not extended the program beyond the first six months of the new fiscal year which begins July 1. He said a number of the departments would have either the same amount or less than last year. He said there would also be a few departments which would be getting an appreciable increase percentage wise, but this was to take care of inflationary factors.

Mr. Edwards foresaw a healthier fiscal picture here with economic and population growth anticipated. He added that completion of the National Freeway and more tourism trade plus expected gains in industrial development would help.

The commissioners are anticipating a heavier influx of both visitors and permanent residents. Also expected is an increase in the number of retired persons who decide to make the county their new home.

The county is expecting an increase of $10 million in its assessable tax base, making it about $155 million, some 6.8 percent more than the current base. If the revenue sharing program is fully funded by Congress the county would receive $640,000, but if not the county would get only half of that amount.

The new tax levy will probably be formally adopted by the county sometime after June 15.

Two Bills Vetoed; Similar Laws Already Signed

Two measures of importance to Garrett County residents were among the 79 vetoed last Friday by Governor Marvin Mandel in Annapolis. The two measures with reference to this county, however, were vetoed only because nearly identical bills had already passed and been signed into law by the Governor.

Sen. Bill 492, introduced by Senator Edward J. Mason, was vetoed because House Bill 983 (introduced by Del. DeCorsey Bolden) had passed and was signed a few weeks ago. The bill repealed the Sunday blue law provisions regarding sales of merchandise.

A second bill concerning this county, House Bill 1335, introduced by Del. Bolden, was vetoed. A similar bill, introduced by Sen. Hall of Anne Arundel, Calvert counties, had previously passed and been signed. The bill, with basically the same provisions, authorizes that fire and rescue appartus users are entitled to reimbursement of motor vehicle fuel tax. The bill specified that there will be a motor vehicle fuel tax refund for non-profit rescue squads not affiliated with fire departments.

Bills signed recently which pertain to this county included HB 982, which repealed the provision of the local law prohibiting the playing of golf and baseball or running of stockcar races before 1 p.m. and after 6 p.m. on Sunday.

There was also a movie provision in this bill, repealing the town of Oakland's law that movies could not be shown on Sunday except between 2:30 and 6 p.m. and again at 9 p.m.; and the county's provision that movies could not be shown until after 8 p.m. on Sundays.

The laws are now changed to read movies may be shown after 2 p.m.

Mandel Pledges Help For Area

Gov. Marvin Mandel will direct a state official to work full time on pushing economic development in Western Maryland, it was revealed following a meeting of the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland at McHenry last Thursday.

Richard C. Mappin, Cumberland, who was named president of the council, said he and Cumberland Mayor F. Perry Smith, Jr., had traveled to Annapolis to meet the governor to discuss the problems of this area.

At the council meeting Mr. Mappin called for a new direction within the council concerning economic development and industrial promotion. He explained that while substantial money had been channeled into the three western counties the results had not really created enough jobs needed in the area to get the economy turned around.

He said the governor indicated that the state thought it could get the local situation turned around through efforts of the Department of Economic and Community Development. He said the governor stated that the results hoped for have not occurred and a new direction must be taken.

Mr. Mappin said that one new thrust he would like to see within the council was to have one problem encountered at a time. "Garrett County, for instance, needs industrial parks. Let's take one year of funds and build those parks." He said another year could than be concentrated on Allegany county to build industrial park access roads and water systems. Washington county would have another year's funds for much needed projects as water and sewage. Other officers elected last Thursday included Martin Snook, Washington county, commissioner, vice-chairman; Mrs. Frances

Rules On Yough Corridor Put Into Effect May 26

Secretary James B. Coulter of the Department of Natural Resources announced this week that the proposed rules and regulations for control of the Youghiogheny River corridor will be effective May 26.

In a recent letter to Delegate DeCorsey Bolden, Secretary Coulter stated that he had visited Garrett County and had attended a joint meeting of the State Scenic and Wild Rivers Review Board and the Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board. His conclusions after the visit were that most of the land owners' opposition to the regulations stems from a basic objection to the regulatory approach taken by the state. He said this was evident in that most of the testimony from this group advocated wholesale rejection of the regulations while rarely addresssing any of their specifics. A contributing factor to this he listed as a basic misunderstanding on the part of most landowners as to the actual impact of the regulations. He emphasized in the letter that the regulations would have little or no effect on present land use which may continue unaffected, as "it has in some cases for generations."

With respect to the objections raised by those who suggested that regulations are not stringent enough, he agreed that the river will not remain exactly as it is today. However, he said the regulations do provide a mechanism that will minimize any adverse effects of permitted development.

He also added that it is the position of his department that the regulations cannot be made significantly more restrictive and remain within

Aurora Man Shot Sunday Morning

An Aurora man received a superficial gunshot wound to his forehead about 4:10 a.m. Sunday at a trailer home near the Garrett County-Preston County, W. Va. line.

Larry Allan Dillsworth, 33, of Aurora, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by members of the Southern Rescue Squad after being accidentally shot by Leroy Dumphy at the latter's trailer home. Dillsworth was treated for a graze of his right forehead in the emergency room and released.

According to Preston county deputy "Mac" McGinnis, Mr. Dumphy heard a prowler outside the rear of his home about 4 a.m. He went outside and found Dillsworth and asked him what he was doing there. Dillsworth replied, "What do you think I'm doing here." Following a brief conversation, Dillsworth grabbed at the gun barrel and was shot accidentally when the weapon discharged. The incident is still under investigation, according to Dep. McGinnis.

Riley, member of the city council of Oakland, secretary-treasurer.

One effort to implement the new chairman's ideas is a proposal for a $45,000 grant from the Economic Development Administration which could provide the TCC two full time economic specialists. An additional $15,000 would come from the three counties. The grant will be sought for the year starting July 1.

Local Highlights

Thursday morning was taken up by two committee meetings. Chairman Arthur Bond, commissioner of Allegany county, led the planning and Economic Development committee in discussing investment strategy for the upcoming fiscal year which will begin October 1. The group reviewed projects which will be submitted to the Appalachian Regional Commission for approval.

The planning committee agreed to recommend that the north branch of the Potomac River basin, including the towns of Gorman, Kitzmiller and Bloomington, be designed, designated as growth areas due to increased coal mining and resulting economic pressures in the region.

The recommendation was adopted at the meeting that afternoon, so that these towns will be eligible for ARD, ARC funding beginning this October provided ARC agrees.

The personnel committee had met also, and agreed to recommend to the council that the staff be enlarged by the addition of two more persons in the economic planning department.

The principal meeting began at 1 p.m. with committee reports. A welcome was given by Wayne Hamilton, who had been chairman of the Council for three years and who was recognized for his achievements in helping Tri-County Council through transition years from Governor's Commission for Appalachia to the present Council.

Mr. Hamilton noted that he feels the time is right for the council to get actively involved in the highway development programs in the area and specifically the Route 48 completion between Cumberland and Hancock.

Reports were then given by various state agencies. The Council was asked to become a channeling agent for the Roots Food Co-op in getting funds through to start a food and nutrition co-op for the elderly. If funding is obtained, Oakland may have a storefront facility to sell certain commodities at reduced prices to the elderly.

Tom Holder, Council planner, reported on the progress of the housing assistance plan currently being prepared for the Housing and Urban Development department. The plan was undertaken to determine housing needs in the three western counties, pinpointing present areas of specialized housing and concentrations of the needy.

Much of the latter part of the meeting was spent in voicing ways to get better attendance in order to obtain a full quorum of all three counties. Martin Snook had to leave the meeting early, so no official business could legally be consummated following his departure. The Council moved to form an ad hoc committee to amend the bylaws so that better attendance may be had.

Special guests Thursday included John Moore, of Maryland Economic and Community Development; and Del. Cas Taylor of Allegany County.

On Friday workshops on federal agencies were sponsored, also at the Village Inn.

Looking like any two ladies of the 1880's out for a shopping stroll were two of the many homemakers in old-fashioned dress at the Garrett County Homemakers mini fair last Thursday.

Receives Degree

Linda Bowman, McHenry, received a Bachelor of Science degree in Commercial Art from the College of Human Ecology at the University of Maryland, College Park, on May 15, at Cole Field House, graduating with a 3.4 grade point average.

Linda is employed by Shopping Guide, Inc., a bi-weekly advertiser at Waldorf. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bowman.

At this 176th graduation, Sir Peter Ramsbothan, Ambassador of Great Britain, spoke to the 4,000 candidates for degrees, at the Commencement and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Law degree from the University.

Rabies Clinics Are Scheduled

Rabies Clinics are being scheduled again in Garrett County to enable citizens to obtain low-cost protection against rabies for their dogs and cats. State law requires that all dogs four months of age and older in Maryland be vaccinated against rabies.

Dr. William W. Pope, Deputy State Health Officer for Garrett County announced that the Health Department, in cooperation with local veterinarians and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, will be offering clinics on June 4, 5 and 6 in Oakland, Friendsville, Grantsville, McHenry and Kitzmiller. A complete schedule of time and locations is as follows:

Oakland, Garrett County Medical Center, June 4th, 5:30 to 8:00 p.m.

Grantsville, Fire Hall, June 5th, 2:00 to 3:30; Friendsville, Fire Hall, 4:30 to 5:30; Oakland, Garrett County Medical Center, 6:30 to 8:00 p.m..

Kitzmiller, Community Building, June 6th 1:00 to 2:00 p.m., McHenry, Fairgrounds, 3:00 to 4:30 p.m.

Dr. Pope added that proof of vaccination must be provided before the dog owner may get a county dog license. The cost of the vaccination at the clinics is $2.50 for each animal. In order to speed service at the clinics, it is requested that pet owners bring the exact change to the clinic and a completed rabies clinic flyer which will be available in the schools or from the newspaper.

This year more than 19,000 people in Maryland will be bitten by dogs or cats, any one of which may present a rabies threat.

14 Are Killed On State Roads

Fourteen persons lost their lives on Maryland highways last week, according to the weekly news release compiled by 1st Lt. H. J. Heiger, of the Maryland State police.

Of those killed six were drivers, four were passengers and two were pedestrians. Two of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officers would have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

Persons killed through May 23 totaled 212 compared to 258 for the same period in 1975.

Heavy Fines Are Imposed On Two

Heavy fines were imposed on two persons in District Court by Judge Lewis R. Jones during the week ending May 26. One was a Natural Resource violation, the other against a Forestry Camp youth.

Roger Lee Detrick, Friendsville, pleaded not guilty of using explosives thrown in the water to kill fish which occurred at Kelly's bridge on Mill Run, April 24. At a trial last Friday, he was found guilty and fined $100 and costs.

Maurice Andre McFarlin, Lonaconing Forestry Camp, pleaded guilty of destruction of property at the Forestry Camp at a trial April 26. A presentence investigation was ordered at that time. Tuesday he was fined $100 and costs. A jail sentence of one year was suspended and he was placed on probation for three years under supervision and ordered to make restitution of $350 to the camp as part of the probation. His plea of not guilty of assault and battery on James Reed at the camp was sustained. Although McFarlin is only 17 years old, his case was waived from juvenile court due to the nature of the charge.

Carl B. Douglas, Bloomington, pleaded not guilty on two charges of motor violations, and was found guilty of both. For operating an unregistered vehicle, he was fined $30. For reckless driving, he was fined $50.

A charge of assault and battery against Curtis R. Glotfelty, RD 3, Oakland, was dismissed. The wife refused to testify.

Cancer Crusade Collects $7,036

Money is still coming in to the Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society following April's collections. So far, a total of $7,036.25 has been reached, somewhat short of the $8,225 goal set for this county this year.

A breakdown of the total indicates that the largest proportion of funds was obtained by house-to-house soliciting done in April, which raised $3,790.83. Next largest amount was $791, from memorials; then $730 from independent businesses.

The remainder included $117 from residential mail (those who were not at home at the time of the house to house canvass) $197 from independent special gifts; $299.44 from public employes; $266.40 from special events; and $1.96 from supplementary income. Clubs and organizations contributed only $38 of the total, much less than last year.

Some residential areas have not turned in all monies to the Society as yet. A complete total will be announced later.

Rules On Yough

the bounds of equity and constitutionality.

His letter continued to say that he was aware that the deadline for adoption of the regulations had been extended to January 31, 1977, but the immediacy of the adoption of the rules stemmed from his desire to forestall any threat of imminent development which has been rumored for certain areas along the river.

The Secretary emphasized that adoption of the regulations did not constitute final consideration of this matter by his department, and stated that he has instructed his staff to continue their effort on the Youghiogheny and specifically to give consideration to a number of alternatives which have been suggested. Some of these include revision of the present regulations, particularly with respect to the definition of the scenic corridor; selected acquisitions of land along the river either in fee or by easements, compensation to landowners where regulations are necessarily so restrictive so as to deny reasonable use of their property, and provisions of additional public access along the river.

Owners To Meet

According to Col. R. C. Browning, chairman of the Youghiogheny River Property Owners Association, the landowners believe the rules and regulations are inconsistent or in violation of the intent of the Wild and Scenic Rivers bill passed by the Maryland legislature.

To discuss these and other recent developments, the property owners will meet at the McHenry fire hall at 7:30 p.m. June 1 to determine future courses of action to protect their property and individual rights.

The Youghiogheny Wild River Regulations are published in Volume 3, Issue 11, Maryland Register, of May 26.

The Department of Natural Resources has mailed copies of the regulations to all property owners within the scenic corridor. Due to the possibility of errors or omissions in the property records owners within the corridor who have not received a copy of regulations by this time should contact the Department.

Copies of the regulations are available from Land Planning Services, Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Tawes State Office Building, 280 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis.

OAKLAND, MARYLAND

A large Bicentennial eagle served well as a centerpiece for the Meadow Glade Homemakers Club table of wares at the mini fair last Thursday afternoon and evening. Various baked goods and crafts of all descriptions were featured on nearly every table, as shown above. Officers of the Meadow Glade Club are Marguerite Wotring, president; Grace Reckard, vice president; Zella Bittinger, secretary; and Judy Miller, treasurer. Mrs. Margaret Sander's talented hands designed the eagle centerpiece of cardboard.

The art of macrame and its results are displayed above by Marilyn Enlow and Ruby Margroff, Cove, who gave a demonstration at the request of the Accident Homemakers Club last Thursday. Four hands instead of two helps the intricate art go faster. Approximately 250 visitors toured the mini fair held in observance of the Bicentennial year, in place of the Homemakers annual spring meeting. Seventeen Homemaker clubs participated.

Bittinger Homemakers Mrs. George Bowser and Mrs. Herbert Buckel demonstrate the sticky art of making pulled taffy based on maple syrup harvested in this county. In a pan in front of the women is some of the taffy before it is pulled. The women's products were in great demand during the mini fair, and buyers had to put in advance orders in order to get a taste of the finished product.

A patchwork map of the United States was one of the displays at the booth of the Hoyes Homemakers Club, manned above by Mrs. Betty Johenning, Mrs. Martha Bishoff and Mrs. Linda Venters. Patchwork design placemats and novel bandana hats were also displayed. Mrs. Nina Callis of the Deer Park Club is shown at the extreme right, seated, as she waits for customers at the Deer Park Homemakers display of holiday sniffer people and greeting cards.

An antiques display provided background for the items offered for sale at the Oakland Homemakers Club booth last Thursday at the mini fair. Chenille bump flowers provide a centerpiece, napkin aprons, decorative breads, and bicentennial plaques flank the table in front of Mrs. Nancy Beachy and Mrs. Juanita Stanton.

Chicken Barbecue Set for Sunday

Members of the Southern Garrett Jaycees are planning a chicken barbecue, to be served Sunday, May 30, from 12 o'clock noon until 6 o'clock at the Deep Creek lodge, McHenry, it was announced by Bruce Hall, president.

Cost of the full meal will be $2.75. Net proceeds will be used for local improvement projects.

Autumn Glory To Have Contests, Shows, Parade

A schedule of events for the 1976 Autumn Glory Festival has been compiled by the Deep Creek Lake—Garrett County Promotion Council.

As in previous years, the events will begin with a Friends of Garrett County dinner, planned this year for Wednesday, October 13.

Friday there will be a Maryland State Five-String Banjo championship competition at 8 p.m. at Southern High School, followed by the Kenny Price and Supersidemen show, also at Southern.

There will be an antique show and sale at the National Guard Armory and Autumn Glory bus tours of the area.

On Saturday, October 16, the annual parade will begin at 1:30 p.m.; the antique show and sale will continue at the Armory; and the bus tours will also continue.

That evening there will be the Maryland State Fiddlers' Championship contest at 8 p.m. at Southern High School, followed by the Charlie Louvin and the Big Men Show.

The Junior Woman's Civic Club will also sponsor a rock dance at the American Legion beginning at 9 p.m.

An antique auto show will be held Sunday, October 17, at Browning's Foodland from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Tentatively scheduled are demonstrations by the National Guard of parachuting and rapeling from a helicopter. This would probably be in two demonstrations, one Saturday and one Sunday, near the Oakland National Guard Armory.

Possible new events for 1976 could include a flea market and an auction, a tractor or horse pull contest, and a turkey shoot. Sponsors are needed for these events, as well as for additional meal facilities.

Deadline for organizations to be included in the Autumn Glory brochure is June 18.

Four Are Heard Monday On Drug Charges

Four Meyersdale persons charged on drug counts received a suspended sentence or guilty plea stricken by Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., in Circuit Court Monday.

Marc Regis Kemp, Myrtle Mirian Caton and Elmer Eugene Caton, all of Meyersdale, had pleaded guilty of possession of Marijuana at trials April 14. A presentence investigation had been ordered in each case at that time.

At the sentencing Monday, the guilty plea was stricken and three were placed on probation for one year without entry of judgment. At the same trial, a charge of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, against the three, was dismissed.

Terry Jack Holler, Meyersdale, pleaded guilty of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute at a trial Monday. A charge of possession was dismissed. Holler was sentenced to the Commissioner of Correction for two years. The sentence was suspended and Holler was placed on probation, under supervision, for an undetermined period.

The charges came out of an incident where a car was stopped by Tfc. D. E. Tharp, having been involved in drug traffic, on Yoder street in Grantsville, January 31. Marijuana was found in the car.

Customers Used 11 Percent Less Gas

Columbia Gas of Maryland's 27,000 residential customers used 11 percent less natural gas than normal last winter as a result of conservation.

Figures released by the gas company show that, adjusted for weather, Columbia's residential customers used 309 million cubic feet less natural gas during the Nov. 1, 1975, through Mar. 31, 1976, winter heating season than during a comparable period in 1972-73.

William C. Deems, Lonaconing, area manager for the gas company, said the 1972-73 period was selected as the base year since it was the last winter heating season with normal consumption before the Arab oil embargo and resulting energy crisis publicity generated an interest in conservation.

The figures also showed conservation efforts on the part of Columbia's residential users resulted in 6.3 percent less gas being consumed last winter than during the 1974-75 heating season.

Ban Consumption Of Intoxicants In State Parks

In an emergency measure, the Maryland Park Service banned consumption of intoxicating beverages in specific areas of State parks. The emergency regulation, approved by the Joint Standing Committee on Administrative Executive and Legislative Review of the General Assembly prohibits consumption or possession of any open container of any intoxicating beverage on any parking lot, roadway, trail or other designated areas in the State park system.

The regulation is effective immediately as of May 18, and will remain in effect for 120 days.

Park Service officials believe the regulation will curb the misuse of the parks by groups whose consumption of intoxicating beverages has resulted in disruption of normal park activities. Officials hope to further reduce littering which has also become a problem resulting from the use of intoxicating beverages.

A public hearing on the permanent adoption of this regulation will be convened in Annapolis at 7:30 p.m., June 15, 1976 in the Tawes State Office Building, 580 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis.

Other subjects to be convened at the June 15 hearing will include removal of non-game animals from all State Parks.

Written comments on the intoxicating regulation and other Park Service regulations should be addressed to the Maryland Park Service, Department of Natural Resources, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, 21401. Attention: Ralph T. Pease. Such comments will be received through June 15.

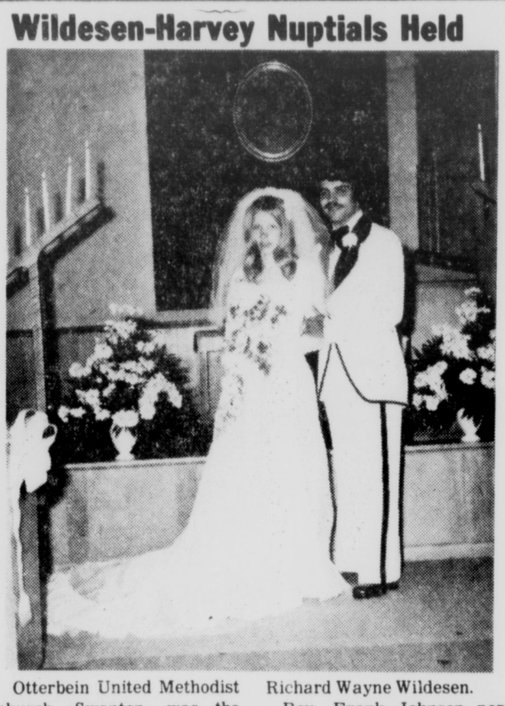
Wildesen-Harvey Nuptials Held



Otterbein United Methodist church, Swanton, was the setting for the May 1 wedding of Ruth Ann Harvey and Richard Wayne Wildesen.

Rev. Frank Johnson performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Wanda Maphis, organist, accompanied Pam Workman, of Friendsville, who sang "On Top of the World," "We've Only Just Begun;" and Harold Wildesen, Crofton, brother of the bridegroom, who sang "Secret Love," and "Father Hear the Prayer We Offer." The latter was arranged by Mr. Wildesen for the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kitzmiller, Swanton, are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Wildesen, also Swanton.

Given in marriage by her step-father, the bride wore a princess line wedding gown of nylon sheer with scooped neckline, long tapered sleeves. Chantilly lace cascaded from the neckline to the edge of a wide ruffle which encircled the full length skirt which swept to a chapel train. Banding of lace and seed pearls adorned the neckline and sleeves which were edged with a lace trimmed ruffle. Her profile headdress was of starched lace flowers with pearl trim attached to a four-layered French illusion hip length veil. She carried a bouquet of printed daisies with a lift out corsage of yellow rose buds with greenery and streamers to match her colors of pastel yellow and mint green.

Her maid of honor and bridesmaids wore gowns of embroidered eyelet with empire waistline, scooped neckline, which featured a wide ruffle which formed a cap sleeve. They wore white picture hats and satin ribbon to match the dresses. They carried bouquets of painted daisies.

Flower girls wore gowns of matching style and color. Maid of honor was Nita Shaffer, Kitzmiller. Bridesmaids were Freda Moore, Barton; Mrs. Lois Goselin, Swanton. Junior bridesmaid was Barbara Kitzmiller, sister of the bride, Swanton. Flower girls were Tara Wildesen, Crofton, niece of the bridegroom, and Michelle Bray, Swanton, cousin of the groom.

Serving as best man for his brother was Darrell Wildesen, Riverdale. Ushers were Gerald Wildesen, brother of the groom, Mt. Lake Park; Robert Harvey, brother of the bride, Swanton; and Gary Paugh, cousin of the bride, Barton.

A reception followed in Fellowship hall of the church.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear beloved mother and wife Helen Frazee, who passed away ten years ago today, May 27, 1966.

From hospital bed to heavenly rest.
God took her home to be his guest.
We lived in hope and prayed in vain.
That somehow she'd be well again
But God decided that we must part
It eased her pain, but broke our hearts
And while she rests in peaceful sleep
Her dear, sweet memory we'll always keep.
We'll tend her grave with loving care.
For it's our hearts that are buried there.

Sadly missed by
husband Glen, children, Dale, Dorothy and Glenna, grandchildren, family and friends

IN MEMORIAM

The following poem was written in memory of my beloved husband, Omer "Jack" Humberson, who passed away eleven years ago, May 2, 1965.

I feel that it expresses my thoughts and feelings for any loved one who has passed away. It also conveys the feelings that I share with anyone who has lost a loved one. Therefore, as we approach Memorial Day, I would like to share the poem with you and dedicate it to all who have gone on before, but who still live on in our memory.

I Said Farewell to a Loved One

There comes a time in each one's life,
When they must bid farewell,
To move on to a higher realm,
And within a palace dwell.
And loved ones who are left behind,
Always find it hard to bear,
As they think of all the hopes and dreams,
They can no longer share.
But God didn't make a promise, of life without any pain,
To see the beauty of the rainbow,
We must first have the rain.
We know that what is here and now,
Is just part of God's scheme,
It's really just an interlude,
To something beyond our dreams.
For life on this small island,
In the vast sea of space,
Is just an imprint in the sand,
Which the tides of time erase.
As we view each new horizon,
And see a new day begin,
We should cherish the beauty around us,
And be grateful for family and friends.
Loved ones are not lost forever,
Who had to journey ahead,
They know one day we will follow,
They are preparing the way instead.
I said farewell to a loved one,
At times I'm lonely and grieve,
But I see his likeness in our children,
They are the love he left with me.
As my loved one walks ahead of me,
I hope he'll shorten his stride,
Until that day when I join him,
And we can walk side by side.

Lovingly remembered by wife,
Thelma Frantz Humberson, daughter, Gina Renai Humberson and sons, Ivan Jay and Dana Ray Humberson

The ranking of youth enrolled in the Garrett Broiler Program was determined on the basis of weight and conformation of the representative three dressed broilers on exhibit, feed and mortality records, and the management practices which the youth employed in growing their broilers out, it was explained.

To prepare the youth for the contest, Bill Dressman, USDA Poultry Inspector at Sterling Processors, held a Broiler Dressing Demonstration to teach the youth how to properly dress and completely eviscerate their broilers. The remainder of the broiler flock will be used by the families enrolled in the project as poultry meat for home consumption, or for sale as dressed broilers in the local market.

Four-H Agent Lawrence Little related that a special thanks go to Dr. Dan Bigbee, University of Maryland Poultry Specialist who judged the 1976 Garrett Broiler Show. In addition, recognition goes to Gilman Sylvester who donated the project chicks on behalf of Sterling Processing, Inc. Mr. Sylvester climaxed the 1976 Dressed Broiler Show by presenting the ribbons and premium checks to those youth who completed the project.

Jacoby-Baker Wedding Held

An event of last Autumn in the neighborhood of Mt. Lake Park was the marriage of Constance S. Baker, daughter of Stanley H. and Arva W. Baker, of near Loch Lynn, to Fred W. Jacoby, son of Robert L. and Norma Jacoby, Rockville, on Saturday afternoon, the 18th of October, at Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Nancy J. Baker, Seaside, Oregon, and Michelle Baker, sisters of the bride, were maids of honor. Also attending the bride were Sherry Kinikin, Lanham, and Rhonda Baer, Ithaca, New York. The bridesmaids were dressed in floor-length velvets and carried longstemmed white Chrysanthemums.

To a classical baroque duet played on recorders by Tim Liebermann, Arlington, Virginia, and Gary Skillion, Wheaton, pastel rose petals were dropped by the bride's sisters.

The bride was gowned in ivory sheer organza trimmed with Peau de Ange lace, the bodice and bishop sleeves embellished with a sprinkling of pearls over lace. A lace-trimmed chapel train was affixed to a bow at the back. She wore an ivory picture hat of braid and illusion and carried an ivory ribboned nosegay of yellow rose buds, pink carnations, and white baby's breath. The groom dressed in his grandfather's 1915 wedding tuxedo, long tails, denim jeans, and an ornately embroidered white shirt.

A passage from the Bible read by Sherry Kinikin, "Faith, Hope, and Love" opened the ceremony. Other readings followed: Ogden Nash's "Tin Wedding Whistle" read by Skip McGill, Kensington, and Kahil Gibran's thoughts on marriage from "The Prophet" alternately read by Michelle Baker and Rhonda Baer.

Art Jacoby, Lawrence, Kansas, best man and brother of the groom, presented a solo on guitar, singing, "And I Love Her" by the Beatles.

The bride's reading was from William Wadsworth's poem, "To a Butterfly;" the groom read an excerpt from "Player Piano" by Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., then from the works of Anne Morrow Lindbergh on personal relationships. The couple exchanged vows and the groom gave the bride a silver band, hand made in Israel.

A reception followed. Camilia Clough, Takoma Park, cut and served the wedding cake. Some fifty guests from Baltimore, Mt. Airy, Washington, Hagerstown, Oakland, Fairmont, Aurora, and Salisbury, Pa. attended.

The bride and groom honeymooned at Neahkahnie Beach, on north Oregon coast and returned cross-country to Maryland. They now reside near Libertytown.

Area Aviation Report Compiled

Several recommendations were made recently for upgrading aviation facilities in Western Maryland in a final state report in the Maryland Aviation System plan.

The report has been compiled by the Maryland Department of Transportation and marks the state's first comprehensive aviation system plan.

The report includes a brief description of each airport in the state and noted that there are now 12 airports in Western Maryland, including five public use facilities.

On Garrett County's airport, the report stated: "This publicly-owned airport presently serves residents of and visitors to Garrett County and provides a valuable aviation resource in an area with few transportation alternatives.

"To provide a greater margin of safety to aircraft using this basic utility airport, the county is now planning a runway extension. Additional aircraft parking area, including hangars, should also be provided."

Also, in the area of helicopter use, report said: "In addition to providing a new emergency heliport at Frostburg Community Hospital, existing facilities at the following hospitals must be improved to include paved, lighted and marked landing areas: Cumberland Memorial, Frederick Memorial, Sacred Heart, Washington County, and Garrett County Memorial."

The report was prepared through financial assistance from the Federal Aviation Administration and State Department of Transportation Funds.

Plan Seminar To Aid Travelers Thru CB Radio

A unique CB radio program aimed at helping out travelers has been launched in Maryland, and a seminar will be held at Garrett Community college auditorium on Wednesday, June 9, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The program, known as the CB HOT Line, has been developed by the maryland department of Economic and Community Development's division of tourist development and the Maryland State Police.

The State-wide HOT line has two primary objectives: to make emergency assistance available through participating Citizens Band radio clubs, who will be able to summon police, fire or medical assistance; and to involve CB operators in assisting motorists with State and local travel information.

Special bumper stickers will be furnished to identify participating radio operators. Upon completion of a special training program conducted by the State Police and State and local tourism representatives, participants will receive the bumper stickers and certificates of achievement.

Training will feature proper reporting techniques and accepted handling procedures for on the scene emergency situations. In addition, State and local tourism representatives will supply participants with travel information that can be supplied via CB radio.

Training programs are to start June 1 and will cover the entire state. Clubs interested in participating in the June 9 meeting for the CB HOT Line are to contact Corporal Jerry W. Eisman, State Police headquarters at Pikesville.

Individual CB operators, not belonging to a club but desiring to attend the seminar, must contact a local organized CB club.

WHICH WAY TO TURN?

There he goes, walking into the future. But what direction will he take?

Whatever his choice, he will have to face problems and obstacles before his chosen goals can be reached.

One thing is sure, the years ahead hold much promise. One day he may be landing a jet on a carrier at sea, building a bridge in a foreign country, closing a big sale, or perhaps covering a fast-breaking news story. But to successfully reach his goal he will have to find the strength and wisdom to rise above the knotty problems of life.

Fortunately, he need not make his decisions alone. With the help of the Church, he can determine a course for successfully living his life in the world of tomorrow.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE GREATER FAMILY

Lesson for May 30, 1976

Background Scripture: Romans 14:13 through 15:6; Galatians 6:1-10.
Devotional Reading: James 5:7-20.

It seems to me that the most impressive local churches I have known have been those that were most like an expanded human family. Whatever else the local church is, it is a family, a greater-family that begins with but reaches out beyond the families that make up the congregation.

Rev. Althouse

Recently I had an opportunity to visit a fair number of different churches on a series of Sunday mornings. Only one of them struck me as church that I would enjoy attending and participating in its program. The people in the sanctuary that Sunday morning gave the impression of being part of a greater family that cared for and shared with one another. Because they enjoyed and valued each other, they seemed also to enjoy and value the presence of visitors. Theirs was a family circle that was open-ended.

You who are spiritual

Someone recently told me that the church was the last place where he would want his troubles or weaknesses to be known. He found the local congregation to be a place of judgement, rather than compassion and support. While his characterization of the church does not apply to all churches, it does pretty well describe too many congregations.

The Apostle Paul had a different concept of what the local congregation ought to be. For example, he sees the local congregation being more interested in reclaiming lives than in simply condemning those who we judge to be "the sinners." In Galatians, he gave specific counsel on this matter:

Brethren, if a man is overtaken in any trespass, you who are spiritual should restore him in a spirit of gentleness.

Thus, one of the primary characteristics of the family is this desire to salvage rather than condemn those who go astray. And this is also true of the church too; it is truly and deeply concerned about redeeming people.

Bear one another's burdens

Another characteristic of the congregation as a greater family is the desire to be helpful to one another. "Bear one another's burdens," counsels Paul. The attitude of "Live and let live" is not adequate in the Christian congregation. What is needed is a commitment to "Live and help live." This is not a matter of occasional helpfulness, but of continuing service to one another. As Paul puts it, "... let us not grow weary in well-doing" and again, "So then, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all men, and especially to those who are of the household of faith."

Thus, the essence of our life together in a local congregation is a matter of both restoring and helping one another in the manner of members of a family who care about and are responsible for one another.

The unit, composed of persons from both the Oakland and Frostburg areas, will spend the first week of encampment at Fort Pickett, Blackstone, Va., and will participate in an army training test, designed to evaluate the effectiveness of unit member operating on the squad level. During the first week the unit will bivouac in two-man tents.

The second week will be spent at the Little Creek Naval base, Va., near Norfolk. That week's training will be devoted to amphibious assault training. Climax of the training will be an actual amphibious landing where the guardsmen will descend from the deck of a ship down nets onto landing craft and secure a beachhead.

The unit will move from Little Creek to the battalion headquarters at Ellicott City on Friday, June 11 and plan to return to Oakland on June 12, around noon.

In addition to the operations at Little Creek a provisional detachment of 13 men will accomplish various heavy equipment projects at Gunpowder Reserve near Baltimore. Three men will attend an NCO school conducted by the state in lieu of summer camp and a qualified representative will remain at both the Oakland and Frostburg armories for recruiting duty.

Also mentioned was the state report on water and sewage being completed for the county commissioners.

Acting chairman I. R. Rudy, Jr. had appointed four members to check forestry legislation which would stop timbering on state-owned lands. A report by these members indicated that legislation submitted by Delegate Toft from Prince George's county was defeated by the enviromental committee.

Commissioners, Bus Operators Discuss Problems

The County School Bus Contractors Association met with the County Commissioners during their regular Monday meeting to discuss the present reimbursement they receive from the Board of Education. The Association has requested that the Commissioners consider increasing their reimbursement by 7% to help meet drastically increased operating costs. Charles Bender pointed out to the Commissioners that maintenance costs during the last three years have increased almost 50%, while the school bus operators, during the same period, have received very modest increases. The Commissioners promised to investigate the funding formula for school bus contractors and consider their request.

John Farmer, Director of the County Solid Waste Department, discussed some cases of misuse of the green box collection system. Mr. Farmer pointed out that the Solid Waste Department is able to collect trash from all the green boxes on a twice weekly schedule. However, the job is complicated by some individuals who dispose of bulky items at the green box sites which cannot be collected by the compactor. In addition, some high volume commercial users are using the green boxes rather than hauling the Solid Waste to the land fill site. The Commissioners emphasized that the green box containers are for County resident users only and that anyone depositing bulky items can call the Solid Waste Department at 387-4077 to have bulky items removed.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Petititons are being circulated throughout the county to obtain signatures to bring the "Blue Laws" question to referendum. The first amendment of the U.S. Constitution guarantees the right to petition. This same amendment also protects every American from the religious convictions and restrictions of others; freedom of speech and freedom of the press. If state and local governments can make and enforce laws pertaining to a religious day, they could also restrict the freedom of speech, freedom of the press and the right to petition.

Some claim that "Blue Laws" apply to a "Civil Sunday", not a "Religious Sunday". If this is true, why don't they argue their case from a law book instead of trying to prove it from the Bible?

I wonder how many of those who sign the petitions either work on Sunday, or patronize business places on Sundays; restaurants, gas stations, grocery stores, etc. Who is qualified to say that it isn't wrong for a cook or waitress to work on Sunday, that's what we are saying if we go out for Sunday dinner; but it is wrong for a hardware clerk or salesman to do so?

Yours truly,
Robert F. Stewart

Memorial Day Observance Set For Friendsville

The Friendsville Memorial Day committee announced this week that services honoring the veterans of the country's wars will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, May 29, in front of the honor roll and the municipal building.

Featured speaker is Sen. Edward J. Mason, who represents Garrett County in the Maryland General Assembly. Sen. Mason, minority leader of the Maryland State Senate and party leader of the Republican Party, is a Cumberland resident. His accomplishments include careers in business, and the dairy industry and government.

Also featured will be the Northern High School band, under direction of Melvin R. Schwing, and the Friendsville Elementary School Band, led by Harold Hudnall. Dr. Bruce Jenkins will preside over the ceremonies which will include the traditional solemn tribute to the supreme sacrifice made by fallen veterans.

This year's service will be the last to be held at the Main Street location. A new honor roll is being constructed by the American Legions of the Western Maryland district and is to be located in front of the new elementary school. The new memorial will be dedicated July 4 of this year.

Representatives of the town of Friendsville are hoping that their petition to the Garrett County Board of Education to name the school "The Friendsville Memorial Elementary School" will be accepted and commemorated at that time.

Garrett Is Eighth In Dairy Production

Garrett County ranked eighth in the state in milk production last year, according to Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting statistics.

Frederick County led the state in milk production with a yield of 445.5 million pounds. Garrett had 66 million pounds and Allegany County was 16th with 4.5 million pounds.

Dairy farms in the 23 counties produced 1,555 billion pounds of milk in 1975, a three percent increase over 1974. Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Young D. Hance said the state's dairy production capacity actually exceeded its estimated consumption of dairy products by about seven percent.

Mr. Hance also noted that dairy farming is Maryland's second largest agricultural business in terms of economic impact, ranking just behind poultry production.

Mr. Hance said that in recent years the farm price for milk has lagged behind production costs, creating a chronic problem for farmers. In recent months, the situation has improved somewhat, but he added "the outlook for the future is far from bright, as the costs of labor, fertilizers and machinery continue to mount."

Romney Winner Over Oakland

Romney registered double header victories over Oakland on Sunday afternoon at Romney in the Pen Mar baseball league. Keyser won over Mt. Savage in a double header while Fort Cumberland and Hyndman split a pair.

In the Romney games Parsons and Hott were winning pitchers as Romney pounded Oakland 14 to 4 and 15 to 3. Hott tossed an eight hitter and fanned 14. He helped himself at the plate with three hits. Denny Wilson and Arnold Coleman had two hits each. Ernie Shotwell had two safeties for the losers. Brady and Armstrong were the losers for Oakland.

Rams Defeat Huskies 2-1

In the last of the final inning, pitcher Danny Preston hit a lead off triple and was singled in by Doug Green to five the Southern High Rams a 2-1 decision over Northern Huskies last Thursday at Oakland.

Winning Southern opened a 1 to 0 lead in the bottom of the first when Allan Sweitzer doubled in a run after two Ram batters drew walks. The narrow lead lasted until the top of the fourth when Butch Workman hit a homer to right center to knot the score.

Neither school could score in the fifth or sixth frames and the losing Huskies also drew a zero in the top of the seventh. After Preston hit the lead-off triple in his own defense, losing hurler Bill Butler also gave up a walk. Green had the game winning hit with runners holding at first and third in a one out situtation.

Both hurlers went the distance with Preston fanning seven and allowing three walks. Butler fanned five and issued five bases on balls.

The Rams concluded the season with a 4-6 record while Northern had a 7 to 5 record.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF MARYLAND
ORDER NO. 61762

IN THE MATTER OF REGULATIONS GOVERNING SERVICE SUPPLIED BY GAS COMPANIES. BEFORE THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF MARYLAND
CASE NO. 6736

WHEREAS, several investigations and hearings have been conducted by the Commission on the shortage of natural gas and its impact on service to customers of the several distributing companies in the State of Maryland, and of the need to also conserve the supply of propane gas; and

WHEREAS, this shortage of natural gas during the 1975-1976 heating season resulted in those distributing companies' receiving gas from Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation of only 79.34 percent of the requirement needed to furnish service to all their retail customers; and

WHEREAS, notification has been received that the shortage of natural gas supplied by Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation for the 1976-1977 heating season is estimated at 74 percent of the amount necessary to meet all requirements of the distributing companies in Maryland; and

WHEREAS, Section 73 of Article 78 of the Annotated Code of Maryland provides that,

"The Commission may by regulation passed after due notice and opportunity for interested parties to be heard prescribe standards of safe, adequate, reasonable and proper service for any class of public service company, which in its opinion will best promote the security or convenience of the public . . . and of those to whom service is rendered . . . ";

WHEREAS, Section 1 of Article 78 of the Annotated Code of Maryland provides that the Commission shall have the powers specifically conferred on it by Article 78 and also all implied and incidental powers necessary and proper to carry out effectually the provisions of Article 78; and

WHEREAS, in view of the continuing and serious shortage of natural gas, the Commission concludes that consideration should be given discontinuing certain uses of natural gas that are found to be not essential to the public health and safety in order to conserve the available supply and to this end will schedule a hearing to adopt an appropriate regulation after full opportunity for interested persons to be heard; and

WHEREAS, also in view of this continuing and serious shortage of natural gas, the Commission finds that its implied powers should be exercised to place into effect immediately for a temporary period, pending its consideration of a permanent regulation, and emergency rule which prohibits a distributing from furnishing natural gas service for the following uses:

(a) outdoor gas lamps used for aesthetic purposes and where other means of area or street lighting exist,
(b) gas fireplaces,
(c) heating of outdoor swimming pools.
(d) heating of residential garages,
(e) converting existing non-gas using appliances to gas appliances, and
(f) additional gas-using appliances, other than replacement of existing gas-using appliances.

IT IS, THEREFORE, this 6th day of May, in the year Nineteen Hundred and Seventy-six, by the Public Service Commission of Maryland,

ORDERED: (1) That each gas distributing company subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission shall cause a copy of this Order to be published in at least one newspaper in each county in its service area on two successive weeks before June 5, 1976; and in the case of Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, in addition to publishing in each county of operation, to publish in two newspapers published in Baltimore City on two successive weeks before June 5, 1976; and in the case of Washington Gas Light Company, in additin to publishing in each county of operation, to publish in two newspapers in general circulation in the Washington Metropolitan Area on two successive weeks before June 5, 1976.

(2) That this matter be, and it is hereby, set for hearing at the offices of the Commission, 904 State Office Building, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland, on Wednesday, June 16, 1976, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m.

(3) That any person having representations to make but not desiring to be heard in person may make representations with respect to this matter by written communication and postmarked not later than June 14, 1976, addressed to the Commission at its offices, 904 State Office Building, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201

(4) That any person desiring to be heard in person in this matter should appear at the hearing at the time, date and place specified in Paragraph (2) of this Order, where full opportunity to present comments will be given.

(5) That pending the hearing and the adoption of an appropriate regulation based on a full consideration of the record in this matter including the representations made by the interested parties, People's Counsel and the regulated companies, the following regulation shall become effective forthwith as an emergency rule in the conservation of the supply of natural gas and propane gas in the State of Maryland:

"Emergency Rule Prohibiting a Distributing Company from Furnishing Natural Gas or Propane Gas Service for the Following Uses:
(a) outdoor gas lamps used for aesthetic purposes and where other means of area or street lighting exist,
(b) gas fireplaces,
(c) heating of outdoor swimming pools,
(d) heating of residential garages,
(e) converting existing non-gas using appliances to gas appliances, and
(f) additional gas-using appliances, other than replacement of existing gas-using appliances."

(6) That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve a copy of this Order on each of the distributing gas companies subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, the Office of People's Counsel, and to the Governing Body of each of the 23 Counties of Baltimore City.

Association For Retarded Citizens To Meet June 7

There will be a meeting of the Garrett County Association for Retarded Citizens Monday, June 7, at 7:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College.

Persons interested in joining are invited, says Mrs. Dorothy Leuba, local chapter president. Those interested need not have the care of a retarded adult or child, as anyone with an interest in helping those who are retarded are welcome.

The Garrett County Association was formed last November and officers chosen in December. Other officers of the 21-member group are Mrs. Lois Naylor, secretary; and Mrs. Chris Yoder, treasurer. The group meets once a month.

The Association hopes to develop membership so that various projects, small and large, may be accomplished. A big dream for the future is establishment of a group home for the retarded; more attainable goals may be helping someone get transportation to and from the Adult Activities Center in Oakland.

Officials of the national and state Associations for the Retarded Citizens will be present at the June meeting to present information concerning areas in which they may help the county group. One major fund-raising effort per year is held, a Ride-A-Bike, usually held annually in April. The Garrett Association may schedule such a bike-a-thon this September or October if enough interest is sparked at the meeting.

According to the Maryland Association, mental retardation is a condition which causes a person to develop at a below average rate, thereby experiencing problems in learning and social adjustment, economic productivity, and independence. The group aims, through special training, education and community action, to help the mentally retarded to realize the most of their capabilities. The Association also helps gain public acceptance and understanding of the needs of the retarded which are critical to achieving such services.

An estimated 130,000 Marylanders and six million Americans are mentally retarded.

B.A.S.S. Tourney Posts 6 Winners

A Maryland B.A.S.S. federation elimination tournament was conducted on Deep Creek Lake during the past week with six persons selected to represent the Maryland bass fishermen in a national tournament in September.

Productive Jobs . . .

The unemployment rate is far too high, but the proposed Full Employment and Balanced Growth Act offers only a cover-up approach to a complicated problem. At a time when all are eager to see both inflation and the size of government reduced, this bill would require the government to achieve an unemployment rate of 3 percent in four years or sooner through the creation of public service jobs.

Not only would this mean more bureaucracy, but it could saturate the government payroll with non-productive employes, a sure way to more inflation. Some 3.5 percent of the unemployed are always in the process of changing jobs, so it is doubtful if 3 percent unemployment could ever be achieved.

A far wiser plan, according to the Industrial Press Service, would have the Congress encourage capital formation so that private business could afford to expand and modernize operations, and thereby create more productive jobs. That plan avoids creating more bureaucracy, is less expensive and far less inflationary. All of the Democratic candidates seem to be accepting this proposed make work bill but even some supporters of the bill concede that it is "more an expression of philosophy than a workable law." It is past time for philosophy; we need constructive action which will strengthen the economy rather than invent makework jobs.

New Leaf Plant Shop Now Open In Friendsville

Susan Kibbey, a resident of Friendsville, has just opened the New Leaf Plant Shop on Bear Creek Road as an offshoot of her long time hobby of raising plants.

Mrs. Kibbey and her husband Richard reside in the former Coddington home in Friendsville. For her plants, she has renovated a cinder block building once used as a service station on the property. Her shop will be open daily throughout the week.

Patrons will be able to mix and match plants, pots and macrame or bead hangers as they wish, through a wide price range. Plants will cost from 25 cents to $18 for a complete trio of plant, pot and hanger.

Mrs. Kibbey will also offer a rooting service for plant cuttings.

Mrs. Kibbey related that at Johns Hopkins Hospital where she formerly worked as an educational therapist, she had gained a reputation as the "plant lady" by restoring to health a variety of ailing house plants. In late fall, her friends and neighbors would offer her any spare space in their refrigerators for pots, of tulip and crocus bulbs to be enjoyed throughout the dreary Baltimore winters.

In her home, Susan will maintain a reference library for assistance in dealing with problem plants and she plans to make this library available to patrons at the New Leaf.

Garrett Pilots Group Nominates Officers

Various members were nominated for officers at the May 27 meeting of the Garrett County Pilots Association.

Those nominated were Robert Railey, Dwight Snyder, president; Ted Raynovich, Dwight Snyder, vice president; Randy Myers, Wayne Fike, secretary; Markel Maust, John Spencer, Ted Raynovich, treasurer.

Elections will be held at the June 24 meeting which will be held in the basement of the American Legion post in Oakland at 8 p.m.

RCEDA Files For Bankruptcy

The Board of Directors of the Regional Cultural and Educational Development Association (RCEDA) met recently with a group of the managing personnel and a unanimous decision was reached that the corporation should be put into bankruptcy.

Attorney Charles Ross, Friendsville, has been directed to forward the necessary material to the bankruptcy attorney in Baltimore and that material is now being collected.

Reasons for the filing stem principally from an abrupt cessation of cash flow into the state-contracting, nonprofit organization, while the state was holding an evaluation of the programs offered, according to William Robinson, RCEDA director.

The state has since agreed to resume funding, but by the time cash flow was reestablished, the group felt bills would have climbed to hopelessly high proportions. It is unusual for an organization to go bankrupt when assets exceed outstanding bills (RCEDA has $2,235,000 in assets, $100,000 in outstanding bills) but the Board agreed that to file for reorganization under Federal bankruptcy laws was the wisest move at present in order to protect creditors and assets.

Amounts owed now to approximately 125 creditors total somewhere in the region of $90,000. Three creditors have bills over $10,000 and only one of these is in this county. The average bill owed to county business places is about $125.

RCEDA was formulated nearly five years ago with a Board of Directors of seven local people, four from the Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College. Funds generated by RCEDA were channeled into Garrett and other Maryland colleges, helping set up scholarships totaling $1,100,000.

According to Mr. Robinson, RCEDA purchased about $800,000 in goods and services locally and had a payroll of $1,000,000 paid out over the past three years of its exist-

Fourth of July Sunrise Service Set at McHenry

Plans are now being formed by members of the Mt. Top Ministerial Association to conduct a sunrise worship service at the Fair Grounds, McHenry, on the Fourth of July. Present plans call for the service to begin at 6:30 a.m.

The plans of the service are the result of a series of discussions among church and community leaders concerning the marking of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The Fair Grounds location was considered the most central place to conduct the service, and the 6:30 a.m. time was the one which would allow for other activities in different parts of the county on the Fourth.

Included on the program for the service will be musical selections by Southern High and Northern High students, and several local choirs. Speaker for the service will be the Rev. William Carlson, Accident Lutheran Parish.

C&P To Install Electronic Switching System In Oakland

The C & P Telephone Company has announced that a new Electronic Switching System will be installed in Oakland to provide to local customers all of the newest features of telephone service available anywhere.

A. W. Meyer, local manager for C & P, said construction has begun in the rear of the central office located on Oak Street in Oakland, for necessary enlargements of the existing building so that it may accommodate the new equipment.

The new system will provide touch tone service to all Oakland (334) customers as well as Custom Calling Service. Custom calling service will include call waiting, call forwarding, speed calling and three-way calling. More detailed information will be supplied to all Oakland area subscribers as the service becomes available.

Construction of the building addition is being supervised by A. B. Fadeley, a member of the C & P Telephone Company Engineering department. Mr. Fadeley said the addition to the Oakland exchange will cost more than $264,000.

Installation of the Electronic Switching equipment will be under the direction of R. R. Harrison III, manager of Dial Service. Mr. Harrison said the new central office equipment will cost over $2,055,000 and that the installation will be completed sometime late in 1977 or early 1978. He said a definite date for the change over from the present equipment will be established early next year as the work progresses.

Suits Filed By Sanitary Commission Against Two Towns

Suits have been filed by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission against the corporations of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn for non-payment of sewage services to these towns.

May 24 was the deadline set by the County Commissioners for payment of the bills, and when no checks were forthcoming, the Commission had no choice but to sue, according to Wayne Hamilton, member of the Board of County Commissioners.

The corporations were charged for transmission and treatment of sewage waste water after the first of the year. Both towns began using the treatment lagoon at Trout Run last August.

According to Mr. Hamilton, initially the towns were not satisfied with the rates being charged. Negotiations with McNair and Associates, the engineering firm, had set a rate, but when the towns were dissatisfied, a negotiation was made for a lesser amount to be charged for the first year until experience was gained on the actual cost of operating and maintaining the plant.

In addition, the towns were to install meters at homes of users. The rate would be related to water usage after one year of plant operation.

Charges were pro-rated to the towns, according to use, so that the Sanitary Commission could recover sanitation costs.

Charges are made in a lump sum by the Commission to each municipality. The towns in turn collect from the users, on a household usage basis.

When bills had not been paid, suits were filed on May 31 to press for payment. There has been some indication, however, that the corporation of Loch Lynn intends to pay.

Amtrak To Run From Washington To Cincinnati

Amtrak's Board of Directors has decided to initiate a new day train between Washington and Cincinnati Via Cumberland and Oakland, in place of a far costlier overnight Washington-Denver service designated by former Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar, Amtrak announced.

Amtrak planners said the board service could begin as early as October 25 if track and facilities work can get under way quickly during the current summer work season. The company intends to use new Amfleet equipment for the service.

Early this year the Department of Transportation advised Amtrak that a modification of the original route was acceptable under new legislation which transferred experimental route designation to the Amtrak board.

Capital improvements required for the new service would include substantial work at Cincinnati to provide for the overnight layover and servicing of the new Amfleet equipment and locomotives. Rehabilitation or new construction would be required at intermediate stations including Cumberland, Keyser, Oakland, Rowlesburg, Grafton, Clarksburg, and Parkersburg, also Athens and Chillicothe in Ohio.

A tentative schedule proposed for the new train includes a 9 a.m. departure from Washington westbound; a 10 a.m. departure from Harpers Ferry, a 5:45 p.m. departure from Parkersburg, and an 11:30 p.m. arrival in Cincinnati.

Eastbound the train would leave Cincinnati at 7:30 a.m.; Parkersburg at 12:30 p.m.; Harpers Ferry at 8:45 p.m., and arrive in Washington at 10 p.m.

Amtrak proposes to operate one train daily in each direction, utilizing coaches and food service cars from its new stainless steel Amfleet series and pulled by new P30 locomotives.

Child "Satisfactory" After Peanut Mishap

A two-and-one-half year old McHenry child is in stable, satisfactory condition at the West Virginia University Medical Center today following an incident at her home where she accidentally aspirated a peanut.

Little Valerie Kristine Hamilton, of Route 1, McHenry, was taken to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment, but was later transferred to the Medical Center by members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

She is a daughter of Stephen and Ellinor Hamilton.

Two From S.H.S. Invited To Join Honors Program

Luther Parrack, principal of Southern High School, was recently notified that Stewart Callis and Tim DeWitt, members of the 1976 graduating class, have been invited to join the Honors Program at West Virginia University, based on their outstanding high school performance and standard test scores.

John R. Williams, coordinator of the Honors Program, commended Southern High School for educating students to a level commensurate with the standards of the Honors Program.

By participating in this program superior students receive more personalized attention in classes designed especially for them.

Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Callis, Mt. Lake Park.

Property Owners Ask Legal Advice On Yough Measure

The Youghiogheny Property Owners Association sought the advice of their legal counsel, John F. Somerville, Jr., at a meeting Tuesday, June 1, in the McHenry firehall concerning the Youghiogheny River wild and scenic corridor regulations placed in effect last week by the Department of Natural Resources.

Mr. Somerville and those present reviewed regulations and the attorney indicated that the size of the corridor may be a possible target for legal action. Regulations stipulate that land within sight of the river is considered within the corridor. The attorney agreed to continue to review other aspects of the rules for possible legal action, but did not hold much hope for having the measure repealed.

The meeting was presided over by chairman Col. Richard C. Browning of Sang Run. Delegate DeCorsey Bolden was also a guest, and indicated support of the group through legislative action wherever possible. He pledged to try to introduce a bill levying stronger penalties for trespassing violations.

Sen. Edward Mason, however, had voiced his disinclination to seek a change in the rules at an informal meeting of concerned persons last Saturday.

According to Col. Browning, several of the larger tract owners along the Yough are considering selling their property to real estate developers, stating the heart of their contentions about the regulations by saying that if they "can't control it, why keep it?"

Col. Browning said he en-

Direct Distance Dialing To Become Operative Here

A major advance in telephone service in Garrett County has been announced by A. W. Meyer, C and P Telephone manager. Beginning June 12, callers will be able to dial their own long distance station-to-station calls as Direct Distance Dialing (DDD) goes into effect throughout the county.

New telephone equipment which will be placed in service in June will make DDD service available to more than 7,200 customers in Oakland, Accident, Bittinger, Blaine, Friendsville, Kitzmiller, and Thayerville.

"We are sending each customer a letter giving instructions for dialing DDD calls, as well as new numbers for calling Repair Service and Directory Assistance," Meyer said. He also pointed out that the new telephone directory, which will be delivered beginning June 21, will have this information in the call guide.

The operator will continue to place all collect, person-to-person, third number and credit card calls, and Meyer reminds customers that if they have the operator place a call after the cutover, to DDD service, operator-assisted rates will apply.

The new phone book will provide complete information about long distance calling, including sample rates at different time periods.

Fire Destroys Unoccupied Home

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed an unoccupied dwelling on Fingerboard road, west of Oakland, early Wednesday morning. The dwelling was owned by Mary Keiper.

Oakland firemen were summoned about 1:48 a.m., to the scene with two pumpers and one tanker but the building was enveloped in flames when firemen arrived.

Loss was estimated at $1,000 or more.

Two Brothers Die in Mishap

Two brothers, one from near Oakland, the other from Ohio, were killed Saturday afternoon, May 29, in a one-car accident on state route 39 one half mile east of Crellin.

Dead were Donald Lee Masters, 43, route 1, Reedsville, Ohio, the driver, and Austin Edward Masters, 49, route 2, Oakland, the only passenger.

Maryland State Police said the automobile in which the two were riding was going west on route 39, at an apparent high rate of speed when the driver lost control, skidded off the east side of the road and collided broadside with a large tree.

The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. The victims were pronounced dead at the scene by Garrett County medical examiner, Dr. James H. Feaster, Jr.

Property Owners

visions that before long, the river corridor may be dotted with five and ten acre tracts unless the regulations are made less restrictive on the heretofore independent property owners.

The group pledged to continue their effort to restore the property owners' rights and to fight to see that other streams and tributaries under consideration for inclusion in the Yough system remain outside the wild river law's jurisdiction.

A number of those present at the meeting expressed concern over a possible conflict of interest on the parts of two people associated with the Department of Natural Resources, whose land has been excluded from the scenic river regulations.

They were speaking in reference to Joseph H. Manning, retired former DNR deputy secretary, who owns one and three-quarters acres of river-front property, and R. Thomas Thayer, Jr., a Garrett County realtor and member of the Department of Natural Resource's advisory board for the past five years. Mr. Thayer owns just over 78 acres.

Their properties were two of seven or eight excluded by the boundary change listed in an amendment to the regulations. The change shortened by two miles the 20-mile wild river corridor, and was enacted on the last day of the 1975 General Assembly session.

Mr. Manning reportedly had lobbied to move the southern wild river boundary from a railroad bridge near Oakland north to a small tributary known as Millers Run, the upper limit of Mr. Thayer's land.

The Youghiogheny, the only "river in Maryland meeting the criteria for 'wild' classification, is one left of eight originally considered for the Wild and Scenic Rivers act. Heavy pressure from Legislators whittled the law down until only the Yough was considered wild, the rest are now 'scenic'."

Mr. Thayer pointed out that he was at a loss to see how the segment of water between Oakland and Millers Run could ever have been classed as a wild river (wild meaning unspoiled, undeveloped and unpolluted) because of raw sewage from Oakland, two power lines which cross the river, and acid mine drainage from Snowy Creek.

At the meeting Col. Brown-ing had stated that he felt this was not a matter for the property owners to become involved in, as this apparently is a totally unrelated issue to that which the group was founded on, infringement of basic property owners' rights.

Its programs included Theatre V, assorted music programs, Museum Without Walls, and some Humanities seminars and these were shown to approximately 2.3 million students in Maryland, West Virginia, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York this year.

It was estimated that this past year alone, RCEDA had generated $400,000 to Garrett Community College through its programs.

Functional Reading Test Scores Listed

Test scores on the new functional reading tests for all schools and all school systems in the State of Maryland were released this week by the Maryland State Department of Education. These tests were designed to measure students' "survival" skills in reading and concentrated on such items as newspaper advertisements, recipes, telephone directories, prescription labels, sales receipts, timetables, and meter readings. These tests were first administered in October, 1975, when 67,000 seventh graders and 54,000 eleventh graders were tested. Of these numbers of students, 449 seventh grade students and 349 eleventh grade students were from Garrett County.

Educators and test developers established as a "desired competency level", a score of 80% or more to the test items answered correctly. In Maryland 65.2 of every 100 seventh grade students and 80.3 of every 100 eleventh grade students achieved the desired competency level; in Garrett County 61.2 of every 100 seventh grade students and 78.8 of every 100 eleventh grade students achieved the desired competency level.

Substantial improvement in these test results are anticipated over the next few years as the students who were tested had not received instruction in the specific instructional materials on which the tests were based. Functional or survival reading has now been added to all reading programs in the Maryland school systems. The Garrett County School System began functional reading in all schools in October, 1975, under the direction of Mrs. Hilda Lee, Reading Resource Teacher.

Copies of the complete test report are available for examination at the local Board of Education offices in Oakland.

The Panama Canal Giveaway

It becomes more and more apparent that the U.S. State Department, with the backing of the President is planning to give away the Panama Canal. In the mind of Henry Kissinger, violence in the Panama Canal Zone is "unthinkable" and so, in the modern day mold of "better Red than dead", our State Department is holding fast to its plans to surrender the sovereign territory of the United States to a small size Communist dictator who threatens violence and an ugly propaganda fight if the U.S. doesn't surrender to him bona fide American property.

Despite the pledge of 38 U.S. Senators to block ratification of any such treaty, and despite the overwhelming majority of the American people being opposed, plans for transferring control of the Panama Canal to General Omar Torrijos appears to be an adopted policy of the President and of the State Department.

The Canal is producing handsomely for Panama now. America paid Panama $10 million for the 10 mile strip of land to begin with. Since 1955 America has paid Panama $1,930,000 a year, and is now offering a substantial part of that nation's annual income. So Panama is not being robbed. She has a handsome income from an American operation in which she has no investment.

Panama Only The First Step

Many people fear that the surrender to Panama also envisions surrender of Guantanamo to Castro. The Chief negotiator of the new Panama Canal Treaty is Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker. Recently, he stated: "The U.S. no longer can be, nor would it want to be, the only country in the world exercising extra-territoriality on the soil of another country."

What a statement! The U.S. is no more exercising extra-territorial rights in controlling the Panama Canal than in controlling Texas, New Mexico, or Alaska. The U.S. bought the Canal Zone, received complete title to it, built the Canal which serves and benefits the whole world; and for the sake of peace, goodwill and continued service to mankind, and in all reason and righteousness, must keep it.

To compromise now, to avoid violence on the part of Panama and even its neighbors, would only be to face much stronger violence at a later date. Our compromise in Korea and again in Vietnam settled nothing, but led us into deeper troubles.

The Communists are unrelentlessly seeking total world control. No compromise satisfies them. We are already, and will continue to reap great damage from those mistakes in Korea and Vietnam. May we not repeat the same mistake in case of the Panama Canal!

A Fortunate Reprieve

We, the people, can be grateful to President Ford for exercising his power of veto to kill the altogether dangerous "Hatch Act Repeal" bill. As though to prove the widespread contention that the present Congress of the United States is "the worst in history," legislation was passed on March 31 which repealed all of the effective sections of the 1939 Hatch Act. The only thing that could prevent the measure from becoming "the law of the land" was the promised Presidential veto. Happily, the promise was kept.

The Hatch Act was passed in 1939 to insulate government employees from political blackmail, and to assure that government workers would be hired, fired, and promoted on the basis of merit, and not because of their zeal or skill in soliciting or contributing to political funds or in campaigning for particular political candidates or parties.

The argument was made by our reckless Congress that the Federal workforce is somehow different in character than it was in 1939 when the Hatch Act was enacted. It certainly is. In terms of the danger that the Federal bureaucracy can evolve into a fascist state, the situation is much worse.

Congressman Edward J. Derwinski of Illinois, arguing for retaining the Hatch Act, pointed out that: "Actually, the potential for abuse of the system today is far greater than it was in 1939. For example, it is estimated that in 1939, there were 920,000 Federal employees compared to 2.8 million today; the total budget in 1940 was $9.5 billion as opposed to $324 billion in 1975; the average salary of a Federal civilian worker in 1939 was $1,871 as opposed to $14,480 today; and in 1939 there were 777,300 Federal civilian employees outside of Washington, D. C., whereas today we have 1,367,983 Federal Civilian employees assigned through the country out of Washington, D. C."

Congressman Derwinski charged that "The reckless Democrat majority, in its actions affecting Federal personnel, has disregarded the taxpayer completely. Their obvious interest is to expand political power. This is against the best interests of Federal employees, against your best interests as a taxpayer, and it is against the concept of our American political system."

We agree with Congressman Derwinski on all counts, except to point out that a few reckless Republican Congressmen also voted to repeal the Hatch Act. —U.S. Press Association.

Commissioners Discuss Open Meeting Veto

During their regular meeting this week, the County Commissioners discussed Governor Mandel's veto of the Open Meeting Bill passed by the General Assembly. The Commissioners discussed the provisions of the bill requiring public bodies to conduct their meetings in a manner open to the public, and noted that public agencies in Garrett County had been conducting open meetings for many years. Commissioner Bender moved and Commissioner Hamilton seconded a motion adopting a county resolution stating that the County Commissioners would continue to function in an open meeting climate, and directing all other agencies to continue to do likewise. The Commissioners supported the Governor's veto of the Open Meeting Bill due to advertising requirements which would eliminate the Commissioner's ability to deal with emergencies, such as the devastating snow storm of 1975.

County Commissioners received notice that Elmer Upole resigned as Chairman of the Sanitary Commission due to conflicts with his position as Mayor of Mt. Lake Park. Mr. Upole stated that his first responsibility was to his constituents who elected him as Mayor. Mr. Upole was first appointed to the Sanitary Commission in 1967 and has served since that time in a variety of capacities including Chairman. The Commissioners commended Mr. Upole on his dedication.

Commissioners Hamilton and Bender discussed the Solid Waste Program and noted that they had received some complaints on the location of boxes on Route 219 near the Information Booth and on Route 135 near Pysell Crosscut Road. It is evident that the public is using the service, and because of the volume of participation by the public, the Commissioners recently purchased a second compactor truck to empty boxes and approved two new CETA employees to allow for more frequent pickup.

Next week, the Commissioners will begin advertising several parcels of property, both surface and coal, which they will offer for sale through public auction and sealed bids.

Commissioner Edwards was absent this week as he was fulfilling his National Guard duty requirement.

Jaycees Sponsor Area Projects

The Southern Garrett Jaycees are in the midst of sponsoring two community service projects for this summer.

Recently, the group began a child protection project, which includes Operation Red Ball and Mr. Yuk stickons. These stickons are provided free of charge to anyone who contacts the group at P. O. Box 11, Oakland, or any Jaycee member. Donations are appreciated, with monies used to defray the costs of obtaining the stickons.

Operation Red Ball provides a large red stickon to place on the windows of rooms where children or handicapped persons sleep. In cases of fire and other emergencies, these stickons alert rescuers of the location of youngsters or the helpless.

Mr. Yuk, a project widely advertised on television, is a green sticker bearing an ugly face which is displayed on products which are harmful if swallowed. This stickon also displays the toll-free telephone number of the Maryland State Poison Control Center.

In a second and unique project, Jaycees are offering a summer job counseling service to juniors and sophomores at Southern High School. Members of the service club are available to advise students on going into business for themselves, such as opening a lawn mowing service, raising hogs or similar projects.

The club also will assist youngsters in applying for FHA loans available through a special summer program.

From this start, youngsters may develop a full-time business if they wish.

In another Jaycee activity, the club's first chicken barbecue realized nearly $400 last Sunday despite frowns from the weatherman and other difficulties. All but six of the chickens prepared for the pit were consumed.

New Federal Budget

One of the biggest highlights of the legislative events in Washington, D.C., for the month of April was passage of the new Federal Budget for the forthcoming year. But it hasn't made much news, mostly because every politican, from the President on down, has been keeping very quiet about it.

Of such commentary that has appeared on the subject, one that caught our eye—and fancy—appeared in the National Review magazine. Noting that the U. S. Senate had approved the "unliked" budget of $412,600,000,000 for next year, NR continued:

"Four hundred twelve billion, six hundred million dollars.

"Four one two six zero zero zero zero zero zero zero zero.

"A thousand million dollars a day, plus an extra thousand million for petty cash every Monday.

"Forty-seven million dollars an hour! $13,083 every second of every minute, every day, all year; a man's labor for a whole year, and more, gone with every tick of the clock. Forty million years of labor, a million lifetimes of toil.

"The members of Congress cannot conceivably comprehend such numbers, nor use the millionth part of such sums rationally nor grasp the deadly consequences of their acts; all they can do is vote for more and giggle and drool."

National Review also points out that the new Federal tax imposes a burden of $8,000 per household—"quite enough to ensure the health, education, welfare, and self-defense of every American family, if they could just keep what they earn."

To the National Review commentary, we would add only: come this Fall, all Congressmen and many members of the Senate are up for election. If you want to curb runaway government spending, you can do it; first of all by voting; and secondly, by voting wisely. —U.S. Press Association.

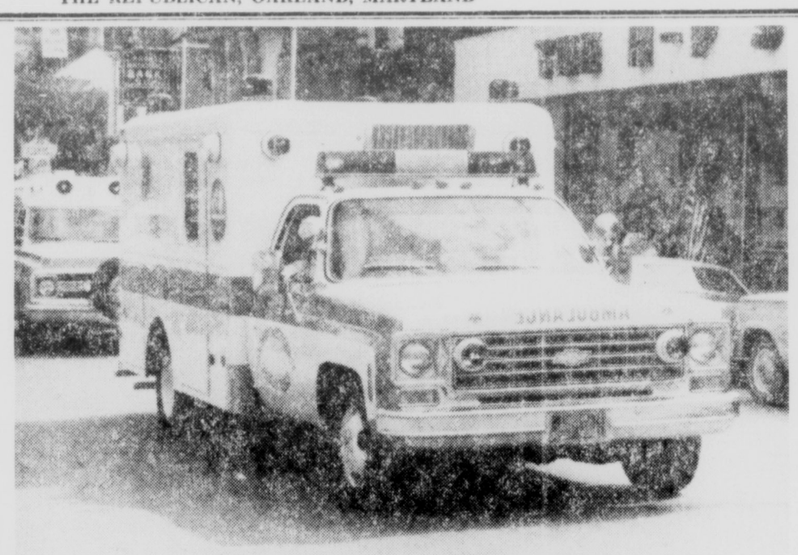
New Vehicle and Equipment Purchases Elevate Southern Rescue's Potential

JAWS OF LIFE — One of the newest pieces of equipment of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad is the Hurst power tool, often referred to as the "Jaws of Life." The Hurst tool carries a price of $5000 and is the ultimate in car extrication equipment. It involves a two-cycle engine power unit and a set of titanium jaws which exert a minimum force of 12,000 pounds pressure. The tool is a rather new device and has already saved hundreds of lives throughout the country as it can literally tear a car apart in minutes. The tool was put to use for the first time by Southern Rescue in removing the victims of a car accident Saturday afternoon on Route 39, just east of Crellin. Pictured above are, left, Brad Stewart, president of the squad and Don Sincell, first lieutenant and training officer. Below, Ed Cuttrel, representative from the Hurst Company, instructs EMT Frank Eberly [partially hidden] in the proper use of the tool at a recent drill.



LATEST VEHICLE — This shot of the Southern Rescue Squad's newest ambulance was taken during the Memorial Day parade on Monday. The vehicle is a 1976 Chevrolet cab and chassis, equipped with a Springfield Ambulance Co. Guardian modular body. It has four outside compartments for storage of equipment and 61" head room inside to enable easy treatment of patients. The vehicle was purchased through the Appalachian Regional Commission with federal funds and local donations.

Four Injured Last Thursday Near Deer Park

Four persons were injured in a two-car mix-up on Main street just north of Deer Park near Maryland 135 last Thursday afternoon.

Debra E. Rexrode, 17, RD 2, Swanton, and Helen L. Hinebaugh, Deer Park, were two of the three passengers in the car driven by Barbara K. Rexrode, RD 2, Swanton. Bessie M. Paugh, 64, and Norma L. Evans, 47, both of Deer Park, were passengers in a car driven by Virginia L. Pyle, Kitzmiller. Those in the Rexrode car and Mrs. Paugh were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The Evans woman was apparently treated elsewhere.

Barbara Rexrode had stopped on Main street to discharge passengers. Virginia Pyle following struck the rear of the Rexrode car. Tfc. E. J. Upole charged Barbara Rexrode with stopping on the traveled portion of the roadway and Virginia Pyle with operating at a speed too great for conditions.

The Kelly-Springfield plant in Cumberland will switch from gas to coal in August.

Nineteen Killed On State Roads

Nineteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways last week, according to the weekly news release compiled by 1st Lt. H. J. Heiger of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed ten were drivers, seven were passengers and two were pedestrians. Nine of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officers could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

This long, Memorial Day week again took its toll in Maryland. It will be a week to be remembered, but for all the wrong reasons, failing to grant right of way, speed, alcohol, disregard for wet roadway.

The above reasons should be remembered as reasons for nineteen persons not celebrating next holiday. Driving at the posted speed limit isn't always a correct and legal speed. The road or weather conditions often call for slower speeds for safety's sake.

Persons killed through May 31 totaled 231 compared to 281 for the same period last year.

A porch collapse in Arnold, Md., injured 21 elderly persons.

NEW RESCUE APPARATUS — Three brand new pieces of equipment of the Southern Rescue Squad are displayed by emergency medical technicians Jerry Humberson and Ruth Foley. They are, left to right, a multi-purpose saw, a portable generator and a chain saw. This is just a portion of the gear which will be carried on a new rescue truck which has been ordered and is to be delivered in late summer.

Some Minor Mishaps Noted Last Week

A few minor motor vehicle mishaps were noted last week in scattered areas.

The car belonging to Myrtle V. Harvey was parked, unattended in her driveway on RD 1, Oakland, last Tuesday. John M. Miller, Swanton, backed out of a driveway next door, cut too sharp, struck the Harvey car and left the scene. Tfc. E. J. Upole charged Miller with failing to stop after striking the Miller vehicle.

In a one-car accident, one man escaped injury when his vehicle struck the embankment at the bottom of Bloomington Mountain at the Garrett-Allegany County line, last Saturday. L. N. Cloud, Baltimore, traveling east, ran off the road in a heavy fog and struck the embankment.

4-H'ers Plot Small, Reap Big Rewards

CHICAGO—City gardeners are finding they don't need a lot of land in order to exercise their green thumbs!

Urban 4-H'ers, for example, are gardening on rooftops, windowsills and vacant lots, and using castoffs like wooden tubs and metal drums as planters. Any container that holds several inches of soil and allows for adequate water drainage can be planted to yield a nice crop of vegetables or a colorful display of flowers.

4-H gardening projects supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service give young people 9-19 in cities, towns and rural areas a chance to gain an insight into the workings of nature. And activities like planning a crop, planting and caring for it, even harvesting and marketing it, can be tools for learning and personal development.

Learn-by-doing projects

The national 4-H gardening program, sponsored this year for the first time by Ortho Division of Chevron Chemical Company, encourages 4-H members to develop the skills they need to grow vegetables, flowers, lawns, ornamental plants or commercial horticultural crops.

While 4-H gardening activities teach practical skills, they also can be good exercise, relaxing and fun—especially when 4-H'ers team up to "farm" an unused neighborhood lot or share space in a community garden. And raising vegetables and fruits can help stretch the family food budget and contribute to good health by adding variety and essential nutrients to the diet.

In the city or on the farm, 4-H'ers harvest bountiful crops in the national 4-H gardening program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. Young people 9-19 learn-by-doing to produce vegetables (like giant squash above), flowers, fruits, ornamentals, lawns or commercial horticultural crops. While they exercise their green thumbs, 4-H members can work for awards donated by Ortho Division, Chevron Chemical Company.

4-H'ers also investigate horticultural careers, and share their gardening know-how with others through exhibits and demonstrations.

Ortho provides incentives

For outstanding achievement in the 4-H gardening program, Ortho Division of Chevron Chemical offers 4-H'ers a series of awards arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

This year, eight 4-H members will receive $1,000 college scholarships donated by Ortho. Winners will be announced at the 55th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

Eighteen sectional winners will receive expense-paid trips to Congress, and one winner in each state will be awarded a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. Up to four 4-H'ers per county can earn medals of honor.

All winners are selected by the Extension Service. Additional information on the new national 4-H gardening program is available from county extension agents.

Saving With An Historic Bond

United States Savings Bonds now on sale feature engravings of historic events in America's past 200 years. In so doing, they highlight a particularly American source of strength and progress—the partnership of citizens and government in America's financial affairs.

From the first, during the darkest days of the American Revolution, the need for liquid assets was great, and difficult to meet. The Continental Congress tried desperately to borrow money from foreign sources, but no one was willing to give credit to a cause all thought doomed. What successful borrowing there was came from merchant patriots and other men of means who were willing to pledge their fortunes to the cause. Only later, with success virtually assured, did foreign borrowing become possible. But this was not to be the last time the country was forced into debt. The War of 1812 put America back into the red, to the tune of the then-enormous sum of $127 million. Much of this was raised through the selling of Treasury Bonds and other such securities. By 1835, this debt had been almost completely paid off.

Up to the time of World War One, the securities issued to meet obligations were, with few exceptions, out of the reach of the average American. With issue prices at $1,000 or more, only the relatively rich could afford to buy them.

It was not until 1935 that a security was issued designed with the small saver in mind. This was the Series A U.S. Savings Bond, quickly nicknamed the "Baby Bond" because of its small denominations, ranging down to $25, with a purchase price of $18.75. The series designation was changed in the succeeding years, so that by 1940 a Series D Bond was being issued.

The real Savings Bond push began in 1941, with the introduction of the Series E Bond on May 1. This so-called "Defense Bond" gained immediate popularity—popularity which turned into something more with the coming of war seven months later.

Subsequent War Bond drives put sales of the E Bond at over $10 billion in 1943, more than $12 billion in 1944, and a little less than $10 billion in 1945. These sums were of substantial help in meeting the costs of the war.

When the war ended, Series E Bonds continued on sale. They helped millions of Americans acquire the savings habit through the easy, regular Payroll Savings Plan, which was adopted by increasing numbers of companies. At the same time, Bonds had found a firm place in the Treasury's increasingly large debt financing operation. Since the war, they have always constituted between a quarter and a fifth of the publicly-held portion of the federal debt. And their stability relative to marketable securities has increased their importance to debt managers.

During the postwar years, Savings Bonds dollars helped pay for the Marshall Plan for the recovery of Western Europe, the space program, and numerous health, education, housing, and transportation programs. In fact, Bonds have helped pay for every government program since they were first issued to the present day.

By early 1976, more than $229 billion worth of Series E, and the later Series H, Bonds had been sold. Of this, more than $65 billion worth are still being held by the American public. More than a third of all families own Bonds, and some 9½ million individuals purchase them regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan. No other security in the history of the world has been so widely held. It is the security of and for the small saver.

Faster-than-sound, Concordes passenger planes, finally landed in the U. S. May 24.

Maryland State Lottery sales topped 206 million tickets in three years.

Girl Scouts Hold Family Banquet Night

Girl Scouts from eight troops of the Oakland Service unit held a family banquet Tuesday evening, May 25, at 6:30, at Southern High cafetorium. Members were from Mt. Lake Park, Swanton, Crellin, Loch Lynn and Oakland troops.

Skits were presented on the theme, "You Belong." Opening ceremony included scouts from the youngest to the oldest. Speaker was Rayette Beitzel, service unit director for the Oakland area. There was a look at past ·····, including cookie sa·· and participation in parades and activities, and then a look into the future with next year's involvement.

Mrs. Sally Schwing, field assistant for the county, presented Red Bars to Mrs. Beitzel and Mrs. Deanie Johnson for a full year's work with scouting. Mrs. Linda Fleming, camp director for Camp Friendship for 1976 told of the plans for this year's camp. Orval Teets, Swanton, member of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, gave the invocation. His daughter Kristi led singing. Following the meal troops presented various skits, some with the bicentennial theme. All participated in the singing of taps which concluded the meeting.

College Ag Courses Offered

There is ample educational opportunity within the county for students who wish to make farming or agri-business their career, according to Randall Harman of Garrett Community College.

Harman outlined the availability of Garrett County Community College Ag program to Farm Bureau Board of Directors and Woman's Committee recently. Included in the program is a two-year technology course designed for those who do not wish to take a 4-year degree program.

The programs include instruction in Animal Science, Soil Management & Conservation, Plant Science, Farm Management & Animal Nutrition.

For full degree seeking students there is also a program that provides the first 2 years of a four year program which may be completed at another college.

Harman also noted that adult education courses can be arranged for farmers who wish to increase their education without being a regular student.

Seniors Honored At Seedling Dedication

A seedling from the Great Wye Oak of Maryland was planted on the front lawn of Southern High School May 27 as a living memorial to Southern's Bicentennial Class of 1976.

Paul Mateer, from the Forest Service of the Department of Natural Resources, presented the tree to the school after explaining its significance. Luther Parrack, principal, congratulated the seniors and then Mr. Mateer, Mr. Parrack, and various seniors helped plant the tree.

Following the dedication, the seniors were honored with a special luncheon in the cafeteria.

When two hands are joined in the expression of friendship, love, marriage — that's a clasp.

Of course, we have another word: grasp. Little affection implied. Determination to seize, to control. To a sensitive mind grasp suggests GREED.

And does clasp, to a sensitive mind, suggest CLING?

It was Our Lord who said of marriage that "a man shall leave his mother and father and cling to his wife, and they shall be one."

The Church provides the spiritual resources to strengthen marriage, to make firmer the bonds of family.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHERE THE ACTION IS

Lesson for June 6, 1976

Background Scripture: Matthew 16:18; Luke 1:1-4; Acts 1 through 2.
Devotional Reading: Joel 2:28-32

A number of years ago when English cleric J.B. Phillips wrote his translation of the Book of Acts, he entitled it: THE YOUNG CHURCH IN ACTION. The title is appropriately chosen because that is what this exciting book is about: inspiring acts of faith by some of Jesus' disciples in the early Christian Church.

Rev. Althouse

Luke—for he is the writer of Acts—might just as easily chosen to write of the beliefs of the early apostles, but the story of the early church is not one of doctrines, but of a burning, compelling faith expressed in a multitude of actions and deeds that seemed to turn "the world upside down" (Acts 17:6).

Mighty works and wonders

To be sure, the Book of Acts is not devoid of teachings and, in fact, we find within it several "sermons" delivered by some of the apostles. But even these expressions of faith emphasized action, things done more than said.

For example, look at Peter's sermon on the Day of Pentecost. Even Peter's opportunity to preach on that day was the result of some acts by the disciples of Jesus. People passing by heard the followers of Jesus speaking in many languages. Foreigners visiting in Jerusalem heard the message of Jesus Christ in their own tongue! (Note that on Pentecost the "other tongues" that were spoken by the power of the Holy Spirit were foreign languages which could be understood, not unintelligible "tongues"). Spectators were amazed and demanded: "What does this mean?" (2:12).

What shall we do?

One cannot help wondering whether Simon Peter had been waiting for just such an opportunity. At any rate, the question was the perfect cue for him to begin speaking.

And of what does he speak? Mostly about actions. "Jesus of Nazareth, a man attested to you by God with mighty works and wonders which God did through him in your midst..." (2:22). Simon Peter will speak later of the teachings of Jesus, but his primary appeal is in terms of the acts of Jesus: the wondrous deeds he did, the manner in which he lived, the courageous way in which he died.

This approach struck a responsive chord with many of his listeners for the Old Testament is primarily the story of the mighty acts of God through his people. The Jew was much more influenced by what God did than by what he was reported to have said. So, Peter appeals to them by reminding them of what God has done through Jesus of Nazareth and these mighty acts themselves, Peter asserts, are the proof that Jesus is the Christ whom God had promised.

And what is to be their response to all this: a debate on the theological issues? a commemorative ritual? a symbolic gesture? No, once again the focus was to be on an act: "Repent and be baptised, and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit"!

HOW TO ADMINISTER EYE DROPS TO CHILDREN
It is sometimes a difficult task to administer eye drops or other opthalinic preparations to children. This is especially so when it has to be done without assistance. Recently a new method has been developed.
The parent sits on the floor or a flat surface. The child's head is placed firmly between the parents thighs. The parent then crosses his/her legs over the child's lower trunk and legs. In this manner, the parent's hands remain free to open the child's eye lids and administer the medication.

BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

Kentucky

Kentucky's nickname is "The Blue Grass State." Tobacco and champion race horses have long been symbols of Kentucky. Thoroughbred horses still graze on the rich grass of the region around Lexington. The dusty blue blossoms of the grass have given this state the name bluegrass.

The state flower is the goldenrod and the state bird is the Cardinal. The state tree is the tulip tree.

Kentucky became the fifteenth state June 1, 1792. The governor currently is Julian Carroll, Democrat. Frankfort is the capital.

The state motto is "United We Stand, Divided We Fall." The state song is "My Old Kentucky Home;" and a home near Bardstown is believed to be the home that inspired Stephen Foster to write the famous state song.

The first permanent white settlement in the state was established at Harrodsburg by James Harrod and other colonists from Pennsylvania in 1774.

Kentucky stayed in the Union during the Civil War, but thousands of Kentuckians joined the Confederate armies.

Daniel Boone founded Boonesborough, Kentucky's second white settlement in 1775. He led a group of colonists from North Carolina by way of Cumberland Gap.

Kentucky is one of four states officially called Commonwealths. Others are Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. Kentucky was named a Commonwealth in honor of Virginia, which owned the region before Kentucky became a state.

Coal mining began in the early 1880's in Kentucky's southeastern mountains.

The Fort Knox Gold Vault, about thirty miles south of Louisville, was built in 1936. The nation's gold reserves are stored there in underground vaults.

Kentucky Dam on the Tennessee River provides flood control and hydroelectric power. The dam, completed in 1944, created Kentucky Lake, one of the largest artificial lakes in the United States.

The Tennessee Valley Authority completed its largest steam generating plant at Paradise in 1969.

Kentucky is the home of thoroughbreds. Famous race horses have been raised in the bluegrass region since the early 1800's. Every May the Kentucky Derby is held at Churchhill Downs in Louisville.

However, Kentucky is more than a place to raise horses. It is a major manufacturing and agricultural center. Kentucky leads the nation in the production of whiskey. It also leads the states in the production of burley tobacco and ranks second only to North Carolina in total tobacco production. Kentucky ranks second to West Virginia in total coal production.

Tourists bring in about 575 million dollars a year. Some of the nation's most popular tourist attractions are in Kentucky. They include Cumberland Falls, Mammoth Cave and Natural Bridge. The Cumberland Falls is called the Niagara of the south, the Mammoth Cave has about 150 miles of explored passageways on five levels.

Old Fort Harrod State Park, at Harrodsburg, contains the reconstructed fort with stockade and blockhouses and the log cabin in which Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, parents of Abraham Lincoln, were married.

Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth United States President, was born near Hodgenville. Lincoln's birthplace is now a National Historic Site. The site contains the original log cabin where Lincoln was born February 12, 1809.

Southern Baptists make up the largest single religious group. There are twenty-three universities and colleges. The Daniel Boone memorial at Frankfort, is known for its blue grass music.

The Ohio River forms the entire northern border of the state. Louisville is Kentucky's largest city.

Shakertown, called Pleasant Hill, is an old Shaker settlement near Lexington. The Shakers, a religious group, settled in the area in 1805. Visitors to the settlement's guest house may climb several stories on a spiral staircase.

Famous Kentuckians include Abraham Lincoln, vice presidents Adlai Stevenson and Alben Barkley. Others who are well recognized are Henry Clay, Jefferson Davis, Louis D. Brandeis, Kit Carson, Irvin S. Cobb, Elizabeth Madox Roberts, John Fox, Jr. and Robert Penn Warren.

The next state in this series is Louisiana.

BUMPER STICKERS — Secretary Joseph G. Anastasi, of the Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development, and Lt. Col. W. W. Corbin, of the Maryland State Police, display samples of the bumper stickers to be issued to CB radio operators participating in the state-wide CB HOT Line. The local CB "seminar" to provide operators with travel information will be held at Garrett Community College, Wednesday, June 9 at 7:30 P.M. The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council will provide material for the CBers.

Bridal Shower Given May 27

A bridal shower was given in honor of Vonda June Loughry at her home on White Church-Steyer road, by her friends on Thursday, May 27. About forty guests were present.

Refreshments were served and the cake was baked and served by Millie Meeks, sister of the bride-to-be.

An open church wedding will be solemnized for Miss Loughry and Royce George Moreland on Friday, July 9, at 8 p.m., with Rev. C. Franklin Mick and Rev. Oscar Hull officiating at the White United Methodist church.

A reception will follow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Loughry, parents of the bride to be. All friends and relatives are invited.

Teaching Advanced First Aid Course

Four members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad are teaching an Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care course under the auspices of the American Red Cross. The course is held at the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department hall. It began on Tuesday and will continue to be taught on Tuesdays at 7:00 PM. Those who missed the first session, may begin the class with the second session to be held June 8th.

The second session initiates the cardio-pulmonary resusitation unit of the course. This unit will be taught by Floyd Baker and Dotty Folk, also members of the Northern Rescue Squad. The CPR unit will continue for three weeks.

Regular instructors for the course are Allen Cutler, Paul Frank, Linda Walker and Jim Wilburn. They are certified Red Cross Instructors.

One crash, two near-crashes the same day at JFK Airport, N.Y. were blamed on the weather.

MILLER FOR PRESIDENT

OH! DEAR GOD
We thank Thee for Patriots nobel, brave and true,
Who will cry out the darkest night through.
We thank Thee for Revere's midnight call,
Short, yet so challenging to all.
How this nation must have rejoiced
To make that noble choice.
Mr. Revere, if you were to ride tonight,
Your message again will not be bright.
Oh Dear God, our land has bowed to sin,
And turned their back on God within.
How can this be with all the wealth of plenty,
What will be the answers given by many.
Mr. Revere, if you were to ride again,
What would be the response from within.
Would the churches display apostasy,
And the community excuses of apathy.
Would they say we are so secure.
It just will never happen here.
Or would they say by God's help we shall win,
One more time before Jesus comes again.
Oh, Dear God, we thank you for folks sincere.
But most of all for your son so dear.
Mr. Revere, it seems I can hear you in the street,
That alarm so clear and noble that prevented a retreat.
Mr. Revere's horse made that noble run with pride.
Oh, Dear God, if only others were willing to ride.
Oh, Dear God, if there were only more Paul Reveres,
To stand in the gap and speak so loud and clear.
This great nation under God would flourish,
If only its people, their creator would cherish.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my beloved husband and father Perry C. Uphold who passed away one year ago June 4, 1975.

It's lonesome here without you,
We miss you more and more each day
Somehow life doesn't seem the same
Since you went away.
Our hearts ache with sadness
Our eyes shed many a tear
God only knows how much we miss you
At the close of this first sad year that God called you away.

Sadly missed by

There Is An Answer . . .

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. It seems that I am an unstable person. Recently I have become more and more insecure and frightened. My fear is so bad that I get panicky even to leave my home. My heart pounds and I get weak at the thought of seeing people.

I did something wrong a while back, and I can't seem to forgive myself. I've asked God's forgiveness, yet it is hard to accept it. I don't trust other people and most of all I can't trust myself.

How can I feel close to God again? Is it possible to overcome this fear?

A. You have asked God for forgiveness and whenever such a request is sincerely made, God, who always wants to forgive, does so at once.

To forgive yourself, simply say, "I forgive myself. From this minute I begin a new life, '. . .forgetting the past and looking forward to what lies ahead.' " *Your fear will gradually subside and be healed. Your future life will be full of promise.

If you are not able to bring about such normalization of personality, get help and do it quickly. Many churches and synagogues have trained people who can help you find yourself, and with it, a happy life free from fear.

*Philippians 3:13 (Living Bible)

Q. I don't know what to do about this heartbreaking situation. My husband is a businessman and was always highly respected in this community. But then he became interested in another woman, and he lives with her most of the time. They go out night after night—to night clubs. Several times a week he comes home and eats dinner with me. Since his clothes are still here he often changes them while he's here. I can't understand this drastic change in my husband. Is there anything I can do to make him give up this life and stay home?

A. Let us tell you what one wife did.

She bought a beautiful hostess gown, got a new hairdo, acquired some make-up skills and each evening dressed up and waited. She prepared a delicious dinner, set the table with her best silver and linen and had flowers and candlelight.

She waited one night, two nights, three nights. On the the fourth night her husband appeared and was so startled he thought she was two-timing him. She assured him she was only waiting for him to come home and she served a beautiful dinner. The next night he appeared again—and she was ready as before—never asking him questions, never accusing him, never raising any problems.

To shorten the story, he was soon back—contrite, ashamed, eager to be accepted. Try it.

Q. My husband and I move around a lot and this causes many problems. But my biggest problem is the fear of being alone, and of no one liking me. I feel that I am not an interesting person and because of that I don't make friends. We invite people to our home and perhaps much later we get an invitation in return. It isn't that we are really disliked, but we're just not liked.

When I wake up in the morning after a nap I have this feeling of aching loneliness. All I can do is get up and get busy, but it comes back the next time. Can you give me some specific guidelines that will help me?

A. Obviously an insecurity has developed in your mind that may be traceable to childhood. Insecurity and loneliness feelings are closely related.

It would be helpful for you to talk with a competent counselor about floating these feelings up from the subconscious so that you can understand them and rid yourself of your mental burden of unhappiness. By such a process you will build self-esteem and thus have the joy of knowing that you are indeed an interesting person. You will find that as you learn to like yourself more other people will like you better. Loneliness will decrease as your own normality increases.

Busyness and activities help to ameliorate but will not cure your basic self-depreciation problem.

Q. I'm 19 years old and have recently done some serious thinking. I come from a large family. I have six brothers and eight sisters and two wonderful parents. Only now am I realizing what remarkable people they are. Their lives are an example of real faith in God. After much searching I have made their faith my own.

I've always wanted to be a success—a great man. Now I see that I've had the wrong motives—it was for my own selfish desire and pride. I still want to be a great man, one of true greatness and humility. How can I become this kind of man? I would appreciate your guidance.

A. Thank God every day for such a wonderful family.

You have taken the first step toward your goal, namely, you know what your goal is. Now be specific: a doctor, a lawyer, a businessman, a scientist, a preacher, an athlete. Name your goal, and then pray about it to be sure it is the right goal, for if it isn't right, it's wrong; and nothing wrong ever turns out right. Finally, work and work and work.

Read motivational, self-help books, such as The Success System That Never Fails, by W. Clement Stone; also by Stone and Napoleon Hill, Success Through a Positive Mental Attitude. Others are, How to Win Friends and Influence People, by Dale Carnegie, and How I Raised Myself from Failure to Success in Selling, by Frank Bettger. Maybe even our book, The Power of Positive Thinking. All of these may be in your public library. If you will read, study and apply five such books a year, you will be on your way to success.

Q. I'm trying very hard to work out my life. I have to find a new one and start all over again. I have no husband and no children anymore. They are all grown and gone except my youngest son. He is in his middle twenties and is still home. He's been so wonderful to me, but now he's talking of getting an apartment and moving out. It hurts so much when he gets upset with me.

I don't want my son to leave or get upset with me. But I don't want to hold him back from having his own life. It's just that it frightens me to be alone. No one comes to visit and the phone never rings. I should get a driver's license, but I'm afraid. I'm afraid of life. Please help me. What can I do?

A. The fact that your children are all grown does not mean they are all gone. Keep up an interested contact with them. Don't nag that younger son. Let him be himself. He will be nicer to you if you do.

Make that telephone busy from your end. Get out and be with people. Get interested, get involved, become a participant. You can have an interesting life if you get outside yourself.

Q. For several years I have had a strange and quite rare skin disease which has detracted a great deal from my appearance. There is nothing the doctors know as yet to help me. I am troubled right now because my teenage daughter is turning away from me. My appearance bothers her, I know. I can understand why it does, but I don't know what to do. How can I keep love in my heart in spite of all this and overcome the barrier between us?

A. With your doctor's permission, take your daughter with you to the best cosmetic make-up artist you can find. Let her learn the art, and in a loving way let her also know how much you need her help.

Be sure you yourself have not become withdrawn or overly sensitive because of your difficulty. A wise man once said, "God runs a beauty parlor." The glow on your countenance that comes from inner peace and from joy, faith, love and excitement will outshine your skin problem. And your daughter will pick up the feeling of release you are demonstrating. As a result you may be drawn closer together in mutual understanding.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Letter To The Editor

Open Letter to Garrett County Commissioners
Dear Sirs:

I read with great interest the news article "No Tax Hike Seen in Garrett" in the Cumberland News. It's true that the tax rate will not be increased and surprisingly Mr. Edwards mentioned that the assessment would raise 6.8 percent.

If Mr. Edwards is looking for a way to reduce the budget I think he should take into consideration the following:

1. The Garrett County bus traveling the highways with no passenger other than the driver.
2. Garrett County should get out of the garbage business. These receptacles are unsightly and a health hazard.
3. Closer look at the Welfare rolls. I know of people on Welfare just as able to work as I am.
4. Eliminate from payroll public servants not doing their jobs.

Yours truly,
Howard M. Warnick

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, Corp. Ronnie Lewis and all our good friends and relatives for their kindness and help after our automobile accident. Sincerely appreciated by

Patricia Helmick
and family

Hamilton To Address Group On Proposed Accommodations Tax

County Commissioner Wayne Hamilton will be the speaker before the Deep Creek Lake Business Association at Point View Inn on Monday, June 7, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Hamilton will present a proposed accommodations tax ordinance for discussion by the Association. The proposed bill was drawn up at the request of the Association for possible enactment in the near future. The legislation is aimed at achieving additional funds to be used to promote tourism in Garrett County.

That a Stone Age tribe is living in Peru was termed debatable.

Resources Police Force. That is the unit which has been administering a voluntary course in hunter safety since 1966.

Under that program, approximately 400 volunteer instructors certified 7,000 safe hunters each year. An additional 8,000 attended lectures but did not qualify.

Under the mandatory program, Inland Division officials believe hunting accidents will decrease and the number of licensed hunters will increase. That, according to Charles H. Milton, Chief of the Inland Division, has been the experience in states having mandatory programs.

Cost of the program will be about $160,000 a year to offset salaries and supplies.

Three Treated In Recent Mishaps

Three persons were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following recent mishaps.

Albert G. Pipik, Allenport, Pa., was traveling north on a road in Deep Creek Lake State Park the afternoon of May 22. He lost control of the car and struck a tree. He was taken to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore charged him with negligent driving.

The drivers of both cars were taken to the hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad following a mishap on U. S. 219 near Kings Run Road the night of the same day. Leo D. Holtschneider, RD 4, Deer Park, was traveling north on Rt. 219 and had stopped in the northbound lane to render assistance to a disabled motorist. Ronald H. Sisler, Rt. 219, Accident, following, failed to reduce speed and collided with the rear of the Holtschneider car. Tfc. Skidmore charged Sisler with failing to reduce speed under existing conditions.

A similar collision occurred a short time earlier in the evening, but with no apparent injuries. Kenneth E. Schrock, Rt. 1, Oakland, was westbound on the Crellin Street road in Crellin and came upon the car of Charles W. Knotts, Star Route, Kitzmiller, also westbound. Schrock applied his brakes but failed to reduce speed and struck the rear and side of the Knotts car. Tfc. Skidmore charged Schrock with failing to reduce speed.

A car was struck on U.S. 40 when it drifted into the path of a tractor-trailer. There were no apparent injuries. George H. Blocher, Star Route, Grantsville, pulled from a private driveway. As he crossed the east lane of U.S. 40, his engine stalled. He then attempted to drift across the westbound lane but was in the path of the rig driven by Edward M. Augustine, Addison, Pa. Tfc. Skidmore charged Blocher with failing to yield the right-of-way.

Safe Hunter Course Planned

Legislation enacted by the 1976 session of the General Assembly and signed into law by Governor Mandel will require every applicant for a hunting license who is under eighteen and every first-time hunter over eighteen to take a six-hour course in conservation and hunting safety.

It will include proper use of shotguns, rifles and archery equipment in addition to common sense, safe practice in the field courtesy and hunter responsibility.

The course will be administered by the Inland Division of the Natural

Correction

Among the names listed with District Court Cases shown in the Republican in the May 13 issue, one was shown incorrectly.

The name should have been shown as, Woodrow Harrison Tasker, 30, Main Street, Deer Park, not Woodrow Harrison Thrasher 30, Deer Park.

The Republican regrets the error made in copying of records.

STIRRING MOLASSES TAFFY — Youngsters from Miss Ruth Wilhelm's fourth grade room at Red House School gather in anticipation of tasting the results of their efforts to make molasses taffy last Friday, the school's observance of Bicentennial Day. Freedom Train In Cumberland June 29 and 30

A mix of display scenes and sounds of Americana, The American Freedom train, will be in Cumberland for two days, Tuesday, June 29, and Wednesday, June 30.

The train is a bicentennial salute to America. Advance tickets are on sale at A and P food stores. Admission is $1 for children, to 12 years, and for senior citizens 65 and over. Adult tickets are $2.

This 26-car train carries a collection of historic documents, and objects and memorabilia. It is sponsored by the American Freedom Train Foundation, Inc., a non-profit, tax-exempt and non political organization.

There are ten display cars. The exhibit is divided into periods covering leadership of American presidents. Featured in two glass enclosed cars are displays to delight the young and old.

The train was made possible initially by four corporations that donated $1 million each toward total cost of $17.5 million. They were General Motors, Kraft foods, Pepsi-Cola and Prudential Insurance. Balance will come from sale of admission tickets and souvenirs.

Brownie Scouts Hold Campout

A county-wide campout for Brownie Girl Scouts was held May 7 and 8 at Camp Hickory, adjacent to Northern High School with some 96 adults and first, second and third grade Brownies attending. Cadette age girl scouts were also present to assist.

In planning since September, 1975 the group had flag ceremonies, camp fires, badge programs, crafts and other activities. A camp highlight was a jungle breakfast. Girls had to follow trail signs which led to jungle treats such as bananas hanging from trees, donuts hanging, napkin bushes and other breakfast items.

Mrs. Rayetta Beitzel, Oakland, was chairman of the event with Mrs. Donna Werdebaugh in charge of crafts. The campout was concluded with a flag ceremony and cookout. Members from troops 116, Mt. Lake Park; 111, Swanton; 523, Oakland; 569, Loch Lynn, and Friendsville and Accident attended.

Rifle Teacher Ends Instruction Many Qualify

The Rifle Hunter Safety program of instruction has been completed for this shooting season, it was announced by Doug Oxford, chief instructor for the county junior rifle club.

The club utilizes the NRA fifty foot light right qualification course in which members shoot a prescribed number of targets on the indoor range at the Oakland armory.

The normal course of progression through NRA skill levels is that of ranger, pro-marksman, marksman, marksman first class, sharpshooter, sharpshooter bars one through nine, expert and distinguished expert. The course requires that the youth fire a series of ten targets with a graduated score from either prone, sitting, kneeling or offhand positions.

Mrs. Betty Jo Smith, the club's statistical officer, reported the following youth demonstrated their ability to attain a tight shot group, qualifying for ranger award: Linda Beitzel, Scott Bittinger, Kevin Blamble, Steve Bolding, Gary Ferguson, Tim Filemyr, Dave Glotfelty, Ben Guthrie, Charles Guthrie, William Guthrie, Charles Herman, Paul Harvey, Bill Mayle, Junior Mellinger, Scott Pickering, Chris Ratcliff, Doug Ratcliff, John Rowan, Gerald Smith, David Savage, Rocky Shaffer, Doug Smith, Susan Snyder, Darryl Tasker, Doug Upole and Mike Upole.

Terry DeWitt, the Club's Hunter Safety Instructor, said the following youth attained the Marksman-First Class rating by firing an additional ten targets which scored a minimum of thirty points: Randy Ashby, Galen Beckman, Sherry Beitzel, Gary Beitzel, Randy Biser, Richard Coddington, Lisa Evans, Teddy Evans, Gregory Flinn, Doug Glotfelty, Tom Gnegy, Quinton Guthrie, Mike McGee, David Harsh, Andy Mason, Jeff Meyers, Jay Meyers, Lori Powles, Douglas Paugh, Randy Paugh, Kenny Pierce, Harry Shahan, Jimmy Sisler, Melvin Smith, Tom Smith, Carrinelle Stemple, Jay Sowers, and Ralph Wohl.

Chris Donley, 4-H Marksman Club Leader, reported the following youth who scored thirty-five points on an additional ten targets to reach the Sharpshooter skill level: Dwight Emory, Robert Flinn, Dawn Gattshall, Bryon Glotfelty, James Glotfelty, Norman Guthrie, Patty Harsh, Susan Mason, Bill Smith, Jenilee Stemple, Kim Trickett, Tracy Weeks, Marcia Wolf, and Becky Wolf.

Arlie Breedlove, Chairman of the Junior Rifle Club, announced the following youth have progressed to the Sharpshooter-First Bar skill level by firing an additional ten targets with a score of forty out of a possible fifty points: Wayne Beeghly, Willard Beeghly, Wayne Bernard, Jimmy Beitzel, Harold Harsh, Barbara Harvey, Melanie Ryan, George Scheffel, Matt Scheffel, John Shillingburg, Teresa Thomas, and Everett Weimer.

Among the youth participating in the Competitive Marksman Team are Lee Oxford who has achieved the Seventh Bar of the Sharpshooter level of proficiency and his brother, Doug Oxford, Jr., who has reached the Sharpshooter-Eighth Bar.

Members of Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion of the Maryland National Guard made it possible to use the indoor range located in the Oakland Armory.

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

How did you vote on the bill which extends a $2.3 billion loan to New York City?

I voted against the billion dollar aid bill to New York City. I have felt from the beginning that Congress should persuade New York to balance its budget rather than finance it in the red with federal loan guarantees. I cannot help but feel that the $2.3 billion will turn into a permanent subsidy, and worse, that it will relieve the pressure on New York to put its finances in order.

I have a question on the Employee Retirement Income Security Act. When is an employee eligible to participate in a pension plan?

Generally, a pension plan must allow an employee to participate when he is age 25 and has completed one year of service. There are exceptions and plans providing full and immediate vesting may require an employee to put in 3 years of service.

In light of our energy problems, do you think environmental restrictions should be eased?

In some cases, yes, and I can give you a good local example of just why it is important to ease some restrictions. The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company in Western Maryland has submitted a request to burn coal at its local plant and has been awaiting approval on its request for some time. I fully support the burning of coal at this plant and have urged favorable and expeditious action on this matter by the Environmental Protection Agency. With the economic situation in Allegany County very serious and with the possibility of further industrial closings, I feel that it is imperative to allow maximum use of local energy resources.

Do you have any literature on ways to reduce home heating bills?

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has published an illustrated booklet discussing the entire range of home heating, and this brochure will help you to determine the most affordable improvements to net the best return on your investment. Copies of "In the Bank or Up the Chimney: A Dollar and Cents Guide to Energy Saving Home Improvements" is available for $1.70 from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

How does a miner file a claim for federal Black Lung benefits?

To file a Black lung claim, visit, write or call your local Social Security Office. They are supplied with all U.S. Department of Labor forms and are authorized to make appointments for necessary medical examinations. It is best to visit the office in person because the program can seem complicated.

How did you vote on the tax revision amendment which strengthened the minimum tax requirements on individuals who pay little or no taxes because of various tax loopholes?

I supported this amendment to strengthen the minimum tax. The amendment passed 314-107.

Please explain your "Truth in Government Accounting Act".

The purpose of this proposed legislation is to give the public and the Congress a unified, meaningful and simplified summary of just how the Federal government stands financially. In addition to publishing the amount monthly the government is taking in and paying out, the bill would require an indication of the liabilities for which the federal government has committed itself that may not be funded out of current revenues.

Where can I get a copy of the gas mileage figures for 1976 cars?

Citizens interested in receiving the 1976 "Gas Mileage Guide for New Car Buyers" should write Fuel Economy, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

I read recently that the Congress had passed a bill concerning metric conversion. Will you please tell me what this legislation entails?

The bill would establish a national board to coordinate voluntary conversion to the metric system of measurement in the United States. Specifically, it would help coordinate voluntary metric plans developed by industry and other groups, and it would undertake education programs to aid public understanding of metric units of measurement. The board would not have the power to compel conversion to the metric system nor would the bill set any target period for completion of the conversion process.

I understand that retired persons do not have to pay entrance fees to our national parks. Is this true?

You are probably referring to a Golden Age Passport which provides a free lifetime entrance permit to national parks and recreation areas. The passport is issued free to citizens who are 62 years or older and admits the permitholder and a carload of accompanying people. You may obtain your Golden Age Passport at most federal recreation areas or by visiting the National Park Service Headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Recently the Congress approved a nuclear insurance program. What amount of protection is provided under the bill?

The program protects the public against loss and damages up to $560 million resulting from a nuclear power accident and limits to that amount the liability of the industry for damages from such an accident.

JUPITER

Pioneer 10 passed behind Jupiter last March. In doing so a magnetic tail was observed which extends beyond the orbit of the planet, Saturn. The earth has a similar feature which is much smaller. In April, 1981 Saturn should enter the magnetic tail of Jupiter. This should cause disturbances in Saturn's outer radiation belts which may be observed if a spacecraft is in the area.

The group also made shoo-fly cake for sampling during the day's activities. Youngsters portrayed various important persons in the early days of the country, as well as those who have helped make the U. S. strong, such as astronauts, doctors, lawmakers, teachers, and workers. Not shown are Mrs. Sigel or Mrs. Catherine Sanders, aide.

By Senator
Charles McC. Mathias Jr.

To the Class of 1976
—A Call to Excellence
By Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, Jr.

This year, it is my pleasure, as it is every Spring, to visit many schools throughout Maryland and to speak with members of the graduating classes. I am impressed by the Class of 1976—by their records to date and by their interest in the years ahead.

In talking to them, I try to give the new graduates some sense of what life holds for them and what they owe to life. When I consider the great privilege it is to get an American education, I must conclude that great obligations go with it.

We have an extraordinary public education system in this country. It offers diverse opportunities to students of diverse interests.

Students who receive this education do so because their parents and friends and neighbors pay the taxes that support the schools. So it seems to me that each graduate is under an obligation to make the best use that he can of the education he has been given.

This is one of the positive burdens and obligations of citizenship. It is not a heavy burden. It is a call to excellence—a call to each graduating student to make the most of himself.

It's a hard job in one sense, but in many ways the hardest jobs can be done with the least amount of fuss or confusion or controversy. Many of our greatest contributions in recent years have come from ordinary citizens doing ordinary things.

That is my message, and my challenge, to the Class of 1976. To all its members, anywhere in Maryland, I say congratulations, and good luck!

At the end of May, the Senate Select Intelligence committee will go out of business with an impressive record of service to the country. It has collected essential data for the future regulation of the intelligence agencies of the government—regulation that is essential if the liberties and freedom of American citizens are to be protected against abuses of power by their own government.

As a result of the Committee's revelations, a new Intelligence Oversight Committee has been established as a permanent Senate committee to be, in effect, a watchdog on behalf of the citizens of this country in the operation of the intelligence community—and also to assist the intelligence community to be even more effective and useful than it has been in the past.

The new Committee will have many important jobs. One of the first is a further consideration of the circumstances surrounding the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

As a result of the Select Committee's earlier investigation, it is clear that the whole story of these circumstances not only was left untold by the Warren Commission, but was not even known by the Warren Commission.

The Select Committee is not saying that the Warren Commission report should be reopened. That would serve no good purpose.

But the Committee does feel that it is vitally necessary to reexamine the role that was played by the FBI and the CIA in the events that closely followed the Kennedy assassination.

We now know, for instance, that it was never reported to the Warren Commission that the CIA had an active plot afoot to assassinate Fidel Castro, and that Castro had publicly threatened to retaliate if these assassination attempts continued.

We now know that J. Edgar Hoover, the late Director of the FBI, was personally extremely unhappy with the activities and performance of the FBI in the aftermath of the Kennedy assassination.

We know that many promising leads on evidence and many promising leads to witnesses were not followed up, and we must know why.

So the new Oversight Committee will have a full job from the moment of its birth.

Washington Report

Sen. J. Glenn Beall, Jr.

Calls Postal Service 'Mess'

Criticizing the U.S. Postal Service and management, Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R.-Md) announced he has introduced legislation which would both establish a six-month commission to investigate what he termed the "monumental mismanagement problems" of the Postal Service and place a one year moratorium on the closing of rural post offices across the country.

Beall made his remarks at the Patapsco Post Office (Carroll County), one of the 33 rural Maryland post offices scheduled for closing in the near future.

"It's no secret that our national postal service is a mess," Beall said, "and that Americans are losing faith in a system which offers less and less service for highter and higher costs."

Beall said that since 1972 Congress has provided an average of $1.5 billion a year in direct subsidies to the Postal Service and yet even with such massive injections, the Postal Service will find itself $3 billion in debt by the end of the year. According to the Maryland Senator, unless action is taken soon, the Postal Service will require annual revenues of $20 billion a year by 1984 just to reach self-sufficiency.

"Faced with such massive money and organizational problems, the Postal Service leadership has responded with only ineffective and counterproductive steps," Beall charged. According to the Senator, in an attempt to recoup a $3 billion debt, the Postal Service plans to cut out 600 small and rural post offices . . . 33 in Maryland. The total savings from such cuts would be $6 million . . . "enough to keep the Postal Service in operation an additional 9 minutes."

Beall's bill would place a moratorium on all rural closings until a special investigative Commission on Postal Services Operations can complete a six-month investigation into Postal operations. The Commission would be charged with studying all phases of Postal operations and reporting back to the President and Congress on its findings. The bill would also extend the closing moratorium an additional 180 days (for a total of one year) following the submission of the report in order to allow Congress to develop new and comprehensive legislation in light of the Commission's findings.

"My biggest concern is that these small and rural post offices, which are often the focal point of the community, remain in operation until the Commission has made its recommendations," Beall said. "In passing the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970, Congress specifically required that no post office be closed solely for operating at a deficit because we wanted to ensure effective postal service for both urban and rural residents. Yet the Postal Service has completely ignored the clear Congressional intent and has decided to close these offices in the name of economy. These rural offices, such as the Patapsco office are not the cause of the Postal Service's economic malaise . . . they are its victim," Beall concluded.

Thirty-three offices in Maryland planned to be closed are in nine counties. Garrett County is not included.

Weevil, Beetles Are Problems of Area Farmers

Alfalfa weevil and the possible infestation of the cereal leaf beetle in oats has compounded the problems of Garrett County farmers, according to James A. McHenry, Extension Agent-Agriculture.

The lack of rain and cool growing season has reduced the possible yield of first cutting alfalfa and clover. Alfalfa in Garrett County is nearing the full-bud stage and ready to cut for top quality hay or grass silage. Farmers may hesitate in cutting because the alfalfa seems small, however, if they look at their fields they will find the alfalfa in full bud and in most cases with weevil damage.

Mr. McHenry reported that in making several farm visitations he noted the alfalfa weevil is very active with 50-70% tip damage. He also noted that spittlebug and leafhopper are present in alfalfa and clover fields. The best control for Garrett County farmers is to cut the alfalfa early which would be in full-bud stage and watch the stubble. In many cases it will be necessary to spray the stubble. Farmers should delay the stubble spraying until new growth shows weevil damage. They should be careful to look at the terminal buds where weevil usually feed, he said.

Extension Service has mailed out Fact Sheet 149 "Control of Insects On Alfalfa and Red Clover." However, if farmers have misplaced or did not receive it, copies are available at the Extension Office. There are several good controls listed in this bulletin, he pointed out.

OATS: If you have oats, wheat, barley or rye, check your fields for presence of the cereal leaf beetle. The insect is active in grain fields now and it can destroy your grain crop. Since eggs hatch over a period of time rather than all at once control measures need to be taken at the right time for best results.

Look for small black blobs shaped somewhat like a potato bug sticking to the leaves. This is the larvae form which, like the alfalfa weevil, skeletonizes the leaf. Infestations range from light to heavy. Heavily damaged oat fields may look white like a frost hit the top portion of the leaves.

Although some other materials will probably work, malathion (Cythion) is the insecticide recommended by the University of Maryland. Use a 57% emulsifiable concentrate at the rate of one (1) lb. active ingredient per acre or 1½ pints of the formulation per acre in sufficient water to get a good coverage. Spray when larvae average 2 per stem or leaf. The time limit from application of malathion to harvest is 7 days.

If the infestation is light keep a close check on your fields—you may or may not get through this year without spraying. In areas of the county where cereal leaf beetle parasites were released we may see larvae but no increase in infestation due to parasitization. Information is available in Extension Bulletin 237, "1976 Pest Control Recommendations for Field Crops." This bulletin is available at the Extension Office also.

The Hot Dog Label

On January 1, 1974, Federal meat and poultry labeling regulations were amended to more clearly identify the ingredients in cooked sausages—like hot dogs, bologna and knockwurst.

For example, the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) banned the use of wording like "all meat" and "pure beef" on labels of these products. Such terms were ruled misleading since all cooked sausages are made with other ingredients—including season, water and curing substances. (Effective July 1, 1976, the terms "all," "pure," and "100 percent" are banned, by court order, from the label of all meat and poultry products containing more than one ingredient. In addition, the "franks," "hot dogs," "furters," "wieners," and "frankfurters"—all were determined to identify the same product, making it easier to decide what to buy—without trying to determine if there is a difference between such products.

The regulations also required processors to label hot dogs and other cooked sausages in one of three ways:

Those formerly listed as "all meat" are simply called "frankfurters" or "wieners" or one of several nicknames, including "hot dogs." As before, products in this category must be made only from skeletal muscle meat—that is, meat derived from a prime part of the carcass. If it's made from only one species, the label may say something like "beef frankfurters" or "pork franks."

A second category allows the use of hearts, tripe, and other edible byproducts along with the skeletal meat. These nutritious byproducts are sometimes called "variety meats." Sausages including these parts must be labeled, for example, "franks with byproducts" or "wieners with variety meats." If binder materials—such as nonfat dry milk or soyflour—are added, the product falls into a third category. The labels must prominently show these ingredients, using names like "beef franks, soy flour added" or "hot dogs with byproducts, nonfat dry milk added."

All ingredients, however, must continue to be listed in decreasing order with the item making up most of the product listed first.

Like all meat and poultry products, these cooked sausages are carefully monitored through all stages of processing, labeling, and packaging by Federal or State inspectors—explicitly for consumer protection.

Time To Fly Flag . . .

Americans throughout the land will have the opportunity this year to participate personally in a mammoth salute to the 4th of July.

Bicentennial celebration leaders are encouraging communities, businesses, organizations and individuals to fly the United States flag continuously for 21 days from Flag Day, June 14, through Independence Day, July 4. Participation by people in villages, cities and towns throughout the United States of America should produce a nationwide display of the colors never before equaled in our history.

In addition, a simultaneous nationwide ringing of bells for two minutes on July 4th will herald the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Communities, churches, schools and individuals will ring bells and carillons in conjunction with the ringing of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia at 2 o'clock p.m., daylight time. The time selected is exactly 200 years from the precise moment that the Liberty Bell proclaimed the independence of our nation.

So it's time to get your flag, flagpole, halyard, bell, etc., ready for action. The idea is a good one. We hope every citizen will join in enthusiastically in this great demonstration.

Man Nabbed After High Speed Chase

A 23-year-old Pennsylvania man was arrested early Thursday, June 3, and charged on four motor vehicle violations in this state. Kenneth E. Nehls, Jr., Lemont Furnace, was said by Pennsylvania police to be driving in excess of 130 miles per hour during a highway chase in that state.

Maryland police were warned at 1:06 a.m. that he was headed for the state line on Route 40. Trooper John E. Foley set up a running road block and forced Nehls off the roadway shortly after he had crossed the state line.

Nehls was released from the Garrett County jail Friday, June 4, on $500 bond. He faces trial in district court June 17 on charges of attempting to elude police, reckless driving, exceeding the posted speed limit and failing to drive to the right of center of the road.

Merchants Discuss Bicentennial Sale

Members of the Downtown Oakland Merchants Association met Tuesday at noon at Fireside Inn to discuss plans for a Bicentennial Sale to be held July 2 and 3.

It was agreed that each businessman will advertise and sell merchandise as an individual, rather than grouping together as for the Sidewalk Sale. Ron Gillis represented the committee assigned to the Bicentennial sale.

President I. Robert Rudy presided, and appointed a committee of Dee Raynovich, John Kurilla and Rev. Manning Smith as a committee for the sidewalk sale, which is planned in August.

Mrs. Dorothy Rumble made the suggestion that each merchant insert a flag or similar Bicentennial item as a window display for the Bicentennial sale.

George F. Comp, Jr., Civil Defense Director for Garrett County, announced that a team of architectural and engineering students trained in analyzing buildings and other structures for protection against various wartime hazards began working in the county on Tuesday.

The work of the local team will be a part of a continuing effort of the State and Federal Civil Preparedness Agencies, to survey structures in communities near or adjacent to high-risk areas to determine which structures have facilities for fallout-radiation protection in the event people have to be relocated during a period of international tension.

Direct Dialing Starts June 12

Direct Distance Dialing will go into effect here June 12, enabling callers to dial their own long distance calls, it was announced by A. W. Meyer, C&P Telephone manager.

The C&P Telephone Company has installed new central office equipment to make DDD service available to more than 7,200 customers in Oakland, Accident, Bittinger, Blaine, Friendsville, Kitzmiller, and Thayerville.

Mr. Meyer reminded customers to dial their own calls whenever possible.

"After we cut over to DDD service," Meyer said, "operator-assisted rates will apply to calls that you place with the operator."

Such long distance calls as collect, person-to-person, third number, and credit card calls will still be placed through the operator.

C&P has sent letters to customers with instructions for dialing DDD calls, as well as new numbers for calling Repair Service and Directory Assistance.

Meyer said that in the near future, all operator-assisted calls will be connected through the traffic office in Cumberland.

"Consolidation of the Oakland office with the Cumberland office is part of a Company-wide effort to centralize many of our operations," Meyer said. "This will permit greater efficiency and economy in providing service, and thus it will help us hold down the basic cost of telephone service for the customer."

As an example of centralized operations now going into effect, Meyer noted that around the state, Directory Assistance and Intercept Services are being consolidated in Baltimore.

Projects Underway For County Fair

Several projects are currently underway for the 20th annual Garrett County Agricultural Fair which will be held August 9-14, at the Fair Grounds at McHenry, it was announced by Helen M. Bittinger Publicity Chairman.

A portion of the Fair Grounds will be fenced, and a new 36X100 pole barn will be erected to help alleviate the shortage of space for the horses.

Members of the Fair Board are also working on the Premium supplement which will be published with the July 8 issue of The Republican and the flyer which lists the day-to-day schedule of events and entertainment. The flyers will be ready for distribution in a few weeks.

Fairgoers who plan to enter animals for show, exhibit, or contest are reminded they must have their animals tested for Coggins Disease and must present health papers for the animal to Fair Officials.

THE LAST ROUNDUP of school children occurred Tuesday afternoon as buses gathered at Center Street School for the last time. The school has tentatively been planned as a center for child development to be administered by Garrett Community College, but so far no agreement has been signed with the Board of Education. Center Street closed its doors to elementary-age youngsters Tuesday after nearly 80 years of operation. Children now will be attending either Broad Ford or Dennett Road Schools rather than this institution downtown.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced the appointment of Max F. Bowser as agricultural attache on the staff of the U. S. Embassy in Santiago, Chile. He succeeds Duane W. Clark, who is returning to Washington for reassignment.

A cabin and its contents were destroyed by fire early Friday morning, June 4, about one quarter mile from Four Hooppole South condominium, near Deep Creek Lake.

Deer Park Volunteer firemen answered the alarm with five pieces of equipment and some 25 firemen. Chief Robert Thrasher said they were on the scene a short time after the alarm sounded. Sterling Processing corporation, which employes 225 persons in the area with a million dollar annual payroll, is in a real hassle with a division of the U. S. Department of agriculture over the reassignment of six poultry inspectors who walked off the job one day last August against orders of the inspector in charge, and who have been reassigned here by the department.

Gilman Sylvester, vice-president of the corporation, has said he would shut down the plant before "we'll accept them back."

Early in April a circuit court jury decided unanimously in favor of the corporation in a suit against the six USDA lay inspectors. Sterling had sued the six for walking off their jobs last August against the order of the inspector in charge.

The suit called for $2,000 compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damages. It charged that the defendants' illegal departure made it necessary to hold 1,800 chickens until the following day, causing them to lose weight and downgrade their value, making it necessary for the company to pay overtime, and reducing plant facilities by 50 percent.

The Jury awarded the corporation a nominal $300 judgment and the six were ordered to pay court costs.

The following day Sylvester was notified by USDA that the six inspectors were being sent back to work. The Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) of the USDA apparently felt the six had been punished enough but Mr. Sylvester said he didn't want them on the premises.

Delays on the order have been granted with the last day due to end on June 14. The USDA department continues to insist they return.

Mr. Sylvester met on May 28 with an assistant and the under secretary of the USDA to explain his position. He has appealed the decision through the Hyattsville office, the Philadelphia office and through the Washington office. Following the May 28 meeting he said he would be forced to appeal to Secretary Butz. But prior to that meeting he is endeavoring to set up a meeting with Senator Beall, Congressmen Byron and Bauman, of Maryland, Senator Roth and Senator Biden, of Delaware, to review the facts so as to be well prepared for what he terms as his "last stand."

At the May 28 meeting Mr. Sylvester requested APHIS to give their reasons for sending these inspectors back. Dr. H. C. Mussman, acting associate administrator of APHIS gave two reasons: that the six were natives of this area and it was their home; and that Oakland

Local Gymnasts In "International Gymnast" Magazine

Several local boys and a girl were listed in the "International Gymnast" magazine in May, for their prize-winning efforts in the West Virginia Junior Olympics contest in Morgantown in April.

Those listed were Mark Powles, Jimmy Flanigan, Wayne Dixon, Mark Wells, George and Matthew Scheffel, and Terri Fraley.

Wendy and Carrie Johnson will be traveling to California to visit relatives, and will attend a gymnastic camp for additional training while there.

Terri Fraley, Susan Devlin, Amy Gosnell, Jimmy Flanigan and Mark Welch will attend a gymnastic camp August 8 through 15 at Stroudsburg, Pa.

Angela Flanigan and Terri Fraley will attend a gymnastic clinic at Bridgeport, W. Va. June 14 through 17.

The Uncredible Michael

My Michael, like his father, was really a wondrous chap, as you later Marylanders would know. Poor man, he died when only 33, but those first days when I knew him in Frederick Town! You have never seen a sturdier, more alive man in any colony, as seasoned as hickory to the life of the western frontier. His older brother Daniel, the oldest of the Cresap family, married my sister, so Cresap and van Swearingen were inextricably combined.

We were married in 1764 and had four children. By 1771 Michael was operating his store near the fort erected by his father at Oldtown. You can see our house there, a two-storied stone building which has in its upstairs the remains of a frontier fresco that we had drawn. It shows the things we always saw: dogs, deer, and guns. For this was a country of all three. Settlers and Indians, even some of the British, came by to trade before heading into new country, as coming to Oldtown and crossing to the Monongahela by the old trails would avoid using mountain travel.

Lord Dunmore visited in 1774, but I cannot say that I really cared for the man. He was always inciting people to action in favor of his interests, especially against the Indians, as he wanted the lands to the west. You see, two treaties, Albany in 1722, and Logstown in 1752, had recognized Virginia's claims to Ohio lands, but many times the Indians did not hold to these as binding on a whole tribe. My father-in-law had been an agent of Lord Baltimore himself, and as such, he was a thorn in the side of Lord Fairfax. So must Michael have been a scourge to Lord Dunmore, for he was a member of the land company which was speculating by the Ohio, and he must have envisioned Michael going there at some time with his own interests and skill in leading people to possess this land.

We were only a few miles from Virginia, the Oldtown site being just a few miles from the junction of the North Branch (Maryland) and the South Branch (Virginia). So it did come about, as Michael was not skilled in merchandising, and handled his debtors too lightly; he shortly hired about six young men and set out for the Ohio country in the spring of 1775. We were sorry to see these men leave, for a journey of 400 miles, though not considered so hazardous for tough men, meant that there would be considerable time involved in ever getting home. However, the group hoped to open and locate farms in the area of Fort Wheeling and Fort Pitt. The mouth of the Little Kanawha was the rendezvous. Plans were to descend the river and reach the Ohio, where they could clear the land and build cabins.

You will have read that Jefferson and Logan accused Michael of killing the members of Logan's family. This charge was made after my husband's death, but he would have been indignant over it, as we were when it was made. Logan's only claim was that Cresap had headed the party of white settlers. What he failed to realize was that Michael did not want to attack Indians at Horse-head Bottom, but returned to Wheeling, remaining away from Chief Killbuck so as to avoid clashing with this man who had attacked his father. George Rogers Clark, a member of the party which was accused of the crime, plainly tells that "We returned and on the evening, decamped, and took the road to Redstone. It was two days after this that Logan's family was killed."

In the meantime, our revolution had begun. A Committee of Safety had been formed in Frederick. Congress needed troops for the Continental Army, and Michael's father had pledged to send a company of riflemen. They were to come from the four present western counties of Maryland, but some of the settlers from eight hundred miles away, on the Ohio River, eventually joined the men. At the young age of 23, Michael was appointed to become captain of one company, Captain Thomas Price being the other. Michael had been taken ill and was crossing the mountains to come home when he was met by John Jeremiah Jacob, who announced his new appointment. Mr. Jacob reported that Michael had some sense of fatality about accepting, but he assented and set about recruiting 130 backwoods men, all well-armed and excellent shots. They were to join the Army of Washington at Cambridge before the siege of Boston, then held by the British under General Gage.

Every Marylander knows that they were the first from the South to arrive, with enough men following from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia as war brings ruin, and we were not entirely safe from Indians, but we needed the defense against the British. Michael was of the stuff required for a leader. One Frederick man wrote of his demeanor: "All who go out to war under him not only pay the most willing obedience to him as their commander, but in every instance of distress look up to him as friend and father."

They set out on the journey of 550 miles, making their march in 22 days. All were dressed in hunting shirt and moccasins, some painted and armed with tomahawks. You may not believe that they could walk so far in these weeks, but men of that time trained themselves for walking, on short diets, too, of parched corn, game, and water.

I never again saw my husband, but the fighting prowess of these riflemen was so great that the British would offer them no treatment as prisoners of war. As if our men were afraid! They soon had enough British prisoners to offset this threat.

When news reached us of Michael's sickness and death (August 18, 1775), we were saddened, but it was consoling that he had gone in defense of our liberty. I married John Jeremiah Jacob, who had served in the Maryland Line, and he became the biographer of Michael Cresap. I honor him for this consideration of Michael, and energetic Maryland pioneer. ---Tamarack

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

How can our community obtain federal land under the surplus Property Program?

Under the Legacy of Parks—Surplus Property Program, states and political subdivisions may obtain for public park and recreation use, federal properties that are declared surplus to the needs of the federal government. Such property is normally available without cost. Interested communities may wish to contact the Regional Office of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for further details. The address is Federal Building, Seventh Floor, 1421 Cherry Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19102.

How can I find out the amount of money credited to my Social Security account?

Interested citizens should fill out the postcard form entitled "Request for Statement of Earnings" and mail it to the Social Security Administration, Post Office Box 57, Baltimore, Maryland 21203. The form may be obtained from your local Social Security office.

Years Later

In May, 1919 at Dusseldorf, Germany, allied forces captured a very significant document: "Communist Rules for Revolution." On reading these rules now, 57 years later, keep in mind what you are reading and hearing every day via news media:

1. Corrupt the young, get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.
2. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.
3. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.
4. Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule.
5. Always preach democracy but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.
6. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.
7. Promise unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster lenient and soft attitude on the part of the government toward such disorders.
8. By specious argument cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues, honesty and sobriety.
9. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext with the view of confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

Are we so blind that we can't see what is happening to us? Asks a reader in an area newspaper.

Maryland weddings are on the decline, while divorces increase.

Students who will be participating in the Olympics are Billy Abernathy, Billy Gay, Greg Harvey, Charles Knox, Jeff Michaels, Paul Rice, Bobby Steyer, and Richard Terrant from Green Street, and Martin Eichorn, Gary Michaels, and Patsy Michaels, from Accident.

Chaperones for the trip are Mrs. Vicki Plevyak, Doug Stanton, and Jeff Carlisle. Training supervisor Mrs. Dorothy Leuba will accompany the group, as will Bonnie Broadwater, Brenda Broadwater, Mary Jane Fike, Todd Tichnell, Diane Barry, and Suzanne Ryan.

The trip is being sponsored by the Student Government Association of Garrett Community College.

BOATING CONDITIONS were rather crowded last Thursday at Herrington Manor State Park, when senior citizens had free access to the vessels during competition in the first annual fishing contest for the elderly. Nearly 100 participated in the event, sponsored by the Community Action Committee.

The group coming to the county is under the General Supervision of the Army Corps of Engineers and its Resident Engineer at the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency, Region Two Headquarters in Olney. The local team leader will be an architect or engineer experienced in shelter survey and analysis work.

The mission and presence of team members have been coordinated and approved by the State Civil Defense Office and Local Civil Defense Officials, including Mr. Comp.

The five survey specialists who are working in Garrett County are among more than 250 students nationwide, hired and trained for this summer's work by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency.

Mr. Comp stated that he will provide each member of the team with a letter of identification which will be shown building owners.

Building owners are being asked to cooperate in order that the survey will be as complete as soon as possible in identifying shelter spaces for the protection of people should the need arise.

The team will be provided office space in the Allegany County Operations Center located in Cumberland.

Following completion of the Garrett County survey the team will be doing survey work in Allegany County and Washington County.

was not a desirable place to have to send anyone, meaning other inspectors. Mr. Sylvester and S. R. Pagenhardt, Mr. Sylvester's attorney, said there were 10,000 other inspectors throughout the nation. Mr. Mussman's remarks were corroborated by Mr. Pagenhardt.

Mr. Sylvester repeated that he planned to close down the plant by Friday and remain closed as long as he was able to sell his live chickens to other processors if the USDA insists on sending the six inspectors back to work at the local plant.

Listen Americans!

by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

TIME TO INVESTIGATE CONGRESS

While Congress continues to spend money on "investigations," there is a growing sentiment throughout the country for an investigation of the Congress itself. One Senate Standing Committee has received $4,109,700 to pay for its investigations between March 1, 1976 and February 28, 1977. There are a total of 40 standing Committees in Congress. If each is equally funded, the total cost of Congressional investigations between now and February, 1977 will run in excess of $164 million.

It is time for Congress itself to be investigated. The President needs to appoint a Commission with power of subpoena to take testimony under oath to determine if Congress is out of bounds and out of control.

Areas for Investigation

Is Congress authorized under the Constitution to continue to take this nation deeper into debt in the absence of a condition of war or other dire national emergency? Is it Constitutional for the Federal government to spend more money than it receives on a regular basis and as a part of normal economic policy? Should Congress, along with its concern for the "rights" of citizens, be compelled to pay attention to the "rights" of taxpayers who are not yet born? Is the policy pursued by Congress deceitfully designed to redistribute the wealth of the nation under the guise of legality? Is the Congress knowingly pursuing a policy to keep inflation going and thus rob all Americans of their savings?

Criminal Use of Tax Money

At least one Congressman has admitted that he used tax money to pay the salary of a person employed by an unofficial organization whose purpose is to establish a world government. What is the difference in principle of paying the salary of a staffer of the Klu Klux Klan or the Communist Party USA?

Congressional Leaks

At least one Congressman has admitted that he took an oath to keep secret classified information received in executive session of a Committee and then released the information to the press. When another member of Congress called for his ouster from that body, the charge was dismissed on the grounds that the Committee had not been legally constituted!

There is ample reason to investigate Congress.

4-H Club Meets

Campfire, camp, judging workshops and club tour were discussed at a recent meeting of the Monte Vista Junior 4-H club. Janet Maffett, president, was in charge. Participating in the program were Tonya Bray, Lynn Rinker and Amy Filemyr.

Members completed the flowers they had started at the previous meeting and went over campfire songs and cheers.

Settling Nationwide Strikes

As usual the country is being subjected to a nationwide strike by a major union. And when this one in the tire industry is settled, there will be another one.

It does not take much intelligence to see that the whole process of striking and strike settlement is idiotic and barbaric. To begin with, both sides know when the existing contract will end. They have more than enough time to work out a new contract before the old one expires. But labor union leaders would have no claim to their jobs if they did not insure that strikes took place from time to time. For some strange reason, the existence of a strike is taken as proof by the rank and file that their bosses are earning their pay. Management, following equally uncivilized customs, seems to feel that it must resist the union, and must turn down all demands — at least one time. Both sides have come to feel that bargaining really can't take place unless a strike is on, and that it is less than honorable to settle a dispute swiftly and peacefully.

What makes this process so idiotic in this day and time is that neither side will be seriously hurt by the strike, and neither side will end up paying the bill. The laborer receives various forms of unemployment compensation when he is on strike. And management has long ago learned that it can pass on the new higher production costs to the customer. In short, it is the buying public which suffers from the strike, both directly and indirectly, and ends up footing the costs.

The thought that comes to mind is this. Why not a law which forces both management and labor, in the case of the major nationwide industries and nationwide labor unions, to reach a new contract before the old one expires? And if they do not, then levy a fine on both sides of such massive proportions that both sides will get down to serious bargaining in a hurry. The fine could be levied on behalf of the public, local or general, to compensate the people for the suffering they would have to endure if the bargaining failed. This approach would not deny collective bargaining. It would just put it in a civilized framework. And above all else, it would protect the public from being the victims of the self-interest and stupidity of both management and labor.—U. S. Press Association.

Soviet Strategy

A recent radio broadcast by the Washington-based American Security Council draws attention once again to the real nature of "detente," as practiced by the Soviet Union. The Soviets call it a "world systems strategy."

The speaker was Professor Raymond S. Sleeper of the University of Tennessee's Department of Cybernetics, and an expert on Soviet strategy. He cited some examples of Brezhnev's confidence in the ways things are going, as expressed at the recent 25th Soviet Communist Party meeting in Moscow.

One example was Brezhnev's boast that in Vietnam "it has been a glorious victory" which "has opened up fresh opportunities in the whole of Southeast Asia." Another instance was Brezhnev's claim concerning the rise of Soviet naval power. There is genuine substance to this claim because, as Sleeper pointed out, the Soviets have gone from operating 5,000 ship-days in non-Russian waters in 1964, to over fifty thousand ship-days in 1975. They can now challenge us for superiority anywhere on the oceans of the world.

Professor Sleeper quoted Brezhnev's concluding remarks to his four-hour speech: "The Soviet policy of detente with the United States has been the most successful foreign policy in the history of the Soviet Union. It must continue at all costs."

"Detente," as Sleeper pointed out, is the name the Soviets employ as a cover for their effort to obtain superiority in all areas of conflict—from so-called "wars of national liberation" to political, economic, and psychological struggle. "It is time," said Sleeper, "that we Americans faced this threat squarely. It is time to heed the words of Solzhenitsyn, who told us "in order to stop the Soviet globalism, we must not give an inch. Not a single inch."

The Soviets are never bashful about telling us what they intend to do to us and how they intend to do it. If Brezhnev or his successor is not to have even more to boast about at the 26th Party Congress, we had better start paying attention to what he is saying.

On Panama Canal

Much debate on the issue of the Panama Canal has revolved around the legalistic question; does or does not the United States have sovereignty over the Canal, under terms of the treaty signed with Panama in 1903. This is really beside the point since our rights were granted "as if (the United States) were sovereign." Let the lawyers make of that what they will.

The real questions ought to be: 1. is continued free access and transit through the Canal a vital U.S. interest, and 2. can such transit be "assured" by any method other than a physical U. S. presence?

We believe the answer to the first question is affirmative for two reasons: 1. the waterway is vital to both our commercial and naval interests; of the 14,000 ships which transit each year, 8,000 serve U.S. ports, and use of the Canal by our fleet allows us to fulfill our global commitments with fewer ships. 2. surrender of the Canal in principle, no matter how long delayed, will convey a further impression of a weakening U.S. will to maintain its interests everywhere. Many U.S. officials will argue that the U.S. has to react to Soviet advances in areas where the U.S. has no intrinsic interests, such as Angola, because we cannot be perceived to be weak. The same is true of the Panama Canal.

The answer to the second question is obviously negative. The U.S. is presently negotiating to surrender control of the Canal after a period currently estimated at 25 to 50 years, which proponents argue is sufficient time to make the transition. But treaties can be and are scrapped at will. The future course of Panamanian politics is most uncertain. We know only that the present ruler, General Torrijos, is a dictator who openly admires Fidel Castro. There is no guarantee that he, or some future ruler would continue to be satisfied with such a delay even if agreed upon; or that some future U.S. administration, faced with the threat of guerrilla warfare, would not agree to a much quicker pullout.

No! The U.S. should make no such commitments in the first place, expecially under the threat of guerrilla war. That is the first leg down a slippery slope. Sometimes a great power must hold to its position simply because it is a great power and cannot afford to do otherwise. This is one of those times.-- U.S. Press Association.

There Is An Answer . . .

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Q. I want to know how a person who is in real hell can find this peace you talk about. I am 18 years old and in prison. Two years ago I thought I knew every little thing that a person needed to know. I had women, money, dope and a stolen car. But then I was arrested and sent to jail. I prayed for help, and to my surprise I was soon released. But I forgot about my prayers and went back to my old ways.

I was arrested a second time. In jail I prayed again for forgiveness, and I started reading the Bible. A few weeks later the judge called for me and told me he was dropping my sentence. I was really happy and thanked God. I was free to do as I wanted. But as soon as my probation ended I went back to my old life. So here I am in prison again. How can Jesus Christ care for a three-time loser?

A. Let's face it. Up to this point you have not really wanted to change. You only wanted to get out. You remind us of a famous man of antiquity named Augustine, who prayed that his sins be forgiven, all but one (sort of like a parenthesis) which he wanted to keep. God looked at the parenthesis, which was his real desire, and there was no peace in his mind. He prayed again and again, but always along the same line, and each time the Lord looked at the sin withheld. Finally Augustine got with it and said, "God, forgive me my sins, all of them, including that one." And God immediately answered his prayer. Later he became known as St. Augustine, one of the greatest spiritual leaders of all time.

It is obvious you have good qualities, judging from the attitude of the authorities toward you. So what if you are a three-time loser? The minute you start really wanting to be someone worthwhile, and really mean it, you'll never be a four-time loser.

Q. We have had many funerals in our family and tragedies have happened at an early age. Just recently a member of our family died at age 21, leaving a wife and two tiny children.

I guess we can never really be prepared for the shock of death to a loved one. But it seems to bother me more because I have a fear of death. Also, I have a 3-year-old daughter that I must explain death to when she asks where people are that have died. Can you help me explain to my daughter about death so that later on in life she won't have any hang-ups over death?

A. We believe that in dealing with children it is best to tell it the way it is. Explain that death is a part of life and that it affects the entire animal kingdom. Birds die, dogs die, cats die because of accident or disease or when the life span is over.

Tell children that the body is like a coat that has worn out and the person simply lays it aside. But the individual himself is alive in another place in God's great universe. Be sure to say that we shall meet them again some time. And stress that they are in a place of love where God watches over them.

The fear of death, of course, is a normal reaction unless it becomes an obsession. Just go on and live your life normally and when your time comes to die you will be lovingly cared for.

Perhaps you will find help in a booklet prepared in response to inquiries such as yours. The title is LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED, and it is on its way to you. If others reading this column would like to have a copy at no cost, send your request to Box 500, Pawling, New York, 12564.

Q. Things are a mess regarding all areas of my life. I've made some bad mistakes in the past. Now my home is in a disorganized state. My children are ill-kempt, lacking discipline, house disorganized and I'm overdrawn at the bank. I also fight with my husband and I don't appreciate my mother. And I need to lose weight. How can I move these mountains in my life and make other people's lives happy instead of desperate?

A. Move one mountain at a time. You are so overwhelmed that your mind goes round and round and nothing gets done. Hence the disorganization you speak of. Take one first step. Tomorrow morning say, "This one thing I do,"* and then clean your house. Don't think about anything else, don't be distracted. Really clean the place up. Suddenly you will find that a clean house makes you feel better. You will feel organized and competent.

Take each problem and deal with it in this same way. As you do, the pervasive failure feeling will begin to pass away. Then your changed personality will make those around you relaxed, contented and happy. And will you be a happy woman? You certainly will!

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias

The Quiet Revolution Of the Elderly

President Ford recently signed an appropriations bill that will set in motion one of the most enlightened pieces of social legislation this country has seen in many years. It is the 202 Program, which will go a long way toward providing decent housing for all elderly Americans.

It is a grand victory for the elderly in America; but it is only one victory in a continuing struggle—a revolution in the way this country treats people who have lived past the age of 65.

One of the pressing tasks left to the continuing American Revolution is to eliminate the often unconscious but insistent prejudices against the elderly.

Compulsory retirement is a good example of how prejudice can cramp and debilitate the elderly. The word "retire" does not mean to rest, or take it easy. It means to withdraw. To compel an able, experienced person of 65 to withdraw from an active, useful life is both discriminatory and wasteful of his or her talent. It creates an arbitrary obsoleteness, by fiat, when obsolescence may well be years away.

Retirement is hard enough at any age. It means living on a fixed income, while inflation sends prices vaulting higher and higher. Retirement isolates a person. It removes him from the company of colleagues and from the contact and social life that derive from being out and around on a job.

Often, retirement brings uprooting, and the difficult search for a place to live. America once was a rural nation, with homes built to accommodate grandmothers and grandfathers. But the city apartments and suburban homes of today are not so spacious, and the elderly members of most families are left to shift for themselves on their dimished incomes.

Now, with the launching of the 202 Program, we are on our way toward solving the crisis of housing for the elderly, the cruelest dilemma of retirement.

Perhaps, as 202 takes hold, there will be other changes in the fortunes of the elderly in America. There is good reason to hope so. America is becoming a more venerable society. Our demographic curve shows that the average age of Americans is swinging upward. The elderly still are a minority, but they are becoming a larger one. By the year 2,030, if trends continue, 17 per cent of our population will be 65 or older.

Perhaps, as the contingent of elderly Americans grows, our leaders and institutions will be compelled by sheer numbers to pay some attention to them. Perhaps, too, there will be shifts in the manifold and subtle prejudices that affect even the most compassionate of Americans. And this will be among the last triumphs in the quiet revolution of the elderly.

The ultimate victory comes when the elderly are accorded the respect and dignity that are many times, unknowingly, withheld from them. It will come when we stop treating our elderly as though their judgment and wisdom had gone by, instead of having grown lofty and mellow with the years. It will come when we no longer mistake diminished physical vigor for mental slippage. It will come when we temper our obsessive devotion to everything young, and take time to explore the rich ideas, and the experience, of people in their sixties, seventies, and eighties.

All of this will come to pass.

To Review Federal Programs

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. (R-Md.), declaring that "the idea of regionalism has arrived," has called for Congress to "take the lead in encouraging new efforts at regional cooperation and in sustaining regional programs already underway."

Mathias said he intends to make "a systematic review of federal programs to see how they can be revised in order to stimulate problem-handling and problem-solving on a regional basis." He listed programs in manpower, health care, social services, community action, law enforcement, and economic development.

The Maryland Senator urged officials attending the annual conference of the National Association of Regional Councils in Hollywood, Fla., to press candidates and the political parties for their views on regionalism and other key issues.

"Regionalism needs a boost at the polls and boosters among the Presidential candidates," Mathias said in a speech at the NARC conference.

"In addition to your efforts to get commitments to regionalism inscribed in the party platforms, I urge you individually and collectively to confront candidates for public office and to ask them for specifics on what they plan to do about air pollution, transportation, crime, and unemployment in our major metropolitan areas."

In calling for new Congressional efforts to encourage and sustain regionalism, Mathias spelled out the program review he intends to undertake. He said:

"I intend to see what can be done with the Health Planning and Recources Development Act to encourage local officials to establish health planning areas that will coincide with identifiable regions.

"I intend to see that the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act is revised to recognize the special character of interstate areas and to empower areawide agencies to sponsor employment programs in cooperation with local governments.

"I intend to find a way to earmark some of the general revenue sharing funds for the use of regional councils. I support an extension of the general revenue sharing legislation, but want to be certain that the 30,000 local government units that now receive these funds are the most appropriate recipients.

Mathias said he will urge the Senate to consider the establishment of committee responsibility for metropolitan areas.

June—Dairy Month

Join the celebration by taking advantage of the abundant supply of milk and dairy products.

Milk is a basic food that everyone in the family needs every day. It is an excellent source of calcium, a mineral that helps form bones and teeth and keeps them strong. The protein in milk builds and repairs body tissues, helps the body fight infection, and supplies energy. Milk is rich in riboflavin, a B vitamin that helps keep skin healthy and vision clear. Other important nutrients found in milk are additional vitamins and minerals, fat, and sugar.

Fresh whole milk contains about 87 percent water and 13 percent total solids. The solids are milkfat, minerals, etc. Most fresh whole pasteurized milk on the market is homogenized (fat dispersed evenly through milk). Fortified milk has added vitamins and, sometimes, minerals. Vitamin D is commonly used for fortifying milk.

The simplest way to get milk into family meals is to serve it as a beverage. You have a wide choice to suit the tastes of your family—whole milk, low-fat milk, skim milk, buttermilk, chocolate or flavored milk, reconstituted dry milk and canned milk products. A guide to good eating recommends the following amounts of milk every day:

Children under 9, 2 to 3 (8 fluid-ounce cups); Children 9 to 12, 3 or more (8 fluid-ounce cups); Teenagers, 4 or more (8 fluid-ounce cups); Adults, 2 or more (8 fluid-ounce cups).

These recommended daily amounts are based on the amount of calcium that milk supplies. It is our main food source for calcium.

Fresh milk and dairy products are highly perishable. Keep them clean, cold, and tightly covered.

A SMALL DOLLY is a great prize for a small girl, especially combined with all the things to see and do at the final Center Street Elementary School Fun Carnival. Perfect weather helped attract a large crowd to the playground at the school for the carnival, according to Mrs. James Flanigan, president of the Center Street P.T.A. Net receipts from this one fund raising event were $2,737.91, expenses were $657.42. Total net profit was $2,086.49, with $500 slated for Dennett Road's P.T.A. and the $1,586.49 balance to go to Broad Ford Elementary School for projects to be determined next fall when the P.T.A. organizations resume meetings.

A CHILD COULD BUY many interesting things just for a couple of fun bucks at the last Center Street Fun Carnival held Friday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. Prizes, cake walks, a white elephant sale, clowns, and games made a happy evening for many area children.

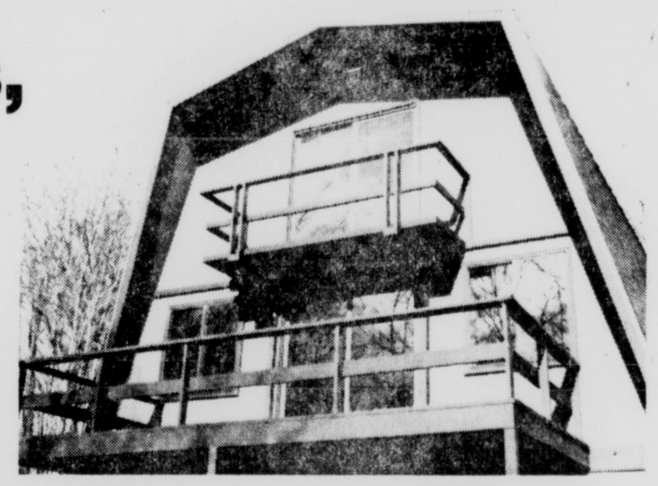
After You See Theirs, Take a Good Look At OURS!


The SHELTER Chalet
$6,200.00
Shell Package for 24' x 24' Model Excluding Sales Tax

If you're considering the popular Chalet design for your new home, you owe it to yourself to study all models carefully. We think you'll like the SHELTER Chalet better. Although ours may look similar to theirs, there are major structural differences which we think you'll agree make the SHELTER Chalet a better buy.

The prebuilt SHELTER Chalet is fabricated in Oakland, Md., so there are no big freight bills to be paid. The roomy 24' x 24' SHELTER Chalet shell package is priced at only $6,200 (FOB Oakland, excluding sales tax), making it an excellent buy for you.

Consider the important differences.

Our angled SIDEWALLS have a top and bottom plate on each floor to nail paneling to. With Shelter's design, you won't have to start out by putting in a lot of blocking.

The sidewall STUDS are 16" on center, not 24", so you have firmer backing for your paneling.

We use sanded plywood for the GUSSETS on our 2 x 12 joists and glue and nail them with finish nails. This gives them a more finished appearance than sheathing plywood and 16-penny nails.

Our open-riser stair treads are dadoed into the stringers instead of just sitting on blocks. This means that Shelter STAIRS are stronger and have a neater appearance.

The Chalet TRUSSES have 2 x 6 top chords (not 2 x 4) and we put them 2' on center so that you have something to nail your ceiling to every 2'.

Shelter exterior DECKS are prebuilt out of pressure-treated lumber which never has to be stained or painted.

Here's another important consideration. All our workmanship is guaranteed for one year. If we put in a basement, we'll guarantee it against seepage in writing for a full year even if we hit spring water when we dig.

We're flexible. You can buy the package and set it up yourself. We'll provide a construction foreman experienced in SHELTER assembly if you wish. We can erect the shell and let you do the finishing work (we can provide interior materials packages, if desired), or we can do the entire job, including finishing.

After you see theirs, take a good look at ours. We're open from 9-4 Monday through Friday, and weekends by appointment. Choose the SHELTER Chalet or any of our 26 other vacation designs. Little things can add up to a better house. That's why yours should be a SHELTER design.

Humphrey-Hawkins Cost-Per-Taxpayer 'Devastating'

In a speech before the Federal Bar Association Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md.) stressed the need for government action to alleviate unemployment but deplored the proposed Humphrey-Hawkins Full Employment Bill as "devastating in its cost." "Unemployment must be attacked swiftly and effectively by the Federal government but the Humphrey-Hawkins approach is so costly it will send our economy back into the upward inflationary spiral from which we are just now beginning to emerge," Beall said. According to Beall, the bill could cost the average Maryland taxpaying family as much as $1,049 per year (combining both direct federal costs and lost purchasing power due to expected inflation resulting from the bill).

The Maryland Senator told the legal group of his alternatives which would place the emphasis on permanent jobs in the private sector while providing necessary assistance to those temporarily unemployed. "Above all," Beall said, "we must provide job opportunities and training in a manner which will not lead to additional excessive inflation. If in our rush towards full-employment we set off a new 'inflationary time bomb' as Humphrey-Hawkins would do, we will once again create waves of severe unemployment and high inflation and will have learned nothing from our past errors." Beall proposed that the Congress:

1. Accelerate the present Manpower Training Programs which are essential to the unskilled and new entrants to today's labor market;

2. Provide temporary Public Service jobs and Public Works projects designed to "self-destruct" as the economy improves;

3. Extend the present tax cuts beyond the June 30th expiration date in order to continue the stimulation of demand for goods and services by putting spendable dollars in the hands of consumers;

4. Provide generous and extended unemployment benefits to cushion the impact of temporary unemployment.

5. Reform our national welfare system so as to encourage recipients to seek permanent jobs in the private sector;

"The Humphrey-Hawkins bill is nothing more than political gimmickry in an election year," Beall told the group. "Most influential economists have labeled it unworkable and highly inflationary. It promises more than the federal government can possibly deliver."

Beall said that if enacted, the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, whose cost is estimated (by the Congressional Budget Office) as high as $48 billion, would negate all the constructive work done by the newly formed Congressional Budget Committees.

"Through hard work, the Budget Committees have achieved short-term restraint. We've cut more than $20 billion from next year's budget deficit," Beall said. "We must continue that trend towards a balanced budget. A bill as inflationary as the Humphrey-Hawkins bill will set Congress back to the same irresponsible system of fiscal insanity which forced the creation of the Budget Committees three years ago."

Seeks Committee Review

Saying that there are some Federal Advisory Committees "whose expensive advice the public can do without", Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. (R-Md.) has introduced the "Advisory Committee Review Act" which requires a Congressional review of all Advisory Committees every two years. "We now have 1,267 Federal Advisory Committees," Beall said. "Under present law, Congress, on a two year basis, reviews more than half of those committees to see if they're worth continuing. A full 49% are exempted from such a review. They can be continued indefinitely with the simple OK from the appropriate agency head." Beall said that permitting federal agencies to perpetuate advisory committees under their preview creates what he termed "a major loophole in Congress' efforts to control big and often unnecessary government."

"I believe Congress must oversee this renewal process and have veto power over such extensions if it is felt that a committee has outlived its usefullness," Beall said. According to Beall, it will cost the American taxpayers more than $53 million in 1976 to keep the 1,267 committees in operation. "Many Americans are under the mistaken impression that the advice the government receives from its advisory committees is free. The fact is that these bodies cost the American public plenty."

The Maryland Senator said that the greatest number of advisory committees are under a small number of departments or agencies. The following are the five departments or agencies with the highest number of committees under their jurisdiction: HEW, 322; Interior, 109; Defense, 66; agriculture, 168; commerce, 74.

"My bill would extend Congressional review to cover these and all other advisory committees," Beall concluded. "It would enable the Congress and the public to evaluate the work of these committees on a regular schedule in order to determine if their continuation is worth the substantial sums that are often spent on these bodies. What was needed two years ago may no longer be needed today."

Water Supply Problems Noted At Grantsville

A blockage in the town's main water line is causing water supply problems in Grantsville, according to Gloria M. Martin, town clerk.

The blockage has reduced water pressure in residences and business places and also was making the water muddy, she said.

Town officials are attempting to have repairs made to the line, but it was believed the repairs would not be completed for another week or two.

Residents were being asked to conserve water. They were asked to refrain from watering lawns, washing cars and other activities which use water needlessly.

Grantsville's water supply is located on Negro Mountain where two wells and several springs are used to have water piped down to the town.

Mrs. Martin said that while the water supply itself has not been diminished the blockage was making it difficult to get the water into the town. She said town officials are making plans to begin trucking water into the community if necessary.

Health Papers Are Needed By Fair Exhibitors

Dairy, livestock and horse exhibitors at the Garrett County Fair August 9 to 14, are being reminded by James A. McHenry, Extension Agent, that now is the time to contact a Veterinarian so he can process the necessary health papers for their animals. Health papers have been mailed out to exhibitors and department superintendents have a supply. He advised that they avoid the last minute rush and get the work done early. Animals cleared for the Garrett County Black and White Show will be O-K for the Fair, he said.

Horse exhibitors must have their horses tested for Equine Infectious Anemia (IEA). This test is called a "Coggins Test" and all horses taken to the Fair must be accompanied by a certificate indicating the horse has been tested within 12 months before the Fair or Show.

Health papers are available at the Extension Office

Recent Mishaps Injure Several

Several persons were injured in recent accidents in scattered parts of the county. One woman was hospitalized a short time.

Ruth Virginia Miller, 57, RD 1, Oakland, was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a mishap on Glendale road about a quarter mile east of U. S. 219 the evening of May 27. Her passenger, Emma K. Schmidt, 53, Oakland, was treated and released from the hospital.

Ruth Liller was driving west on Glendale road when an unknown vehicle, eastbound, crossed the center of the road and forced her off the road striking a tree. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

A Friendsville child was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital after he was struck while riding his bicycle on Maple street in Friendsville.

Gerald K. Thomas, 3, was taken to the hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad. Freeman W. Sines, RD 1, Friendsville was traveling north and attempted to pass the Thomas boy on the bicycle. As Sines got beside the cycle, it started to move toward center of the lane and he struck it. Tfc. G. A. Berkebile investigated.

Two persons were thrown from the motorcycle they were riding when it overturned on Mayhew Inn road about a quarter mile west of U. S. 219 the afternoon of May 30. They were apparently not seriously injured.

Harry T. Barringer, Canonsburg, Pa., and his passenger, Kimberly A. Shean, Bridgeville, Pa., were traveling east. Samuel W. Puglisi, Jr., Bethel Park, Pa., also eastbound turned into a private drive without giving a signal. The motorcycle overturned on the road to avoid a collision. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant investigated.

Letter To The Editor

To Concerned Parents:

There have been several rumors spreading through the community about the Southern High School's Marching Band trip to Indianapolis. I believe these should be cleared up. It seems people aren't giving very much credit to Mr. Clever or the chaperones to even think they would allow your children to stay in a place unfit. I was there with them and believe me, it wasn't in any way unfit.

It seems to me you have lost your trust and faith in what you really believe. This community finally has something to be proud of and should take every opportunity to support and help the band, not try to tear it apart.

They are a great group of kids. If more parents would take time to spend with them and work with them, I'm sure they would realize this. The kids of this community aren't given enough credit for what they are. It is about time you realize they are growing up. They are a fine group, if given the chance to prove it. Listen to them. Take time for your children. They are grown and gone far too soon. If every parent of each band member would donate a small amount of their time, come out and help support the band, I'm sure you would see what a great thing we have. Each one of you has something to offer. Isn't it about time you get involved with your children?

Janice Welch.

OAKLAND, MARYLAND

Youngsters worked on identifying leaves and plants during their six weeks of outdoor education at Herrington Manor and Swallow Falls State Parks this spring. Shown above are Red House School students Brenda Uber, Lisa Hauser, Betty Arnold, Allan Stahl, Craig Marple, Jay Gregory, Mike Sisler, and Ranger Jackie Torres, one of the two instructors. Park superintendent Charles Thomas instigated the program in 1975 to help schools utilize the parks, and to coordinate book-learning with actual experience.

The players were as serious as though this were a World Series game during recreation for Red House Elementary School students following completion of their six weeks of outdoor education last Thursday.

Outdoor Education Program Concludes

The outdoor education program for students in elementary schools in Garrett County concluded last weekend with an overnight camping outing for students at Crellin School at Swallow Falls State Park.

After only two years in existence, the outdoor education program has more than doubled in size, from 27 students in 1975 to 77 in 1976.

The program began in 1975 when Herrington Manor and Swallow Falls State parks superintendent Charles Thomas set about filling a need for real-life instruction in science, as well as encouraging schools to utilize the state parks system.

He arranged a program which includes a trip to the fire tower at Deep Creek Lake State Park, a study of soils, vegetation and geology at Swallow Falls, nature crafts and ecology, and a trip to Cranesville Swamp in West Virginia. The activities generally conclude with a picnic, boat tour and other outdoor recreation at Herrington Manor. In the case of Crellin School, however, students voted to go camping at Swallow Falls.

Two fifth and sixth grade classes from Red House and the second and third graders from Crellin completed the sessions this year. Park rangers Robert Friend and Jackie Torres were instructors in such subjects as soil texture, wildlife, man's effect on the environment, food chains and decoupage.

The state park rangers worked with the schools on the program six consecutive weeks for two hours a week.

Children also had an opportunity to become Junior Park Rangers. To qualify, students had to submit a paragraph on the problems of litter, a report on park rangers and what they do, identify ten different leaves and flowers, and conclude with a short paper explaining the part the outdoor education program played in enriching their lives through the natural environment. All youngsters completed the requirements and were presented with a membership card, a Junior Park Ranger arm patch and a certificate.

Superintendent Thomas and the other rangers hope to continue the program next year, but no definite arrangements are completed as yet.

IT WOULD TAKE a hard-hearted person to resist the trembling appeal of this mixed breed puppy as he pleads for a home through a cage at the county animal shelter on the Oakland-Sang Run Road. This puppy and many others of all sizes and breeds are available now for easy adoption.

DON'T MAKE A SCARECROW, go get one ready made at the county animal shelter. This specimen is quite presentable after a haircut, and if it's left untrimmed, he's probably woolly enough to scare away the blackbirds.

4-H Foresters Knock On Wood: Will There Be Enough In Year 2000?

CHICAGO–In the year 2000 the average American will use one ton of wood and paper products–twice as much as he uses today–say authorities in wood resource management.

Where the wood will come from is of major concern to young people 9-19 in the national 4-H forestry program. The program is sponsored by International Paper Company and conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

4-H forestry members are "learning by doing" that better management and improved technology are keys to meeting increased demand for forest products. They recognize the importance of woodlands not only for raw materials, but also as a source of recreation, wildlife refuge, and ongoing environmental processes that restore the planet's atmosphere and support all animal life on earth.

4-H'ers help renew forest

4-H'ers are aware that forests are a renewable natural resource, but that nature cannot do the job alone. Last fall, Georgia 4-H'ers helped dedicate the nation's first 4-H tree farm at Rock Eagle 4-H Center. The dedication ceremony was the first of many that will be held across the country to pay tribute to the American tree farm system and the 4-H forestry program.

Other 4-H forestry projects and activities include visiting tree nurseries, building leaf and wood sample collections, studying woodland survival, exploring forestry careers, even making paper from raw materials.

Color slides available

To aid young foresters, International Paper recently made available to each state 4-H leader an educational slide set called "4-H Forestry: An Action Program." The set of 139 color slides and accompanying script explains the importance of the forest industry and offers suggestions for individual and club activities in the 4-H forestry program.

Additional sets may be purchased from the National 4-H Service Committee, 150 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

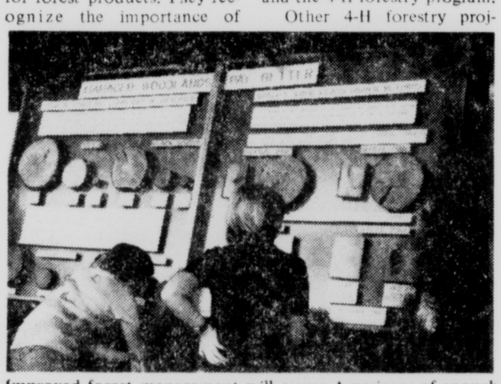
Awards for achievement

International Paper provides incentives to 4-H foresters through a series of awards arranged by the Service Committee.

Up to four 4-H members per county can win medals of honor, and one 4-H'er in each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago.

From these state winners, six will be selected as national winners and awarded $800 college scholarships. All winners are chosen by the Extension Service.

More information on the 4-H forestry program is available from county extension agents.



Improved forest management will assure Americans of enough wood to meet increased demand in the year 2000. Looking to the future, young people 9-19 in the national 4-H forestry program learn to appreciate U.S. woodlands and apply practical skills in forestry projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. International Paper Company recognizes outstanding achievement in the program with awards ranging from medals of honor to college scholarships.

Why is this bear smiling?

You'd be smiling too, if people listened to you the way Americans have listened to Smokey.

Over 30 years ago, Smokey started asking people to help prevent forest fires.

Since that time, they've helped cut the number of careless fires in half, even though ten times as many people use the forests today as they did back in the 1940's.

So today, Smokey's saying thank you. And smiling a lot.

Let's help keep him that way.

4-H Homemakers Relive America's Past

Colonial homemakers sewed quilts for economy and warmth, and used a "fluffer" (demonstrated above) to prepare feather beds. During the Bicentennial many young people 9-19 in the national 4-H home environment program are studying the furnishings, equipment and housing of America's past. Awards for outstanding home environment project work are donated by The S&H Foundation, Inc. and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee.

CHICAGO–In West Virginia 4-H'ers are rediscovering the American art of quilting. In Atlanta they're learning that now-elegant, coach house apartments once served as slave quarters.

During the Bicentennial 4-H members across the country are combining their interest in the national 4-H home environment program with a study of home furnishings, equipment and housing used by their ancestors.

In learn-by-doing projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, boys and girls 9-19 find values in the old as well as the new.

Looking backward

Minnesota 4-H'ers have discovered that many convenience items in use today, such as the apple peeler and the long-handled fork, were originally fashioned by blacksmiths following the suggestions of pioneer homemakers.

4-H teens in Virginia took part in a colonial activities workshop, tried their hand at candle dipping and weaving, and were introduced to the early American crafts of quilting and chair caning.

Like their ancestors, today's 4-H'ers are satisfied when their homes reflect their own creativity and family life-style. And in 1976 they can take advantage of the widespread availability of well-designed, mass-produced furnishings and equipment, and modern housing, that make twentieth century homemaking easier.

S&H provides awards

As they learn how to make their homes more attractive and comfortable within the limits of the family budget, 4-H'ers can work for awards donated by The S&H Foundation, Inc.

Six top national winners will receive $800 college scholarships during the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago.

Scholarship winners are selected from among 24 sectional winners who receive expense-paid trips to Congress.

One home environment program member in each state gets a $50 U.S. Savings Bond, and four members per county are eligible for medals of honor.

All winners are chosen by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment in 4-H home environment projects and activities. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Additional information on the program is available from county extension agents.

Will Your Heirs Inherit Your Estate?

Maria del Olio of Brooklyn died in 1972 at the age of 85, leaving a generous legacy to her son and daughter. Strong willed and independent, after her husband's death twenty years before, she continued to operate the hardware store she and her husband had run, and lived in the apartment above it as they always had.

Proud of her financial independence, she would not listen to the pleas of her children to give up the store. Nor did she confide in them about her financial matters.

Prior to her death she had mysteriously told them that on her deathbed she would tell them where the valuables mentioned in her will were located. But death came quickly, precipitated by a stroke which left her unable to speak.

When the will was read, it bequeathed $1000 to each of her twelve grandchildren toward their education. Extensive search failed to reveal the whereabouts of the twelve thousand dollars. After two years, the heirs gave up looking. The estate was settled and the house sold. Only after the deed was signed did Mrs. del Olio's heirs discover, too late, that the $12,000 legacy had been hidden in the house. To establish their right to the money may take years of expensive litigation. And no one can predict the outcome.

As the del Olio's learned, making a will is not protection enough for our heirs. If you want them to inherit what is rightfully theirs, it is important to make an inventory of your assets, and let your attorney know where to find it.

Tragedies such as the del Olio's experienced are not unique. An appalling 20 billion dollars in inheritance money across the nation goes unclaimed because the rightful heirs are ignorant of its existence. It was to avoid such losses that Love's Lasting Legacy, a personal inventory organizer, was developed. This document allows you to detail the location and type of all your valuables. It is available for $3.00 from Love's Lasting Legacy, P.O. Box 140, Charles Town, W. Va. 25414.

Do your heirs know where to find the deed to your house? What about the key to your safe deposit box, mortgage, insurance policy, stocks and bonds?

You have worked long and hard to build your estate for the benefit of your loved ones. They deserve to receive your legacy. So take the necessary precaution to ensure that they receive it. List your principal assets and their exact location. It is the only way to assure that your legacy will go to them—not to the state or strangers.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

When those eleven Special Education students board the bus this Friday morning for the Maryland Special Olympics at Towson State College, many Garrett Countians should feel a little prouder for their part in this success story.

These students have earned the right to compete because of their performance in the local Special Olympics at Garrett Community College in April. They performed well in this meet because twelve college students had trained them during the winter months in the skills needed for participation and because Mrs. Dorothy Leuba had given her time and expertise to supervise this training.

Beginning last fall, student coordinators Doug Stanton and Jeff Carlisle worked with Mary Jane Fike, Bonnie and Brenda Broadwater, Diane Barry, Darla Fike, Tom Panther, Todd Tichnell, Craig Bosley, Lisa Hinebaugh, and Tina Wotring to train the students at Green Street and Accident Schools. They were paid in the friendships they made, the warm smiles that greeted them, and in the satisfaction of achievement. They are a very important part of this success story.

But so are all of the people in Garrett County — the private citizens, the business people, the members of organizations — who supported the Fall Fun Free For All last November. It was the money made on this event that enabled the Student Government Association of the college to pay the expenses of the students and chaperones going to the Towson meet.

It's time to say a large thank-you to all of these people who have made it possible for some very special people to experience the thrill of competition.

Yours truly,
Joan B. Crawford,
Faculty Coordinator of Special Olympics,
Garrett Community College

Retired To Meet

Members of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet next Wednesday, June 16, at 1:30 p.m., at the Oakland fire hall, it was announced by Robert E. Lee, president.

Deputy Sheriff David Livengood will speak about crime, crime prevention and will show how "Sarge," his canine performs and helps to solve crime.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Nellie Stemple and Mrs. Hazel Dowling.

Six Aurora FFA To Get State Farmer Degrees

Students from the Aurora Chapter, Future Farmers of America, will make a good showing at the West Virginia State FFA Convention, to be held at Jackson's Mill in July according to Tom Glotfelty, Advisor. Six of their members, Mark Teets, Craig Durst, Dennis Loughrie, Allen Dale Strawser, Bernard Ritchie, and Odus Henline will be awarded the State Farmer Degree. This is the highest award the state association can give and is awarded to ten percent of the total state enrollment in the FFA.

In addition to the State Farmer Awards, The National FFA Foundation provides achievement awards to students with outstanding programs. Included with this award is a cash award and an opportunity to compete at the regional and national level for additional awards. First place winners receive $100 and runner-up awards are made for $50. Mark Teets placed first in dairy production in the state and was runner-up for Star State Farmer. George Lipscomb, Jr. had the best program in the state in Agriculture Mechanics and Ronnie Jones was runner-up in Agricultural Electrification.

The Aurora Chapter will also compete in the State FFA Creed and Parliamentary Procedure Contest, having defeated the other chapters in the Northern District for the honor. While the exact number to attend the convention is not known at this time, it would appear that with official delegates, state band and glee club members and the above mentioned participants, approximately one-half of the 43 member chapter will have an active part in the state convention.

Plan Hymn Sing

St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, will be holding an Old Fashioned Bi-Centennial Hymn Sing on Sunday evening, June 13, at 7:30 p.m.

Hymn Sings are an important tradition in the religious life of our county according to Rev. John A. Grant, Rector, and St. John's Church is attempting to recreate some of the old fashioned spirit of the old hymns. The foot-stomping surge of "Shall We Gather At The River" or the delicate beauty of "Jesus Loves Me" is as much a part of America as cornbread or Mom's apple pie, he commented.

Light refreshments will be served afterwards.

IN BETWEEN ANGLING EFFORTS, many senior citizens who attended the fishing contest last Thursday could take advantage of summer weather and a place to sit and chat with friends at Herrington Manor State Park. Music was provided throughout the day by Simon Cogley and his group, and by recorded songs. Over 100 competitors were bustling around the lake attempting to snag prize-winning catches, with five trout the creel limit. Winners in various categories are listed elsewhere in today's paper.

More Injured In Mishaps Since Saturday Noon

Accidents since last Saturday afternoon caused injury to a few persons in different sections of the county.

A young boy was injured when his racer bike ran into the path of a car on the Oakland-Deer Park road last Saturday afternoon. Joyce A. Chaney, RD 4 Deer Park, was driving westbound on the Oakland Deer Park road about 500 feet east of State Route 135. Darryl Lee Tasker, Deer Park, came out of a private drive on his bike and into the path of the Chaney car. Mrs. Chaney was unable to stop and struck the boy. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

Sunday afternoon the driver of a pickup was slightly injured on Rt. 135 just east of Chestnut Grove road. Jerry Martin Tichnell, RD 1, Swanton, received slight injuries. He was eastbound on Rt. 135 followed by a car driven by Robert Lee Burrell, Baltimore, and a third, unidentified vehicle. Burrell attempted to pass the vehicle and the Tichnell car. This was just as Tichnell made a left turn off the road and the two collided. Burrell was unable to see Tichnell's turn signals due to the third vehicle. Tfc. Upole investigated.

A passenger in each of two cars was injured in another Saturday afternoon wreck. John L. Yommer, 18, Grantsville, a passenger in the car driven by Frank Brenneman, Rt. 495, Bittinger, and Linda B. Quinn, 26, a passenger in a car driven by Ralph J. Quinn, both Rixeyville, Va., were injured slightly. Quinn was eastbound on U.S. 40 at Rt. 495 in Grantsville. Brenneman was westbound on Rt. 40, making a left turn onto Rt. 495, and failed to yield the right-of-way to the Quinn car. The two collided. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland investigated.

Commissioners To Offer Properties, Minerals For Sale

The Garrett County Commissioners will soon offer for sale at public auction, various coal and surface properties throughout Garrett County. During the past several decades, the Commissioners acquired these properties through property tax settlements and recently completed an inventory of County lands and minerals.

The 25 parcels of real estate will be auctioned off at 10 a.m. July 2 in front of the Court House. The Commissioners are also requesting sealed bids for the properties. Revenue obtained from the sale of the land will be used in the County's future operating budgets. A detailed description of the coal and surface parcels is advertised elsewhere in the paper. In other Commissioner business, Commissioners Hamilton and Bender appointed Mrs. Debra Marrero, Oakland, to a two year term on the Garrett County Commission on Aging. On Wednesday, Commissioner Bender attended the Tri-County Council of Western Maryland monthly meeting. Commissioner Edwards will return to Garrett County this weekend from his National Guard summer camp and will resume his duties as Chairman of the County Commissioners.

Promotion Council Membership Meet Planned June 26

A membership meeting for the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council has been planned for Saturday, June 26, at 2 p.m. at Garrett Community College auditorium, following a Board of Directors meeting Wednesday.

At the membership meeting, the structure and functions of the Promotion Council will be discussed, along with the possibility of a new charter. All members are urged to attend to provide needed input.

Light refreshments will be served, according to Edwin Walthall, Promotion Council director.

The Board met at noon Wednesday at Cornish Manor with Wendell Beitzel, president, in charge. Other topics discussed were various funding proposals and facets of the Autumn Glory Festival, including the naming of two new chairmen.

Page Shanklin was named to the Autumn Glory committee as the "Friends of Garrett County" dinner chairman. Mr. Shanklin, an employe of Beall, Garner, Screen, and Geare, replaces Tom Thayer in that capacity.

Tom Graham, of Garrettland, accepted the position of Autumn Glory Sweepstakes chairman, replacing Maurice Brookhart, who resigned.

FFA Group Spends Weekend In Wilds

Fourteen members of the Aurora FFA Chapter and their advisor, Thomas Glotfelty, spent the past weekend, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, backpacking in the Otter Creek Wilderness, located in the Monongahela National Forest, south of Parsons.

Craig Durst, Bernie Ritchie, Edwin Evans, Daryl Ritchie, Brian Strawser, Mark Teets, Gary Lipscomb, Brian Hebb, Terry Lambert, Rick Winters, Donald Calcamp, Kenneth Mullenex, Carl Bachtel and Rod McWilliams spent the weekend backpacking over fifteen miles of the Otter Creek back country, cleaning up the trails, map reading and examining the logging methods used when the area was cut in the 1890's.

All food, water and essentials of life must be carried in by backpack for the Otter Creek Wilderness is off limits to any form of motor vehicle. Horses can be used in most wilderness areas but are not suitable to the Otter Creek area, due to the ruggedness of the region.

The members of the expedition encountered many different forms of wildlife, including a nervous doe and fawn and a black bear. There were no mishaps and all returned safely Sunday.

Pupils From Green Street School Have Tour Of Pittsburgh

Some 29 members of the staff and participants at Green Street School celebrated the end of the school year with an overnight trip to Pittsburgh, Pa. The group left Monday in Bus 35-A of the county system, with Mike Phillippi as driver.

Those taking the trip were Louise White, Pat McBee, Vera Graham, Regina Stork, Barbara Weaver, Rev. and Mrs. Donald Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Plevyak, Tom Bittinger, and Gerald Sanders, Jr., teachers and chaperones. Students present were Connie Lantz, Johnny Keefer, Liz Terrant, Linda Michaels, Loretta Friend, Susie Matthews and Trina Bray, Mike DeWitt, Billy Gay, Bill Abernathy, Phillip Wotring, Rick Terrant, David Knox, Roger Uber, Roger Paugh, Mike Perry, Jeff Michaels, Paul Rice and Bobby Steyer.

The group departed at 9:30 a.m. Monday and arrived at Allegheny Motor Inn, Corapolis, Pa., at 1:30. A tour of the Greater Pittsburgh International Airport was first on the agenda. There was then time for a swim before a buffet-style dinner at the Allegheny Motor Inn restaurant. The day concluded with story time at 8:30.

After breadfast at the Inn the following morning, the group traveled to the Incline Plane for a trip. Next they traveled to Three Rivers Stadium for a tour on the Goodship Lollipop. Lunch was at Point State Park.

A Three Rivers Stadium tour that afternoon included meetings with Mike Wagner, Pittsburgh Steeler, and several of the Pirate ballplayers. The travelers left Pittsburgh for dinner in Uniontown and arrived back at Green Street School at 8:30 Tuesday evening.

According to Mrs. Weaver, the teacher who coordinated the field trip, all the students seemed to have an enjoyable time, and everyone who had dealings with the group went out of their way to be thoughtful.

There will no longer be a Green Street School in this county, effective with the closing of school. Next fall, students requiring special education in the southern part of the county will attend Dennett Road School, where a special wing has been prepared for their exclusive use. Children in the northern part of the county will continue to attend Accident

Parties Select At Large Members To Conventions

The Republican party of Maryland met last weekend at Ocean City and selected nineteen at large delegates, and changed the method of voting in the party.

Four of the at-large delegates are from the Sixth Congressional district, including U.S. Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr., and State Senator Edward J. Mason and Charles Miller from Howard county. With these four and the three delegates elected in the May 18 primary, Brenda Butscher, Don Munson and Edward Thomas, this gave the sixth district a total of seven of the forty-three delegates from Maryland.

Tom Butscher, Oakland, had introduced a resolution at the state meeting last November, to change the party's voting method. The party had previously based its method on the population in the county, and the new Garrett County resolution was based on registered Republicans in the counties.

The Garrett County resolution was voted into effect at the meeting, which took the voting strength out of Baltimore City and Prince Georges counties and giving the rural counties a stronger vote in the party. The sixth congressional district nearly doubled its voting strength.

Attending the convention to represent the Republican State Central committee of Garrett County were Mr. and Mrs. Butscher, Mrs. Charles Bowser, and Mrs. Cleda Baker. Mr. Butscher attended a leadership conference with vice president Nelson Rockefeller. Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Bowser served on the resolutions committee, and Mrs. Butscher was a hostess for a reception given in honor of the vice president.

Attending and speaking in addition to the vice president were Senators Mathias and Beall, Congressman Bob Bauman, Miss Louise Gore, national committeewoman, Richard Allen, National committeeman, Senator Edward Mason and George Beall, former U.S. attorney for Maryland.

At Saturday's Democratic convention in Baltimore Daniel F. McMullen III, Cumberland was named as an at-large delegate. Maryland's 53 member delegation is split up giving Jimmy Carter 33 delegates, Sen. Henry Jackson 11, and Rep. Morris Udall six with three officially uncommitted. There are 43 Republican delegates and they are bound by state law for two ballots for President Ford.

Gov. Marvin Mandel, who shifted his allegiance during the primary from Jackson to Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., of California, was selected as one of the at-large delegates.

The GOP convention will be held in Kansas City while the Democrats will hold their national gathering in New York City.

Movie Theatre Is Under Construction At Grantsville Plaza

Tom Schroyer, owner of the Grantsvill Shopping Plaza, has announced that construction of a new, modern movie theatre in the plaza is now underway.

Owner and operator of the theatre is James Mullis, Cumberland, who operates a chain of theatres including Tri-Towns in Westernport, G. Ray Light Cinema in south Cumberland, and the Center Theatre in Searstown. The theatre will open in September.

According to Mr. Schroyer, the shopping plaza is centrally located at the intersection of Routes 48, 219 north, and 40 to serve Garrett and western Allegany counties, and southern Pennsylvania.

Already located in the center are a Foodland market, Ben Franklin variety store, and N.A.P.A. auto store.

Mr. Schroyer is negotiating with several retailers to provide a complete shopping complex of approximately 100,000 square feet of shopping facilities with a 2-to-1 ratio of free parking.

SOUTHERN GARRETT COUNTY RESCUE SQUAD

Announcing...

The 1976 Fund Drive of the Southern Garrett County

Rescue Squad

The Southern Rescue Squad is beginning its fourth consecutive year of service in emergency care to the citizens of Southern Garrett County and surrounding areas. Because of your tremendous support in the past, we have been able to provide this service absolutely free of charge to the patient. We feel confident that this support will continue.

You should receive this letter (at right) within the next ten days, along with a telephone sticker, an information sticker, and a return envelope. Please read the letter, give it some thought, and send in your tax deductible contribution. Please include your name and address.

Many people say how much they appreciate us for our service, but we would like to say how much we appreciate YOU for your support!

SOUTHERN GARRETT COUNTY RESCUE SQUAD, INC.
P. O. Box 256
OAKLAND, MARYLAND 21550

Dear Friends,

June 14, 1976

As I write this letter it is hard to realize that we, your rescue squad, have been operating for almost three years. Thanks to your generosity we have been able to render emergency care to the sick and injured, free of charge. It is our fervent hope that this vital service may continue. Your giving will help make it all possible.

As we begin our fund drive each year we feel that an explanation of how previous donations have been used is due to all who have so generously given.

From June, 1975, through May, 1976, many new pieces of equipment have gone into service or are presently on order. A new $17,000 1976 Modular Ambulance was placed in service in April. A $13,000 1976 medium Rescue Truck is on order and delivery is expected in July. For the rescue truck one of the major components is the Hurst power tool, commonly called the "Jaws of Life". This $5,000 tool literally can tear apart or raise a car to free trapped victims. The rescue truck also will carry over a ton of equipment which can be used in an infinite variety of ways to extricate the injured. Your giving, along with help from Appalachia Funding, means that Southern Rescue, with this modern equipment, can more confidently respond to all emergencies and help save lives.

Southern Rescue is now staffed by 70 very dedicated volunteers, all trained and certified as Emergency Medical Technicians, who last year responded to emergency calls from 650 citizens. We are proud to have been able to serve.

A problem now facing the Squad is housing. We have outgrown our present rented quarters and must find another home, preferably one we can call our own. Properties are being investigated and, depending upon the response of this fund drive, we hope to take action this summer. The need is considerable and your financial assistance is urgently needed to make this venture possible.

Along with this request for funds are two stickers which should be placed on or near your telephone. One is our telephone number for emergency calls. The other is information to guide you when you have an emergency. Please read it carefully.

A return envelope also is enclosed. You won't find a stamp on it because every cent we save goes toward free emergency care. So, please, without hesitation, put your tax-deductible contribution in the return envelope, place a stamp on it and mail it today. This is one donation that you can see, and hear, at work, providing coverage for you, your family, your friends and neighbors, by helping us provide the best in emergency care on a 24-hour basis without charge.

Sincerely,

Bradley A. Stewart
President

An empty spider web hangs suspended in a dry bush, a mere pattern of gray trembling in the breeze.

On a Sunday morning, people from many walks of life, carrying a myriad of joys and burdens, enter churches to worship.

Dew falls and the sun rises. God moves in the lives of His people.

Clothed now in dew, the once drab spider web becomes a chandelier of crystal rainbows – royal purples, velvet violets, fiery reds, some flecked with brightest gold.

People emerge from our churches, apparently unchanged, yet — different. What is the new meaning in their lives? What the deeper understanding? How has peace and confidence been renewed? A mystery? Perhaps! But not beyond experience.

Won't you join us in church this Sunday? Together, we will learn from the God who changes things.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ON SERVING TABLES

Lesson for June 13, 1976

Background Scripture:
Acts 6:1-6; Romans 16:1-6; Ephesians 4:11-16; I Timothy 3:1-13.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 4:1-16.

I have read the sixth chapter of Acts many times, but it was only in preparation for this column that I realized there was something there that had eluded me in the past.

The story seems simple enough: because the Greek-speaking Jewish Christians felt their widows were not getting their fair share in the daily distribution of food and because the apostles felt that their duties of preaching and teaching would not permit them to adequately oversee this matter, seven men were appointed and consecrated to be responsible for this function. In some churches today the deacon is still regarded as the person specially set apart to minister to people's material needs, while the pastor or elder devotes himself, as did the apostles, to their spiritual needs.

Rev. Althouse

Murmuring at the tables

Yet, reading between the lines, there seems to be more to this story. I sense considerable conflict in this incident. Luke says that the "Hellenists murmured against the Hebrews" the (Greek-speaking against Aramaic-speaking). The point of the dispute is clear: the Hellenists feel there is discrimination against them by the Hebrews.

This is a serious charge and the first indication that the early church had the same kinds of problems which we still have today. Whether or not the Aramaic-speaking Christians were actually prejudiced against their Greek-speaking counterparts, the Hellenists believed that they were the victims of discrimination. Thus was the unity of the church threatened.

The congregation was pleased

In their response to this complaint, the apostles sound as if they are more than a little defensive. Instead of commenting upon the unequal distribution, they protest that their religious duties will not permit them to exercise sufficient oversight of the food distribution. Then, in an attempt to find a compromise, they suggest that seven Greek-speaking Christians be selected to administer the food tables. The tactic seems to satisfy the Hellenists for "what they said pleased the whole multitude..." (6:5).

Yet, another source of tension remains: The apostles indicate that their spiritual duties are incompatible with serving tables. But hadn't Jesus himself said: "For which is the greater, one who sits at table, or one who serves?...But I am among you as one who serves." (Luke 22:27). And in John 13, Jesus girds himself with a towel and washes their feet.

Isn't it ironic too that Luke tells us that Stephen, a man appointed to serve tables because the apostles didn't have enough time, is remembered as a disciple "full of grace and power...who did great wonders and signs among the people"?

Stephen's official task may have been serving tables, but he is obviously no less an apostle because of it.

FIREBALL

Rivaling the brightness of a full moon, a fireball appeared over Europe on March 2nd. Photographs indicate that the object broke into fragments for which a search has been organized. Spectral analysis of the light of the fireball showed that iron, sodium, calcium, magnesium, manganese, chromium, aluminum, silicon, iron oxide, nitrogen and cyanogen were present.

A Full Moon phase of the moon occurs at 00:15 A.M. Saturday morning. This week the moon rises between 7:14 P.M. tonight and 11:57 P.M. next Wednesday evening. Tomorrow morning at 8:00 A.M. the moon passes between the earth and Neptune. This event is called an occultation of Neptune by the moon.

THE GOSPEL HERALDS
OF Silver Spring, Md.
Will Present
"GOOD NEWS IN SONG"
Saturday, June 12, 7:30 P.M.
Sand Flat Assembly of God

The Gospel Heralds are a group of young people ranging in age from late teens to mid-twenties. The group consists of four singers and a bass guitarist. All are Christians dedicated to presenting the message of God's love in song and testimony. Their singing, consisting of both traditional and contemporary Gospel songs, has been well received by youth groups and older people as well.

The Heralds originally began several years ago as a youth singing group at First Assembly of God Church in Silver Spring. Since that time, their singing engagements have taken them to churches at widely spread locations in the states of Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and New York as well as the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area.

A cordial welcome is extended to all to come and worship with us for this service.

Guard Camp Provides Account Of First Week

An account of the first week of National Guard camp was sent for publication from Camp Pickett.

"After a 13-hour motor march from Oakland and Frostburg, Company C of the 121st Engineer Battalion, arrived at Fort Pickett in Blackstone, Va. May 29 they moved into the field where for five days they lived and conducted their work activities. Training was at squad level consisting of ten men. They were engaged in constructing log obstacles, demolition activities and laying mine fields. They constructed a tactical raft for ferrying light vehicles across rivers. They erected rope bridges and learned reconaissance skills. They breached obstacles using explosives and learned how to disable a fixed bridge.

"For the engineer soldier the work day is a long one, beginning at 5 a.m. and running through a heavy work schedule until 5 p.m. Often the jobs take longer to accomplish than estimated and need additional time to complete. For those in any leadership capacity there can be after hours meetings for evaluating the day's activities and additional hours for planning the work for the coming day.

"Early Sunday morning Memorial Day observances were conducted in a battalion formation and worship services offered for the nearly 700 men and women in the battalion. It is a full schedule with but one weekend off for whatever recreational use the groups wish to do.

"The engineer battalion has an aviation section consisting of three pilots, a crew chief and ground crew. In addition to providing aerial reconnaissance and observation of the work sites, medical evacuation and equipment lifting capabilities, the pilots schedule after duty flights for anyone desiring. A medical section headed by a battalion surgeon provides medical coverage, administering shots and vaccinations, attending to daily sick call and offering emergency care even to evacuation to Kenner Army hospital at Fort Lee.

"The mess sections in all five companies qualify among the finest in the service. Food preparation even under the most difficult of field conditions is without peer, and there is always more than enough food to satisfy the most hungry soldier.

"Probably among the most unsung yet essential elements of the battalion are the records and payroll sections. Long hours are spent by specially trained administrative personnel in reviewing and updating records regarding a person's military and civilian education and work skills, promotion status, qualifications for medals and citations, medical history, his pay and allowances.

"A motor and heavy equipment section must oversee maintenance and provide repair service for all engineer vehicles, for the equipment must be in ready condition to do the job asked of them at a moment's notice.

"The engineer battalion, its headquarters and line companies are completely self-supporting and capable of operating as a single autonomous unit or attached to a larger parent unit in support of their operations.

On Friday the battalion moved from Fort Pickett to Little Creek, Va., and the Naval Amphibious base. There they were to increase their knowledge and capabilities in a classroom setting. They were to be instructed by Navy and Marine personnel on how to live on board a landing ship, store their equipment, disembark, and land on an unfriendly shore. They will be required to coordinate with other landing units and fulfill their assigned mission as combat engineers in conjunction with a total force operation."

Five-Year-Old Slightly Hurt

A 5-year-old boy was treated and released from the local hospital following an accident on Turkey Neck road Sunday afternoon.

William E. Day, Frostburg, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by his mother Mrs. Rose M. Day.

Donald R. DeWitt, Mt. Lake Park, was traveling north on Turkey Neck road a short distance north of Md. 135 about 5:30 p.m. The Day boy was walking along the east or northbound shoulder and then attempted to cross to the west side of the road. As he did, he ran into the side of the fender of the moving car of DeWitt. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater investigated and made no charges.

Dwight Hinebaugh, E. Oak Street, Oakland, received slight injuries when his car ran off the right side of Deer Park Avenue and struck the mail box of Mildred White. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater charged Hinebaugh with negligent driving.

William B. Heffner, Matthews, N. C., was slowing on Northbound U. S. 219 and was attempting to make a left turn onto the westbound ramp of U. S. 48 at Keyser Ridge. Marion E. Robertson, Grosse Point, Mich., was to the rear of the rig and started to pass in a 'no passing' zone. The two then collided. Tpr R. B. Westmoreland charged Robertson with passing in a 'no passing' zone in an accident last Tuesday.

A car and rig sideswiped on U. S. 40 just west of the New Germany road last Thursday afternoon on a short stretch of 2-lane westbound road. The rig operated by Maurice A. Beaplett, Westernport, was westbound on Rt. 40 on the outer of two lanes. Richard C. Lewis, Reisterstown, was on the inner lane. Lewis tried to pass the rig in the left lane but was unable to do so before the two lanes merged. Lewis then sideswiped the rig. Tpr. Westmoreland charged Lewis with passing on the left when unsafe.

Bond Sales Up

The state of Maryland had attained 23.4 percent of its 1976 quota of sales of E and H bonds at the end of March.

Cumulative totals amounted to $44,512,303 compared to $43,711, 965 for the same period last year. Nationally American citizens purchased more series E savings bonds in the first quarter than in any quarter since the war loans of 1945.

Sales in Garrett County for March totaled $33,580 for a total of $159,276 for the first quarter. This compared to $189,399 for the same period last year. The county stood sixteenth among the 23 counties and Baltimore city and showed 24.4 of its 1976 quota of $652,000.

County Obtains Percentage Of State Park Funds

A total of 15% of income collected at Deep Creek Lake, Herrington Manor, Swallow Falls, New Germany and Big Run State Parks has been turned over to the Garrett County treasury.

This year the amount totaled $19,446 and over the past ten years, $136,081. This reimbursement is required by law in lieu of land tax dollars.

An amount in excess of $172,000 was collected from all parks in 1974 for distribution to all of the counties. In 1966, Maryland counties received only $65,000.

Park fee increases have been relatively incremental (from $.50 per car in 1946 to the current $1.50) compared to the rise in county receipts.

The fees may have tripled in the last 30 years but county stipends tripled just within the last decade.

User fees, combined with income generated from rental facilities and concessions, cover approximately one-third of the Park Service's operational budget, according to Assistant Director Donald MacLauchlan.

The remainder of the Service's budget is appropriated from general funds by the Maryland General Assembly.

Going On Ninety-Five Years

A resume of the life of Miss Letta Friend, resident along the West Virginia-Maryland boundary line west of Friendsville, for many years, is given this week by Mrs. Evelyn G. Olsen of Glendale, California. Miss Friend is approaching the ninety-five year mark. She is now a resident of Hopemont State hospital, near Terra Alta.

Miss Friend, born "Arlette", arrived in the world February 8, 1882. Her father was Marshall Friend. She attended school in Maryland. Her home was in what was called "disputed territory". A state line was settled in 1910, putting the house and a few acres in West Virginia but keeping most of the 160 acre farm in Maryland. The family attended church at Webb's chapel, some two miles from home, in West Virginia.

She taught at Pine Swamp school, the John Friend school, Rush school, Barnum, McHenry, New Germany, White Rock, Sang Run and the McCabe schools, teaching twenty-six winters in all.

During her second year at Sang Run her school led in a reading ability test held by the County Representative, considered quite an honor since her pupils surpassed readers in schools where grades were taught separately.

Until three years ago she maintained her residence at the home on the hill where she had always lived. Her father had built the two-story frame home, starting in the 1870s and adding on as his family grew until it was commodious and incorporated a natural spring in the porch-pantry.

Her favorite season is the Fall. Although she has given up housekeeping she keeps the same interests today as she prevously had, such as reading, writing letters, maintaining interest in people, enjoying nature in all seasons.

The article, some five pages, single spaced, typewritten, was too long to be included in its entirety.

THE WIND IS FREE

. . . and so is underground water. The initial cost may be more, but "the ecological machine of the century" doesn't require running electric lines; and, best of all, there's no electric bill to pay.

AERMOTOR windmills require nominal attention . . . usually just change the oil once a year and, then, just let them pump your water requirements.

Aurora Students At Conservation Camp This Week

As a result of the interest shown by both the First National and Garrett National banks in Conservation, three Aurora High School students were able to attend the 35th Annual West Virginia Conservation Camp, held at Camp Caesar, Webster Springs, W. Va. this week.

Faye Radford was awarded a scholarship by the Garrett National for her work in conservation. She is a junior at Aurora High School and is interested in veterinary medicine. During the past year she cared for nearly 30 wild animals, including a nest of skunks.

Ricky Winters was awarded a scholarship by the First National for his interest in Conservation. Rick is a sophomore at Aurora. He helps his father operate the home farm and has helped control soil erosion, plant trees and conducts other activities to improve the farm operation.

Because of the interest stimulated by these awards and the program sponsored by the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources, the Aurora Chapter of Future Farmers of America was awarded the Maple Award, for tree planting, at the West Virginia Youth Conservation Day, held at North Bend State Park. The award included $100.00 and an additional scholarship to Conservation Camp. This scholarship was awarded to Ronnie Spaid as a result of his expressed interest in conservation. Ronnie is a Sophomore at Aurora and is active in the home farm operation.

The three departed for Camp Caesar on Monday. There they are attending classes on soil conservation, fish and wildlife management, forest management, hunting and fishing safety, and environmental management. They will return Saturday.

The meeting was concluded with each one cooking her dinner over an open campfire. In attendance were Marilyn Enlow, Debbie Taylor, Dianne Taylor and Margie Fratz.

Northern Rescue Squad Receives Hurst Tool

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad recently received a Hurst Tool through a grant made possible by the EMS Region I Council. Twenty percent of the $5,000 cost was required of the Rescue Squad.

This tool is an implement for assisting in the removal of injured persons from wrecked vehicles. It can push, pull and cut.

A demonstration of the tool was given by Ed Cutrell, a representative of the Hurst Tool Company. Attending were Barry Beal, Hob Bowser, Ron Bowser, Pete Crowell, Ron Folk, Paul Maust, Don Ringer, George Walker, Jim Wilburn, and Raymond Yoder. The demonstration was held at the Gordon House residence in Grantsville. Mr. House donated a car for the event.

Barry Beal, Rescue Truck Lieutenant, has called a drill for all members of the Squad and interested observers from the community. The date of the drill will be announced.

The Junior Woman's Civic club of Oakland will sponsor a Self Defense course this summer for boys and girls from the fifth grade and up, and will be held at the Loch Lynn Elementary school on Tuesday and Thursday mornings starting June 22 and lasting through August 19.

Separate classes will be held according to age. Each class will be limited in size and will be filled on a first come, first served basis.

Lessons will be given by John Willetts, who has a first degree black belt and is registered as a Self Defense instructor with the Society of Black Belts of America.

Homes Available For The Elderly

Several homes are available in Garrett County for persons to live in with elderly homeowners in return for free room and board and a small salary.

W. Dale Ellis, Director of Senior Citizens Programs, said he has only been able to place one person in a home although 19 other homes are available.

"We have one home available in the Deep Creek Lake area where a woman, who suffered a heart attack, needs light housekeeping done. In return, she will pay a salary of at least $100.00 a month and offer free room and board. We have similar situations," Ellis explained.

Anyone interested in the available homes should contact Mr. Ellis at Community Action. All information will remain confidential, according to Mr. Ellis.

In the mail, Wednesday, Mr. Ellis received a letter from Levels, W. Va., near Paw Paw, asking for his help in finding a retired couple to occupy and tend to a farm of a retired gentleman. The man said he recently purchased a 10x53 mobile home for the couple.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 100 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1976 | PER COPY 15c | NUMBER 16

A Glorious Fourth . . .

The most stupendous, most expensive birthday any nation ever celebrated in all of human history could be July 4 this year, the Bicentennial of the USA. And it could miss the point entirely, according to Dr. George S. Benson, of Arkansas, writer of "Listen Americans."

It has been estimated that approximately $14 billion in tax money will be spent on the Bicentennial. Another $100 billion will be spent to buy commemorative merchandise and on travel. That will add up to a mighty big birthday party.

Dr. Benson asks, "But what is it really that we are celebrating?" Is it a democratic or republican form of government? Is it a free market place called the free enterprise system? It is all of these and more — but all of these are really based on just one word. That word is "created." Dr. Benson says further:

"Our Founding Fathers based the entire political and economic future of the United States on the simple

Phone Directories Being Prepared For Delivery

New Garrett County telephone directories, featuring a special Bicentennial cover, will be delivered by the 4th of July.

"This is a particularly helpful directory," says A. W. Meyer, C&P Telephone manager. "It contains important information about our new Direct Distance Dialing." DDD, which went into effect here June 12, enables callers to dial long distance without going through an operator.

By using the Call Guide in the front of the directory, customers can find out when long distance rates are lowest. In addition, sample rates are listed from Oakland to cities in other parts of the state and the continental United States.

"We are also introducing a consumer aid page showing a typical phone bill with specific entries explained," Meyer says. "This will help out customers understand exactly what they are paying for."

The Garrett County directory will be the first in Maryland to have the telephone bill information page. Money saving tips are listed on another new page in the Call Guide section.

Meyer reminds customers to note the new numbers for calling Directory Assistance and Repair Service.

The Bicentennial directory cover is being used on most of the 184 million directories issued by the Bell System this year. Each person depicted is speaking on a different telephone developed by the Bell System during the past 100 years. According to Meyer, "The cover is our way of joining the celebration of the nation's 200th birthday and at the same time marking an event of our own, the 100th anniversary of the invention of the telephone."

Some 471 directories are being distributed in the Gormania area according to Fred G. Kerns, customer service manager. The Gormania area distribution will begin June 24. Persons not receiving their directory by June 28 were being reminded to contact the Keyser business office of the telephone company.

Weather Is Warmer, Wetter

In contrast to the past several weeks, both temperature and rainfall were above normal. Much humidity and haze were noticeable during the past week also. In other words the week's weather has been warm and somewhat wet. Summer begins Monday.

A hazy sun with variable cloudiness persisted all week except a heavy thunder shower just past noon Sunday and light rain last evening. Sunday's storm dropped .9 inch of rain, with last evening's showers amounting to .3 inch. There was less humidity yesterday.

Temperatures averaged 4.2 degrees above normal. Highs averaged 80.3 degrees or 2.6 above normal. The highest was Saturday's 84 degrees. Lows averaged 57.7 degrees or 5.7 degrees above normal. The low was 50 degrees Friday.

Summer begins very early Monday morning, 2:24 a.m. (DST) to be exact. The sun is at its most distant point north and will begin its journey south with the days becoming shorter until next December. Daylight will be 15 hours and 37 minutes long.

By the way, persons wanting to know the temperature on the centigrade scale (metric), the clock-thermometer at the bank in Oakland will give it. As an example if it is 72 degrees F. it will be 22 degrees C.

Schwing Selects Minnesota "U"

David "Chip" Schwing, 17, plans to attend the Twin Cities campus of the University of Minnesota this fall and will enter the Institute of Technology and major in architecture.

He also hopes to take advantage of Minnesota's urban planning option under which he would work with the planning commission of Minneapolis.

"Chip" was awarded the Danforth "I Dare You" award at Northern during the recent graduation ceremonies at Northern High school.

He was editor of "The Viking" student newspaper, as well as a staff member-artist of the "Nordique," Northern's literary magazine. His features and art work in Viking critiques by Quill and Scroll, Columbia Scholastic Press, and Maryland Scholastic Press competitions.
